

B. C. METHODISTS PROUD OF INTER-RACIAL PROJECT

Washington (AP)—Members of Asbury Methodist church are proud of the success which they have had with the operation of an interracial housing project. Last week, the 31 white and eight Negro families had an "open house" celebration in Reynolds Apartments which attested to the "complete harmony" in which they have lived more than a year.

The church purchased the property in October 1946, for $200,000. It plans eventually to establish a community and child welfare center. According to the Rev. Robert M. Williams, only eight white families have moved from the apartment house during the last year, and three others have sub leased their apartments to other white families. Most of the tenants are government employees or professional people.

"We feel that this is a great example of racial harmony in the community and that its successful operation is noteworthy," Rev. Williams said.

CHAPLAIN WIFE SEEKS RETURN OF HER CHILDREN

Chicago (AP)—Mrs. Carroll Drake Faulkner, of New York City, paused between trains here Friday enroute home from Chanute field, the aviation training center where she had gone seeking her two children who had been removed from her Gotham home last week by her husband, Capt. Matthew Faulkner.

Mrs. Faulkner who was unsuccessful in finding the children at Chanute field, where her husband is stationed, said the chaplain had visited them in her New York apartment and threatened her and she left, and that when she returned the children were gone.

Chaplain Faulkner, a dashing member of the air force, filed a separation suit immediately after he secured the children. He is said to allege that Mrs. Faulkner has become infatuated with Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis and that the boxer has showered gifts of various kinds, including furs, jewelry and perfume.

Joe Louis was not in Chicago when Mrs. Faulkner arrived and is said to have denied, in total, the chaplain's charges. He spent the holidays with Marva and their two children and on several occasions was seen escorting Marva in public places during Christmas week.

BISHOP BROOKS HEADS SOCIAL ACTION GROUP

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—(AP)—Bishop Robert Nathaniel Brooks, prelate of the New Orleans area of the Methodist church, became the first Negro to be elected president of the Methodist Federation for Social Action, an unofficial body of the Methodist church, when it was unanimously chosen for the position during the 40th annual meeting here last week.

Born at Hollis, N. C., Bishop Brooks was educated at Bennett college, where he received a bachelor of arts degree; Garmon Theological Seminary and Garrett Biblical Institute, receiving from each a degree of bachelor of divinity; and an A. M. degree from Northwestern University. He did postgraduate work at Union Theological Seminary and Oxford university.

In 1944, he was elected to the episcopacy and assigned as head of the New Orleans area with 624 churches under his jurisdiction. The bishop recently returned from an official mission to Africa as representative of the council of bishops, and has been assigned to make a tour of South and Latin America next summer.

SEEKING A SCHOLAR-ADMINISTRATOR AT N. CAROLINA COLLEGE

RALEIGH—"A sound man who is both scholar and administrator" will be "dedicated" to an institution devoted to truth and the spreading of truth" in the type of president that trustees of the N. C. College at Durham are seeking.

Capus Waynick of Raleigh, trustee of the college since the Hoag administration and director of the Venereal Disease Educational Institute and the North Carolina Social Hygiene Society, listed these as some of the necessary qualities required in a successor to Dr. James E. Shepard as president of the North Carolina College at Durham.

In a two hour interview with two representatives of the North Carolina Newspaper Network, Waynick last Saturday in Raleigh said the trustees were without adequate Negro representation to appraise properly the situation. Aside from the racial aspects of the situation, Waynick said the trustees also faced an additional dilemma which he stated as follows:

"Whether to go outside the faculty or stay inside the faculty to promote a member of the faculty." President of the North Carolinians at Durham is a problem, but the institution's trustees have decided as of January 2.

Waynick, speaking much of himself, described his record as impressive as one of the best informed Southern public officials encountered in 20 years of newspaper reporting. In an extremely realistic view of the contemporary southern scene and in a statement that was calculated to serve the best interests of whites and Negroes alike, Waynick said of the natural successor to the late Dr. Shepard:

"To visit Methodist mission stations, schools and hospitals for the division of foreign missions of the church."

Prior to being elected to the episcopacy, he served as president of Haven Teachers' College, Meridian, Miss.; Central Alabama College, Birmingham; and Sam Houston College, Austin, Texas, and as professor in church history at Gammon Theological seminary.

Other officers elected included Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam, New York; and Dr. Karl Downs, Austin, Tex., president of Samuel Huston College, both named as members of the 40-man executive committee.

"In the president of the North Carolina College at Durham, the trustees are seeking neither subterfuge or insincerity."

Assuming that Negroes compose approximately one third of the population of North Carolina, Waynick said this state could not become a "great state" unless full educational and economic opportunities were given to the Negro population. "Leadership will be more important in the future than in the past," he said, noting the world-shaking shifts in political ideology and socio-economic developments.

Waynick, who told reporters that he was of Germanic descent, emphasized his belief that "Negroes must have university opportunities. We must provide for young Negroes educational opportunities at graduate level," Waynick said.

The 58 year old native of Birmingham who has led the busy life as newspaper editor, state highway commissioner, and state director of purchases and contracts, views realistically the swing of the educational pendulum in America.

"Whether we like it or not, the trend is more and more again toward integration," Waynick said unflinchingly.
