EDITOR SCORES NEGRO LIBERALS

Chicago (ANP) — Oklahoma Black Dispatch editor Rosecoe Dunjee who led Ida Lois Sipuel's fight for entrance in the University of Oklahoma Law school says in April Negro Digest that the spirit of the Negro today is not up to the level of white liberalism and represents a dangerous situation...

"Uncle Tom Negroes in Oklahoma City said that I had ruined everything," Dunjee, who is a NAACP official declares, because court testimony he gave was headlined in white newspapers as "Negro Editor Wants To Marry White Women."

"I had simply taken the position on the stand, however, that I was opposed to a law denying the right of a man to select his mate."

The court was not misled by the headlines of the white dailies, Dunjee adds, and his side won the segregation case which was being tried.

"The white judge wrote an opinion which might have been handed down by Lincoln. This proved conclusively that the spirit of the Negro today is not up to the level of white liberalism," Dunjee asserts, and concludes: "That is a dangerous situation!"

Bennett Plans Annual Homemaking Institute

GREENSBORO — "Building Child Life for One World," has been selected as the theme of the twenty-second annual Home-Making Institute which will be held at Bennett College April 11-18, it was announced here last week by President David D. Jones.

In announcing the theme, Dr. Jones explained that the planning committee had agreed to a point of emphasis which seemed to have far-reaching implications for securing a peaceful world and with the feeling that one of the best approaches to world order is through the world's children.

The week long series of conferences and discussions will consider many aspects of the problems to be faced in educating for one world including a study of the present "war hysteria" on children in the fluency of a double-standard of civil rights, religious and economic freedom, the human cost of class and cast systems, and the threats of purges.

Another topic will explain the continuance of hatreds which are created in childhood and persist through adult life.

An extensive list of prominent speakers is being invited to appear at the college during the week. Dr. Jones said.

The Home-Making Institute was first held in 1926 after the reorganization of the institution as a woman's college and since that time annual observance has sought to call attention to many phases of home and family and disseminate information on the subject among the students and community.
