THE COOPERATIVE BY G. E. CHEEK Business knows no color. I am not sure the average Negro knows this. I am not sure the average white man knows this. Yet we have evidences all around us which prove that business knows no color, and that people do not trade on color very far, but rather on business principles.

The behavior of a grain of corn dropped into the soil is not dependent on the color of the hand that planted it, but rather on the skill of the man whose hand planted the corn. The man who cooperates best with nature's laws - prepares the best seed bed, and plants at the right season; uses the right fertilizer - food value needed for the corn which the soil does not contain.

Methods of cultivation that will retain the moisture during the dry season and also takes care of the excess moisture during the wet season - that man will reap the biggest harvest.

In like manner, banks, insurance, mercantile businesses of all kinds will succeed in proportion to those who establish and operate business by approved laws for successful operations of that business.

Plans for the establishment of a complete food market by the Wake Consumer Mutual Association provides a fine opportunity for the readers of this paper to join a cooperative business thereby providing an opportunity to prove the above point - that business knows no color. The project will afford a fine laboratory for study and practice in a field which is close to the appetites and stomachs of every family.

One-half cup of canned salmon added to an omelette recipe will provide an appetizing change for a meatless day. Serve with tomato sauce.

Sonneteer Tells The Killers Their Fate

KILLERS THEIR FATE By Ricardo Weeks for ANP "Sonneteer" said the killers, "Your charming days are through. Some hooded men have paid us. To turn our gun, on you."

"They claim that you spell danger. To their creed of Hate, 'And feel you should be silenced. Before it is too late."

Sonneteer said, "Listen, 'Nobody frightens me. 'Not even Jim Crow's bullets. 'Of death and misery."

"Those self-same men who paid you To kill me are to blame. 'For the lynchings and race riots. 'That mar Columbia's name."

"Is men like them who should be 'Erased from our sight, 'Nobility in me who dare to. 'Engage in Freedom's fight."

"Do you recall Abe Lincoln, 'The Son of Liberty? 'He said once that this nation. 'Cannot exist half free."

"One day we will be rid of. 'Betrayers such as you, 'And make the homeland safe for. 'The black man and the Jew."

"So go on and pull your triggers, 'I'll never cease to be. 'Because you see, I'm Freedom, 'And runs can't silence me!"

MAPLE TEMPLE

By JOSEPHINE TERRELL The Woman's Club met at the home of Mrs. Mary Alston of 418 South Haywood Street. Important business was discussed and a delicious repast of frozen fruit salad with cookies was served.

The Junior Usher Board gave a tea at the home of Mrs. Burgy of 823 E. Martin street for the benefit of the church. Every one present was highly entertained.

The Floral Club sponsored a spiritual tea at the home of Mrs. Mary Alston Sunday afternoon from 5:30 to 6:30.

We are happy to have the Rev. J. W. Upchurch back after a long absence while away assisting in a revival service. The Rev. Mr. Upchurch is the father of our church whom we all love.

Let us come boldly to the throne of grace on Wednesday night. This is our regular prayer meeting night. All are welcome.

Regular worship services were held at the Maple Temple Congregational Christian Church with the Rev. Mr. Manning officiating. The senior choir furnished the music.

We have on our sick list Mrs. Naomi Burt, Mrs. Estella Pulley and the Rev. Mr. S. W. Albright. We wish them a speedy recovery.

"Pressing" means to set iron directly down upon fabric and lift it directly upward without to and fro action. Woods must always be pressed to avoid distortion of shape and damage to surface finish. Delicate lace, nets, and the like should also be pressed, lest the iron tear the delicate meshes. Use a pressing cloth.
