nister fired two warning shots. Smith kept running. Then Bannister brought him down with two shots. Meanwhile the crowd had gone wild. Bricks and other missiles were thrown at the policemen during the height of the rioting the first two scamen escaped. Two more off-duty policemen came to the aid of their comrades. The crowd still tried to free four men under arrest. Finally several carloads of police reinforcements arrived and the crowd was dispersed.

At the hearing Sunday Robert Frazier, 28, merchant seaman, and Rupert Balmer, 23, were charged with inciting to riot and were held in $2,500 bail. Edward Kelly was fined $10 and cost on charges of interfering with an officer. Smith was confined to Graduate hospital for treatment.

Move Headquarters

Miss Mary Price, chairman of the North Carolina Progressive Party announced also that the party has completed the moving of its headquarters from Greensboro to Durham.

In explaining the move Miss Price cited Durham's large Negro population as well as the city's large trade union membership from which the party expects to derive its major support.

Earlier in the week the party filed an appeal in the State Supreme Court in an effort to secure negation of a lower court ruling which held last March that the party had no right to sue the state board of elections in its effort to obtain clarification of rules affecting the party in the state.

there is a serious shortage in qualified leadership," he declared. "On the basis of the 1940 census under a full equality program, Negroes would need twice as many public schools teachers, five times as many dentists, ten times as many pharmacists, and eighty times as many civil engineers. We must, on the basis of character and ability, be prepared to measure up in every respect to the demands of first class citizenship and inspire others less fortunate than we are to do like-wise," he concluded.

President Daniel, in closing remarks, announced that summer commencement graduates brought to 58 the total receiving degrees during the academic year. He named September 16 as the school opening date for new students with old students to report September 20. Dr. Daniel recognized a gift to the institution of $112.50 from the summer session graduating class with which to erect a new "Shaw University" sign on the front campus.

Music for the exercises was directed by T. Curtis Mayo, a member of the summer session faculty, and included solos by Mrs. Louise P. Perrin, soprano, and Quentin Miller, baritone. The opening prayer was offered by the Rev. S. F. Daly and the closing prayer was offered by the Rev. Charles R. McCreary both members of the School of Religion faculty.

Bachelor of Arts degrees were conferred on the following: Rosa Birdsell, Nazareth; Charles Bland, Goldsboro; Annie Boney, Rox Hill; Willa Buchanan, Wadesboro; Maggie Chase, Rocky Mount; Willia Chavis, Oxford; Ethel Coley, Wilson; Annie Davis, Weldon; Cora Davis, Bayboro; Lucy Eaton Raleigh; Ruth Edwards, Snow Hill; Martha Estes, Weldon, Virginia; Nan Frazier, Raleigh; Delores Hall, Ahoskie; Edward Hardy, Enfield; Helena Hardy, Littleton; Margaret Harrell, Woodland; Edna Mae Harris, Norlina; Mary Hill St. Pauls; Armedia Hilliard Rocky Mount; Annie Howell Raleigh.

ASSAULT STORY

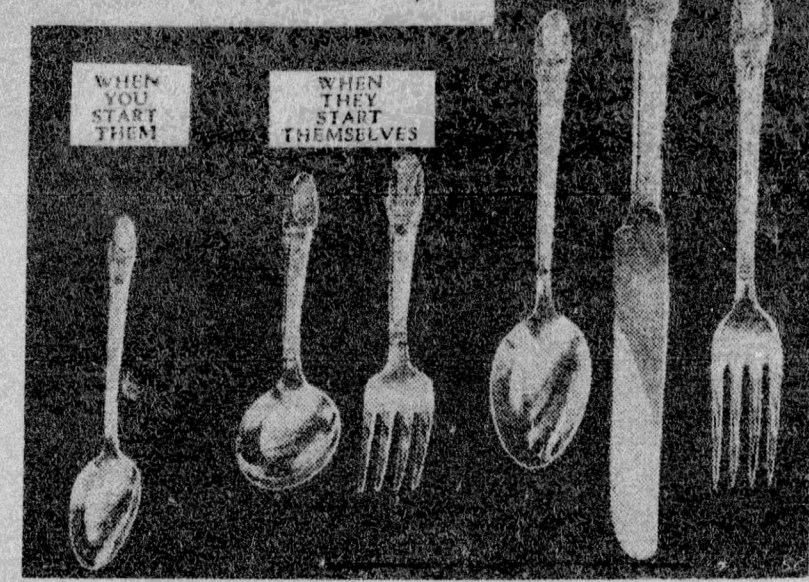

into the woods where her assailant forced her to perform an unnatural sex act before robbing her of $30.

She further claimed that her wrist was broken during the struggle with the assailant. A physician who examined her after the alleged assault said that he found no evidence of criminal assault.

Police and bloodhounds who searched the area where the attack was supposed to have taken place could find no sign of the attacker.

Efforts to prevent fire damage to forest lands probably can never be perfect but the record shows they do greatly reduce the number of fires and hold down the destruction.

Proper Silver Essential For Baby

1847 Rogers Bros. 'First Love'

By Frances Ainsworth Children and mothers today are certainly fortunate. So many scientifically planned things to make life easier for them both. With this new step-up set in proper sizes for each stage in a child's development, it's so much simpler for a mother to teach her child how to use silverware properly.

We had an interesting chat with the jeweler. I remarked that I remembered Mother buying 1847 Rogers Bros. way back when I was a little girl, and he told us that the three Rogers brothers, William, Asa and Simon, were the first to turn out silverplate on a commercial basis when, after years of experimenting, they founded the American silverplate industry in 1847. How true that time virtually all silverware was made by melting silver coins and then fashioning the silver into spoons and forks, so that silverware was confined only to the very wealthy. Today, thanks to their efforts, every family is enabled to give its children fine silverware right from the start so they'll grow up with an appreciation for the beauty of correct silver. Aren't we Americans lucky!

The complete set consists of a tiny spoon for when the mother starts to feed the baby, a small spoon and fork for when baby starts to feed himself, and a youngster set for when the child becomes expert at manipulating a knife, fork and spoon. Jean bought the set. The tiny spoon is something very new... very small, about the size of an after-dinner spoon. The jeweler told us that many mothers and doctors approve of it because they feel that many baby spoons are too large for a tiny baby's mouth. I particularly like the small spoon and fork. The youngster set will be very welcome when the child is older and ready for it.

LIONEL HAMPTON FAN CLUB PASS 700 MARK

SAN FRANCISCO — The announcement this week that Lionel Hampton Fan Clubs throughout America now total 700 is additional proof that Hampton is not only interested in youth, but that the teenagers have taken him over as "their very own."

Hampton is now on the West Coast for an intensive series of dance and concert dates. His revue and show open at the Million Dollar Theatre, Tuesday, August 24. The intense loyalty of Bing Crosby and Frank Sinatra fans is no greater than that of Hampton fans, who number in the thousands. That large number of his fans are white youth comes as no surprise when it is remembered that the very first Lionel Hampton Fan Club was formed by a group of young white girls in Toledo, Ohio.

Recently, while playing an engagement in Louisville, Kentucky, the famous bandleader and virtuoso harp artist was presented an award by clubs of White and Negro fans.

With the number of fan clubs growing every day, interested youth are advised to get revised official charters for their organizations. They may be obtained by writing Lionel Hampton at 745 5th Avenue, New York City.

The Lionel Hampton Fan Clubs are a very important part of Hampton's nation-wide "Teen Age" program, which is known from coast to coast. The young men and women cannot only get together to listen to Hampton's unequalled music, but can also discuss and work out together their various "teen-age problems." The interest in Hampton's distinctive style has drawn together many a teen-ager, regardless of race or color. For instance, his "bebop" album has caused a sensation and "I Miss You So" is the swan song for the young romantics.

The dynamic young maestro regards his fan clubs with a fond affection for he realizes that music not only "hath charm to soothe the savage beast," but acts across all barriers as well. And the resulting unity, Hampton has said, is the goal of his every endeavor.

This story behind this sense of deep obligation to youth goes back to the days of Hampton's youth. He was a newsboy, just like many other American lads, standing on street corners and peddling papers on his route. Fame and fortune, traditional heritage of every boy and girl in this county, was ahead, the road to the top was full of obstacles.

Only two things saw him through — his rugged determination and the help he received from men and women who saw even then the spark of genius burning in boyish eyes.

Young Lionel became drummer in a newsboys' band and from that point his career stretched before him like an open road. He carried his love for music wherever he went, and at night listened at the open window of a Chicago night club to catch the style and technique of an early jazz band.

RECEIVED AID — And so it went, all along the road to success — there have been those who held out a helping hand when it was most needed. As his own niche in the music hall of fame became more and more secure, Hampton promised himself to be the "benefactor to youth" that others had been to him. Hampton's custom of giving

Voting Of Negroes In S. C. Primary Ends Long Fight For Rights

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—Participation of an estimated 35,000 Negro voters in the Democratic primaries of South Carolina was hailed this week by Thurgood Marshall, NAACP special counsel, as "the culmination of a 23-year fight by the Association to establish the right of Negro citizens to exercise their choice of political candidates."

Mr. Marshall was in South Carolina on the day of the primary election, August 10th to witness the results of the decision handed down by Federal District Judge J. Walter Waring and the U. S. Circuit Court upholding the right of Negro citizens to vote in the Democratic primary in South Carolina.

Assisted by Harold Boulware of Columbia, S. C. and other N. A. A. C. P. attorneys, he represented Negro citizens in the cases which invalidated the "white primary" schemes of the politicians. With this development the right of Negro citizens to vote in the primaries and general elections any state in the Union has been established.

MAKES STATEMENT In a statement released here, Mr. Marshall said: "I personally watched Negro and white citizens of South Carolina, in Charleston and Columbia, voting together in the primary election last Tuesday. This is the culmination of a long, drawn out 23-year fight by the NAACP to establish the right of Negro citizens to exercise their choice of political candidates."

Sixty per cent of North Carolina's farm families now have radios.

The Old Tobacco Bell is well suited to the production of pasture and hay crops when approved practices are followed.
