THE WEEK IN GOLDSBORO

By E. A. THORNTON

Mrs. Ruth A. Cole, 421 W. Elm Street, has been confined to bed because of illness for the past two weeks. Mrs. Cole is a member of the faculty at Baile's School. We wish for Mrs. Cole an early recovery.

Mrs. Addie G. Thornton attended the Shaw and Howard football game in Washington, D. C., Saturday, October 30th. Mrs. Thornton reports a very fine game and trip. She was joined in Raleigh by her niece, Miss Val Artis.

Norwood Boyette, the son of Mrs. Lillie B. Boyette, is studying in New York City. During the war he served with the 92nd Division as First Sergeant and studied for a while at the University of Florence, Italy.

Miss Ida L. Worrell announces the marriage of her mother, Mrs. Minnie Worrells, to James Coley of 411 Canal Street. The couple will be at home on Canal Street after a week of honeymooning.

Lyric Soprano To Appear

In Recital

Miss Mattie Dorch Hatcher, lyric soprano, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Robert Hatcher, and a member of the senior class at Dillard High school, will appear in one of her series of song recitals at Dudley graded school auditorium, Dudley, Friday, November 11, 9:45 p.m. Miss Hatcher, only sixteen years old, has been studying at the Juilliard School of Music, New York City for the past two summers. She is one of Goldsboro's most beloved and outstanding lyric sopranos. She has appeared in recitals in most of the leading cities in Eastern Carolina. Her most recent recital was given at the C. M. Eps High school auditorium in Greenville, N. C. She is a member of the Dillard High School glee club, the girls quartette, and is scheduled to appear on the program "Stars of Tomorrow" over WPTF during the month of December 1948. The program is sponsored by the First Congregational Church of Dudley. She is very fond of children, active in her church and Sunday school activities, and is primary teacher in her Sunday school at Shiloh Presbyterian Church of which the Rev. R. P. Richardson is pastor.

Dillard Tigers Bow To New Bern Eleven

The Dillard High School Tigers went down to their fifth straight defeat of the season before the powerful West Street High School eleven in New Bern Thursday night, October 28, by the score of 24-0.

The first few minutes of the game featured a punting duel between the opposing kickers. New Bern soon got her running machine in action and a first touch-down resulted.

During the second half, the Dillard Tigers tried to get their air attack operating, but this too, was a failure.

The organization named as supporters of the plan are Phi Beta Sigma Fraternity, Conference of Negro Land Grant Colleges, American Teachers Association and the Improved Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks. The project is currently in operation at Atlanta University, Fort Valley, Tennessee and Virginia State College, and Hampton Institute, aided by grants totaling $49,000 from the Carnegie Corporation.

Dr. Caliver said that the program offered workshops, college courses and fellowship to provide teachers and community leaders specifically trained for adult work. The assumption of greater responsibility by 50 Negro colleges in preparing 5,000 teachers and 250 supervisors of adult education will lead to making between 15,000 and 20,000 individuals literate in another year, he added.

1,000 AIDED

During the last two years, nearly 1,000 teachers of adults have been aided by the project. Dr. Caliver pointed out that these teachers have donated $15,000 to further the work, as evidence of their faith in it.

Through June 30, $45,000 has been expended on the project. Allowments of $17,000 to six participating colleges were spent in three areas for demonstration classes and college courses in adult education. Hampton served as custodian of the funds provided by the Carnegie corporation.

In addition, services for the adult illiteracy work have been contributed without cost to the government by Miner Teachers College, Washington, several divisions of the D. C. public schools and those in Baltimore, Albany, Ga., Little Rock; and the state departments of education in Alabama, Arkansas, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, South Carolina, and Texas.

Dr. Caliver held that the "time-lines" of the project was emphasized by the army experiences during the last war and the anticipated

VETERAN POSTAL WORKER RETIRES

By MOSES ROUNTREE

Well, just one more question. Who's gonna be responsible for those switch boxes post office? I can't complain about it.

Oh, yeah. The department goes home still. Besides we have good help right this now. The course amount last over a day. I did make the ink flows by holding a gun of water to an ounce of ink powder. No ink based any complaint of the me, did you?"

DRY CLEANING SCHOOL — An idea born in the mind of a dentist and percolated with the help of a group of businessmen led to the establishment of the only school in Michigan offering complete courses in dry and wet cleaning and finishing over two years ago. The school is known as the Major City Trade School. The idea came to Dr. Harry Bell, who realized the need for such a school to meet the demand for thoroughly trained workers in the big metropolitan Detroit cleaning plants.

Opened to student of all races, the school has a mixed faculty of experienced instructors. The general course covers dry and wet cleaning, spotting and finishing. Day or evening classes are offered.

Well, I can't say that I don't tell him. In fact, I never heard any complaint about you, anyway. But you didn't get a damn thing. As a token of their esteem, his fellow employees presented him with a serviceable pocket for a going away gift.

We asked why his preference of the six postmasters he has served under — Dobson, Grant, Michigan, Simkins, Edwards, and Hawley. Knowing him for the police fellow that he is, we had already guessed his answer. "They were all very fine gentlemen."

MIDDLE OF ROAD — Well, now that you can speak up on the subject, just what are you, Web — a Democrat or Republican?"

Here again we might have guessed his middle-of-the-road stand. "Well coming in under a Republican, I always vote that way in the presidential election. But for state and local offices, I vote Democratic."

Webster has seen three additions made to the original post office building, and the personnel increase from less than a dozen to its present complement of forty-five. Although the postal staff now numbers three, Web did all the work himself when he first went in, at fifty dollars a month. "There were no eight-hour days then," he said. "You just worked till you got through. And you didn't get extra pay for overtime," he emphasized.

"Did anything exciting ever happen to you on the job?" we asked. "Well, the post office was burglarized a few years back, you remember. But I wasn't on duty at the time. We did have a fine sequence though — soon after I started to work, the old St. Simon Hardware building, situated about where the Daniels barbecue stand is, burned down, and I had to patrol the post office roof with buckets of water, to keep the sparks from catching."

PLANS VISIT — Webster has recently returned from Europe, where he served as a consultant to the American delegation to the Paris session of the United Nations General Assembly.

The part of NAACP youth in veterans affairs will be discussed at the Conference by George L. Holland, Veterans Administration liaison representative who served in the European theater and in the Southwest Pacific with the 92nd and 93rd Divisions.

Presiding at the Conference, at which more than 250 representatives of NAACP youth councils and college chapters will discuss issues of importance to the Negro in America, will be W. W. Law, a student at Georgia State College and past president of the Savannah NAACP Youth Council.

WILSON TOTS MARK THIRD BIRTHDAY

Donnell, Ronald and Connell Wilson, the sons of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Wilson, 617 Slaughter Street, Goldsboro, celebrated their first and third birthday during the month of October. Donnell and Connell are twins celebrated their first birthday on October 9th. Their hobbies are Milk and More Milk.

"After you get through visiting around, what then?" we asked. "Won't you get tired of loafing?" "I don't aim to loaf, the wily Webster said. "There's nothing against me getting a new part-time job, you know."

ed problems of the selective service here at home."

He also reported that representatives of Belgium, Haiti, China, England, India, Indonesia and South Africa and UNESCO officials have sought information from this project as an aid in combating illiteracy among other peoples.

Bladen County has planned an all-out anti-rat campaign to be conducted during November. It is estimated that rats cost the people of the county $200,000 annually.
