SHOTGUN BLOW NETS MAN SIX MONTHS ON ROAD

After breaking away to striking H. V. Roue in the rear with a shotgun, Richard Murray, 40, of South East Street, was sentenced Friday in City Court to six months in the state prison.

According to the Roue, who gave his address as 414 South East Street, he was accosted around mid-morning Saturday, November 28, at the corner of East and South Streets, after he had gone to Murray's residence to speak to the defendant concerning a debt he owned him.

Murray contended that Roue threatened him with a knife, and that Roue was drunk when he went to Murray's room and accused him about two alleged bank tellers. Then, he said, the respondent

EXECUTIVE BODY OF CREDIT UNION MEET HERE

The Executive Committee of the North Carolina Council of Credit Unions will meet in Raleigh Tuesday, December 7, to formulate plans and chart their course to double the success of credit unions and cooperatives of North Carolina in the coming year 1949.

Already there are more than 120 Credit Union Cooperatives with savings upward of $1,000,000 operated by Negroes in North Carolina. There are several cooperative grocery stores which hold membership in the North Carolina Council.

The Co-op Super Market in Raleigh, which is operated by the Wake Consumers Mutual Association, is the largest and most recently opened store and is a member of the North Carolina Council.

The Executive Committee of the Council is interested in correlating the strength and possible services of the 100 or more Cooperatives for the mutual benefit of every member organization.

man, The Reverend J. E. Tillet, Education.

A cotton crop of 200,000 bales is now forecast for North Carolina in 1949.

Results of a medical care survey in Greene County are contained in a new bulletin published by the North Carolina Experiment Station.
