...with the Ohio State University for his extradition. As a result of the publicity given the case throughout the state and nation a number of Ohio civic and religious groups joined in a study to graduate placement of students in public health education and to react from North Carolina College at Durham (1944-1948). Mrs. E. A. White has already begun a study of "Dance Education - Nature, Scope, and Sociological Implication in Eleven Negro Colleges in North Carolina."

OHIO GOV.

Mrs. Margaret L. Watson of the department of Home Economics was allowed to initiate on a limited basis a study of Developing Standardized Techniques and Methods of Procedures for Foods Laboratory Classes.

Following the hearing Secretary Hatchford stated that in sufficient evidence had been produced to warrant the return of Coston and that he would recommend that the Governor deny the extradition writ. Coston, who made a flat denial of his wife's charges, said through his lawyers that the charges had arisen out of the desire of his neighbors to acquire his prosperous farm on which approximately 1,000 fruit trees are about ready to begin bearing.

$58,000 SUIT

The writ of attachment made out against the church's board of incorporators, authorizes seizure of personal and real property of the church in New York and was issued by the New York State Supreme Court in August of 1947. The Rev. Mr. Taylor bases his suit upon the church law which entitles traveling ministers to a $2,000 per year minimum salary plus subsistence and traveling expenses for himself and family.

REGIONAL PLAN

Dr. F. D. Patterson of Tuskegee, contacted in Chicago, said that although he opposed the extension of segregation in education and did not believe in segregation at all, the regional plan in veterinary medicine is sound. "Practically no chance exists for Negroes to get into the 34 qualified veterinary schools which are all there are in this country," he said. "There is no way to support such a school except to have students from across state lines."

NEGROES GREATEST

businesses and trades in labor unions, 13 employment agencies, and a few scattered governmental professional construction and other. Of this three-year, total net single one has been forced to the court. Careful consideration of the issues, thorough investigations, unbiased hearing of both sides and efforts for conciliation by the committee have reduced friction. Joseph L. Bustard, an assistant commissioner of education, heads the anti-bias council of the state. On the Negro question the report reads: "Negroes suffer discrimination to a greater extent than all other so-called minorities in New Jersey."

On the other hand, the number of complaints received from certain large urban areas that report the greatest number in the first two years has decreased. This is a healthy sign and shows the effect of policy changes on the part of employers and labor organizations due to their understanding of and willingness to cooperate with the law. The committee also noted that the new law has opened new job opportunities for minority groups. It said: "It must be kept in mind that the number of complaints involving employment discrimination in no way means the number of new job opportunities of so-called minority groups as a result of the law against discrimination."

$500 Aid Reported By Bishop Walks For European Children

NEW YORK (AP) — Bishop W. J. Walks of the AME Zion church announced here last week that $500 had been raised to help the number of complaints involving employment discrimination in no way means the number of new job opportunities of so-called minority groups as a result of the law against discrimination."

He reported that $400 of the amount was sent through Dr. H. H. South Leiper of the World Council of Churches by the Church World Service last summer.

At a hearing held this week Paul Walkers, Coston's attorney, told Robert L. Hatchford, Gov. Herbert's executive secretary, that the State of North Carolina had no law upon its statute books which would permit the forced return of Coston to his indictment. Walkers was supported in this contention by Loyd Buescher and Clarence Sharpe, co-counsel for Coston.

Dr. Benjamin Mays, president of Morehouse college in Atlanta, "We ought to be honest and say it is being done to perpetuate segregation and not say we are doing it because of economics. Atty. Arthur D. Shores, Birmingham. It's a step forward in that it would provide educational facilities not now available. But it probably will be tested when a Negro wants to study for a profession within his own state."

Dr. H. F. Price, president, LeMoyn college, Memphis. "I agree that southern states do not have resources to provide adequate facilities for all its citizens and that regional education is a good thing. But if segregated regional education is a vehicle by means of which the pattern of segregation will be prolonged, then I would raise some doubt as to its validity."

Warren Cochran, secretary of an Atlanta Negro YMCA. "Ideally I object to the plan. Practically, it might be a solution; we have to make progress slowly. Our people desperately need so much that any step forward is good. Eventually, of course, if we are to conform with our democratic ideals, we must do away with segregation."

Dr. Charles S. Johnson, president, Fisk university, Nashville. "From the information available to me the action limits, rather than expands educational opportunities in the south. The $300,000 biennial budget jointly proposed by southern states for a Negro regional medical college would scarcely cover the annual deficit of the existing institution (Meharry) and could not possibly expand or improve its facilities. It does nothing that I can see for education."
