BOSWELL AMENDMENT OUTLAWED

MOBILE, Ala.—The lengthy fight to secure a free and unrestricted franchise for all American citizens moved another step toward victory Friday when a three-Judge Federal Court outlawed the discriminatory Boswell amendment to the Alabama State constitution.

The amendment, adopted following Federal Court rulings outlawing primary vote restrictions based upon race or color, called for the reading, writing and interpretation of sections of the constitution "to the satisfaction of" local registrars.

The decision, which followed two years of litigation instituted by the NAACP in behalf of 10 residents of Montgomery County, Ala., was handed down by Presiding Judge Leon McCord of the 5th U.S. Circcuit Court of Appeals following a two-day hearing.

Other justices who participated in the unanimous decision were U. S. District Judge Clarence Mullins of Birmingham author of the 13-page decision, and District Judge John McDuffie of Mobile.
