

RIGHTS PROGRAM

(Continued from page one.) bills had been "dropped" and stated that "their place in the legislative timetable of the Senate will have to be determined by their progress through the committee considering them." Consideration of the president's twenty-four point program, "all of which has merit" will take many months, according to the Senate majority leader.

The Illinois lawmaker's letter came in response to a telegram sent by Mr. Wilkins last week in protest against the apparent abandonment of civil rights legislation on the administration's "must" list for the 81st Congress. The NAACP assistant secretary demanded in his wire that a special session of Congress be called this summer "for the purpose of acting upon civil rights legislation."

AS TIME MARCHES ON

...ing and, to say the least interesting reading. This was due not so much to the factual content of the column as to the something of himself which Bill Strudwick wrote into it.

Never could he be accused of being a dispassionate or disinterested writer, for the commission of an injustice found him shouting, if such a thing is possible in print.

Similarly, the outstanding performance of a task, or the exhibition of thoughtfulness for one's fellow man found him heaping praises upon the doer. In his writing as in his living, Bill Strudwick was human and therefore subject to the sins of omission or commission which are a part of so being. Many persons met and many persons read Bill Strudwick and were the better for having done so.

"Next Door" By TED SHEARER

"SAY... DO YOU HAVE A BIG SISTER?"

It is therefore with the greatest of sympathy for his family and thousands of friends and a feeling of personal loss that the management and staff of the CAROLINIAN write a reluctant "30" to Bill Strudwick and "TIME MARCHES ON."

of 10,000 volumes to meet minimum requirements. Since then 200 new volumes have been added.

Original decision to set up a law school at Southern was made by George T. Madison, chairman of the Louisiana board of education. Dean Paul M. Hebert, dean of the LSU law school and an American judge at the Nurnberg trials, drafted plans for the school.

The actual work of making the school a reality was done by Dr. Felton G. Clark, president of Southern University.

SOUTHERN UNIV. LAW SCHOOL TO BE INSPECTED

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)—Officials at the law school of Southern University are looking at every visitor with a careful eye these days. Any day, inspectors from the American Bar association and the American Association of Law Schools are expected to walk in. These inspectors can make or break the two year old law school. It is up to them to approve the school as an accredited institution, approved it on condition, or reject the school.

If the school is not accredited it may mean the admittance of Negro students to white Louisiana State University to study law. The school at Southern was organized as a result of a U. S. Supreme court decision in the Gingles case. It came as a direct result of a suit by Charles Baffield of Louisiana.

THIRTEEN STUDENTS

Today the school has 13 students and four instructors. The four full-time faculty members, the minimum allowed, are A. A. Lenoir of Detroit, Rider Vane B. Kibler of New York, La., Phondy S. K. Brown of St. Louis, and Edward L. Patterson, Jr. of Chicago.

Eighting this Institute are two Louisiana men, LSU. They specialize in Louisiana civil law which is unusual in America because it does not follow the English common law but dates from the Napoleonic code.

The school was founded on a budget of $30,000. Half of this money was used to purchase a library

NAACP MEET TO HEAR PHILIP WILKIE

LOS ANGELES — Philip Wilkie, NAACP representative in the Indiana state legislature and son of the late Wendell Wilkie, will be among the principal speakers at the opening session of the 1949 annual conference of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People to be held here July 12-15.

ATLANTA GRADS TOLD OF NEED FOR WORK IN SOUTH

ATLANTA, Ga. — There is great work to be done in the South, Dr. Luther Harris Evans, the Librarian of Congress, told the 312 members of the graduating class at Atlanta University at commencement exercises held on Monday in the Lincoln Quadrangle.

Reference to John Gunther's description of the South, the "great land of the world," the speaker's address contained some words to inspire duty by the new kind of leadership and the new opportunities of the present. Nine bright-eyed graduates of arts, science and education at each of the four schools of the university were awarded $2,000 University of the South, Dr. Harris E. Evans.

Dr. Evans, speaking on "The Negro's Present Position," offered four areas of endeavor in which the members of the graduating class could find meaning: (1) always try and improve; (2) the arts of teaching; (3) social service and public welfare; and (4) international affairs.

Seven and one-half million non-farm households in the United States raised vegetables in 1948.

American prune and other dried fruits are in high favor in most European countries, and American raisins are popular, except in England where the highly-colored sorts are preferred.

Low Bids Listed For 4 Buildings

DURHAM — A one million dollar maintenance budget for the coming school year was adopted by the board of trustees of the North Carolina College at Durham during its final meeting last week.

A special building committee of the board announced also that four Durham companies were the low bidders for the construction of the $200,000 infirmary and health center to be built on the campus soon.

The board gave special attention to the strengthening of the graduate school faculty, adopted a resolution to name the proposed $920,000 library building. The James E. Shepard Memorial Library, and announced architects and engineers for the various permanent improvement projects.

For the erecting of the infirmary and health center the low bidder for general work was T. E. Poe and Son, Snow Building, Durham, $149,900; plumbing, Lloyd and Copeland Plumbing Company, Foster Street, Durham, $17,623; heating, B. and D. Plumbing and Heating Company, 1624 North Duke Street, Durham, $12,300; Electrical work, Thomson Electric Company, 268 Third Avenue, Durham, $13,290.

When completed and equipped the building is expected to cost $221,800, including a grant of $20,000 by the General Education Board for special equipment.

Architect George Watts Carr stated in a letter to the board that plans and specifications for the new library building will be in the hands of the budget bureau for review during the week of May 29.

In giving attention to strengthening the graduate school faculty, Dr. Eider stated that the board authorized a professor and department head each for the departments of biology, business, chemistry, home economics, music, psychology, and the department of foreign languages.

There was authorized a dean of graduate school, a secretary to the dean, a secretary to the graduate faculty, professors in English, history, physical education, sociology, administration and secondary education, elementary education, and industrial education, and a director of educational research.

G. W. Carr of Durham will be architect for the library, health center, renovation of present library and the new dormitory for women. R. R. Markley of Durham will be in charge of the classroom building, domestic science building, storage building and apartment house.

For the home economics cottage and dormitory for men H. R. Weeks of Durham was named; central heating plant, L. E. Wooten, Raleigh; gymnasium for men, J. N. Peace, Charlotte.
