'UNCLE TOMS' FLAYED

RALEIGH—Armed with only one slim clue and a hazy description, police on Wednesday were still continuing the search for a man who invaded a girls' dormitory at Shaw University, early Friday morning.

The only clues the police have to work on are a brown hat the intruder dropped in his hasty flight and a scanty description supplied by the girls who occupied the room the stranger entered.

The man is described as being a stout five feet seven inches tall, of stocky build, and with a dark complexion.

The unidentified man entered a third floor room in East Hall at 1:30 a. m. Friday, in what was believed to have been a robbery attempt, but fled without taking anything when one of the girls screamed.

According to one of the girls who occupies the room the prowler opened the door with a key. The student said at first she thought the intruder was the matron making (Continued on page 8, this section)

N.Y. ASSEMBLY OKAYS FEPC BILL, 129 TO 7

ALBANY, N. Y. — By a vote of 129 to 7, the New York State Assembly has today approved a resolution memorializing Congress to enact the Federal Fair Employment Practice Act, barring discrimination in employment because of race, religion, or national origin.

All of the dissenting votes came from upstate Republican legislators.

The vote followed a two-hour debate in which Republicans and Democrats, with each other in proclaiming hearty endorsement of civil rights legislation on a state and national basis.

In making their claims each party charged the other with duplicity and lip service on the issue.

The resolution had previously passed the Senate of the State, with only two dissenting votes. It was sponsored by Senator Charles V. Seaman of the Pentagon since the War.

According to the first group, Mr. Gray, independently wealthy and a man of broad vision and administrative experience, is expected to "pave the way for the admission of Negro graduate and professional students" on a gradual and cautious basis.

According to the opposite view, the secretary is an able Southerner who is also a man of strong moral character and of considerable intellectual capacity.

NYU SAYS ALL FRATS FREE OF PREJUDICE

NEW YORK — The Inter-Fraternal Council at New York University's Washington Square Center, reported Tuesday that its eighteen member fraternities had no discriminatory clauses in their constitutions and that no new fraternities seeking recognition would be admitted if membership was restricted on the basis of race, religion, color or nationality.

The decision on the matter was contained in a letter sent to Dean Thomas C. Pollock of Washington Square College, by the president of the council.

The letter read in part: "We honestly believe that attacks upon fraternities from external sources hinder rather than aid the progress in abolishing prejudice. We feel that needed reforms must come in a democratic way from within the individual fraternities themselves."

City Curtails St. Agnes Aid

RALEIGH — The sudden and almost totally unexpected action of the City Council in calling a halt to any further city appropriations for the care of indigent patients at the St. Agnes Hospital gave birth Tuesday to a question of primary importance, which was still begging for an answer late Wednesday night.

What will happen to charity patients living in Raleigh after March 26 when current city funds at the hospital will be exhausted?

To investigate the hospital setup, the Citizens Association on Tuesday night appointed a five member committee. Members are the Rev. E. C. Lawrence, Miss J. E. Hicks, A. E. Brown, L. H. Roberts, and H. A. Jones.

RALEIGH — A denial that the failure to extend an invitation to the Citizens Association to attend a meeting to discuss the construction of a local Negro school, was intended as a snub of the organization, was made Wednesday by Jesse O. Sanderson, chairman of the Raleigh School Board.

The Association has protested in a telegram sent to Sanderson, Tuesday night, that the group had been ignored when invitations to a planning meeting for the construction of a Negro High School in Chavis Heights, were issued.

In the telegram the Association said: "In view of our deep interest in the proposed high school and our cooperation with you and the School Board in advancing the project to this point, we are at a loss to understand the omission of our name from your roster for invitations."

JUDGE SCOTT HITS BACKWARD NEGRO LEADERS

RALEIGH — In the past few years Negro leaders have improved in both intelligence and courage, and the quality of Negro leadership will be even further improved when the "Uncle Tom" type of Negro leader vanishes from the scene, Judge Armond W. Scott, said her Saturday in an exclusive interview.

Judge Scott, Judge of the Municipal Court for the District of Columbia, was in Raleigh to address a Vesper Service audience at Shaw University on Sunday.

In the interview, Judge Scott was bitter in his condemnation of the "Uncle Tom" type of Negro leader, and pointed out that future progress would depend on the courage of Negro leaders.

While admitting that any improvement in race relations is a slow process, the jurist, who was born in Wilmington, said that on every trip he makes to the South he notes favorable changes in racial attitudes.

To emphasize his belief, Judge Scott referred to the full coverage (Continued on page 8, this section) past has contributed sums to take care of local residents without fund, and now with this source of income stopped, official sources could give no hint as to what action might be taken before March 20 to insure continued hospital care for the needy.

The action of the City Council was taken on Tuesday, because of the sentiment that aid for city patients should come from Wake County funds, and not city funds.

The council felt that because the city is an integral part of the County, it is the duty of the County to supply money for hospital care.

The Wake County Commissioners on the other hand have stated that the city of Raleigh should solely provide funds for furnishing hospital care and attention for Wake County citizens who reside within the corporate limits of the city.

The completely opposite viewpoints did not appear any place near a compromise late Wednesday night, with both city and county officials maintaining their original positions.

The question of Association participation arose in a meeting Tuesday night, when several members of the organization reported that they had received invitations, but (Continued on page 8, this section)
