TENSION MOUNTS BETWEEN POLICE AND AFRICANS

DURHAM (ANP) — About 180 Africans are facing charges of disturbances in Johannesburg as a result of clashes with the police.

Last Sunday, about 1,500 Africans seized a force of 500 police at Newclare, a township near Johannesburg. The police unleashed a hail of bullets and a cover of tear gas from bombs and guns.

Attacks answered the fire and the situation grew ugly. Passing motorists were stopped and many public buildings, including a railway station, were wrecked by the angry mob.

The trouble started when the police arrested an African woman for being in possession of a bottle of liquor. Her husband told the police it was his and that they should charge him instead of the female.

Members of the public interfered and the disturbances broke out. Street lights were smashed and in the grim darkness the struggle continued. Eventually the police took 600 for questioning and later 175

Graham Calls For More Democracy In America

WASHINGTON (ANP) — Speaking at the Brotherhood dinner sponsored by the Interchurch Fellowship of Washington held last Monday night at Calvary Baptist church, Sen. Frank P. Graham (D., N. C.) said that the Atomic revolution which is taking place in our generation "ties us together as one world — one family — with one God."

"Loaded with the hopes of mankind, our human society, with an A-bomb in her bosom and an H-bomb in her womb, cannot lag too long in the control of this terrific power."

The greatest responsibility of our generation, he said, is to work out a cooperation of nations and to do everything in our power to make the use of the H-bomb unnecessary.

But the idea of "one world" he said, must begin at home. It must begin in the hearts and minds of the people. We must be more democratic at home and we should try to get through the iron curtain and get the truth there.

The speaker said that both George Washington and Abraham Lincoln were examples of what "Brotherhood" should mean, one was the founder of this Republic and the other was the great emancipator who saved a great nation.

The Interchurch Fellowship of Washington has been in existence since 1944 and provides an opportunity for all races and faiths to meet together in worship. It has become a special core of concern for religious methods and race relations in Washington.

The fellowship refuted very vigorously the statement made by Drew Pearson last Sunday night when he said in his broadcast that the First Baptist Church of Washington, President Truman's own church, was split wide open on the civil rights issue.

Pearson said that the church was torn with debate and dissension over the question of whether an invitation should be extended to the Interchurch Fellowship of Washington to meet in that church.

In reply to Pearson's charge, a spokesman for the Fellowship said the monthly brotherhood dinner meetings have alternated between white and Negro churches. "At no time in the knowledge of the officials of the Fellowship, have any doors been closed to it by prejudice." The Fellowship has met in nearly every downtown church in Washington. It held a dinner meeting at the First Baptist church one year ago.

"Naturally," said the spokesman, "there has been and continues to be a problem of racial and religious discrimination, segregation, and intolerance in Washington's churches and synagogues awakened to the moral problem involved, have been increasingly working toward its solution."

SCHOOLS CONDUCT GOOD WILL VISITS

WASHINGTON, D. C. — (ANP) — Ignoring vocal racial conflicts over schools in the nation's capital, two Washington universities—one predominantly Negro and the other white—conducted their sixth annual campus exchange visits last week.

The visits, which started on Good Friday several years ago with Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt as the honored guest, feature a musical approach to brotherhood. The Howard university chorus, nationally known, sings at chapel services of the American university during the week. The American university chorus visited Sunday church services at Howard.

In addition to the exchanges of musical groups, the presidents of the two institutions, both trained ministers, give major talks. Dr. P. F. Douglass, former reporter-minister-state senator and lawyer, is head of the Methodist-affiliated American university. The Howard president is the well-known Mordecai Johnson.

Following the chapel services at the schools, members of the visiting choirs and other students are dinner guests of the host school. Highlights of these meetings is the Howard university's "Break Bread Together." The song is a traditional favorite of the outstanding musical group, Mrs. Johnson wife of Howard's president, spoke to the dinner meeting on her campus.
