Here's Savory Beef Stew and Economy Foo

A few left-overs can be quickly transformed into something special—Savory Beef Stew. To make it, combine left-over beef with vegetables in a flavorful brown gravy and serve on flaky hot rice.

Savory Beef Stew

5 tablespoons butter
5 tablespoons flour
2½ teaspoons meat paste
2½ cups hot vegetable liquid and water
½ cup sliced cooked carrots
½ cup cooked small white onions
½ teaspoon salt

Melt butter in saucepan. Add flour and stir until blended. Dissolve meat paste in hot vegetable liquid and water; add to flour mixture gradually. Bring slowly to a boil and cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Add cooked vegetables and meat; simmer 5 minutes.

Meanwhile, combine rice-cooked rice, water, and salt in saucepan. Mix just until all rice is moistened. Bring quickly to a boil over high heat, uncovered, fluffing rice gently once or twice with a fork. (Do not stir.) Cover and remove from heat. Let stand 10 minutes before serving.

National Cong. Dawson Day Attracts Huge Chi. Crowds

By Senator Corneal A. Davis

NATIONAL DAWSON DAY, preceded by a parade, five miles long, fat winded its way through the entire 1st Congregational District was one of the greatest tributes ever paid a leader — Gaily decorated floats, bands playing, lovely ladies in convertibles, all shouting praises for William L. Dawson, a great leader and one of those bright sunny days, and more than a million persons watched the 5-mile long parade.

The parade arrived at the auditorium about 3:30 p. m. and the large auditorium was packed to its capacity — approximately 5 thousand. Thousands of people were over the speaker system that stood outside, listening to be played had been placed for their convenience.

The General Chairman called the meeting to order singing the Star Spangled Banner led by Helen Ward. Invocation, Rev. Marshall L. Shepherd. Introduction of Permanent Committee, Honorable Kenneth E. Campbell, Illinois Commerce Commissioner.

Honorable John H. McCray of Columbia, South Carolina, in his address said, If the people I represent in South Carolina could vote in the 1st District of Chicago, they would vote for William L. Dawson. Dawson has blazed the way for the Colored people of S. C., and we regard him as our Ambassador.

Dr. John M. Robinson Little Rock, Arkansas, among other things said, The defeat of Mr. Dawson could be tragic to the Negroes of the South. A new man in Congress would require years of time to run his way into the good graces of the White House. We as the people of the Southland, need a practical and approachable man in the House of Congress. We are not likely to elect one from our section just now, therefore, we must appeal to you as a solidified body of electors here in Illinois to stand by us in our hours of need by returning to the House of Congress, a man upon whom we may depend. Congressman William L. Dawson."

Hobart Taylor, Houston, Texas, remarked that, In my part of the country there is but one Negro in Washington and he is our good friend, William L. Dawson. The Honorable Jesse H. Jones, of Houston, Texas, says that William Dawson is the natural embodiment of the South. He has been no diplomat in the halls of congress. He has been less superior to every part Dawson is his way, he is the light of democracy, he is the man who has given his life though he be dead, yet shall he live. I say that he can walk with kings and not lose his common touch. I say again Bill lead us on to greater heights and broader horizons and to you, my friend, if I were not most a political ignoramus, my major concern would be Harry S. Truman, my minor concern, William L. Dawson and the Southern Negroes.

Percy Greene, Jackson, Miss., in many a erratic manner shouted,

"The Negroes of Mississippi were inspired to go to the polls by Congressman Dawson, and they are going to the polls even though they wade through blood. The Republican is dealing with Dixiecrats in the South and have been dealing with them since 1892. The Republicans never gave us a chance to vote, only recognized the fly whites of the South."

Harry Penn, Roanoke, Va., thus said, "Dawson is the inspiration of all of us in Virginia. Watson came to Virginia to speak and work for us without price or pay. Thank God for Dawson. He has done so much for the people of Virginia.

Alderman Jean Murrell Capers of Cleveland, Ohio, commented that, "Congressman Dawson came to Cleveland and campaigned for me. I am the first Negro woman ever to be elected to the City Council of Cleveland, only because of what Senator William L. Dawson has done for Negro women. That is why I am here. Negro women's organizations from 23 cities in Ohio, asked me to come here today and thank Dawson for what he has done for the women of Ohio."

Dr. Marshall L. Shepherd, Recorder of Deeds, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, up the house when he said the only Negro who should vote the Republican ticket is the Negro who is too Stock Yates, bank president, President of Railroad, etc. Congressman Dawson, made the speech of deeds."

Honorable A. T. Walden, Atlanta, Georgia, remarked presenting the Merit Award, "I bring you greetings from 100,000 Negro citizens of Georgia, asking you to see, to me by returning Dawson to Washington, Dawson has done a great deal for us in Georgia. He is the inspiration of every Negro boy and girl in the South. Dawson is our telephone to the White House. We consider him our Congressman."

One of the Negroes has been no diplomat in the halls of congress. He has been less superior to every part Dawson is his way, he is the light of democracy, he is the man who has given his life though he be dead, yet shall he live. I say again Bill lead us on to greater heights and broader horizons and to you, my friend, if I were not most a political ignoramus, my major concern would be Harry S. Truman, my minor concern, William L. Dawson and the Southern Negroes.

BLANKE CARE

Treat wool blankets with the little care that precious possessions deserve. Textile scientists are saying to thrifty homemakers, with the reminder that the production of wool this year is one of the lowest on record.

Daily airing of blankets in use not only is good sanitary practice but helps them last longer and hold their fiery warmth and comfort. When a blanket is thrown back over itself so that fresh air reaches both sides, the wool has a chance to get back its natural springiness which makes for warmth. But care should be taken not to throw a blanket over anything sharp, such as a peaked broomstick, which may pierce or pull it, or on anything that may stand it. See that the bed has no loose springs, sharp metal corners or even roughened wood which may catch and tear blankets or other bedding.

For best service and comfort, blankets should be large enough to come up well over shoulders and still tuck firmly in the bottom of the bed. Short blankets often wear out early because they take so much pulling and strain.

A blanket stays clean longer if the bed is made so that the sheet turns back over the top of the blanket 8 to 12 inches. If the sheet is too short, a strip of cloth basted over the top of the full blanket, or even a third sheet used on top, gives added warmth because it holds still air in the fluffy wool.
