

Rosalie Williams' CAROLINIAN SOCIETY

Those of us who heard Harriet Pressley's program over Radio Station WPTF Friday at 2:45 p. m. were happily surprised to hear her in an interview with Jim Broady whose one-man exhibition of paintings and sculpture is now being shown at the Richard B. Harrison Library.

Incidentally, we failed to mention that the formal opening of the show, there were several attractive arrangements of flowers from friends of Mr. Broady. Especially attractive was a bouquet of long stemmed yellow tea roses sent by the parents of the artist.

The Kappa dance Friday in Durham was quite a gala affair. This annual Black and White Formal is always one of the high spots in the spring social calendar of Raleigh and Durham.

Dance lovers heretofore need turn their attention to the Delta Focal Club 18 at Memorial Auditorium here in Raleigh. Tontons are in the unit this week.

The son of us who motored to Wilson last Wednesday to be guests of Miss Irene Whitley as she entertained her After Six Bridge Club enjoyed a lovely evening. The party was held at the Silver Boat. There were six tables of bridge and one of pinocle.

I can't do justice in describing the colorful and tasty menu but here's a few: fruit juice cocktail, jellied chicken loaf, a pear salad, golden french mashed potato croquettes, cheese biscuits, fried rice, egg, etc. The pear salad consisted of slices of red colored pear arranged in a floral design on a lettuce leaf with a cream cheese center.

Mrs. R. S. Turner, Mrs. Cecil Flagg, and Mrs. Charles Williams were the other three from Raleigh attending.

The Junior Class of Washington High School and its advisors are to be congratulated upon the presentation of a very beautiful Junior Center from last Friday night. The theme of the dance was "A night in Hawaii."

The June issue of Ebony Magazine which arrived in the mail the first of this week features the personal story of Soretha Khama, the banished African Chiefess. The front cover pictures the prince, his wife and daughter.

Mrs. W. Barton Beatty, Mrs. Cecil Flagg, and Mrs. Charles Williams were the other three from Raleigh attending.
