Family Fuss

ous with his father, forced his step-mother to drive him about Greenville County early last week during which time the alleged attack is to have taken place.

The elder Evans forthwith forbade his wife and son to visit the original Evans home thereafter.

INVADES HOME

On Saturday, however, Sambo Evans went to the Evans home and "took over" it was then that the elder Evans made an official complaint to the Greenville sheriff's department.

Upon arrival of sheriff's department operatives at the Evans home, trouble began to ensue, with Sambo Evans barricading himself within the house and threatening a shooting duel with the officers. Aid was summoned from nearby Rutledge, N.C. and with the aid of tear gas, the officers succeeded in subduing the man, not before he was wounded while groping for a shotgun which had been knocked from his hands, however.

Evans is scheduled to face trial on charges of assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill in addition to the rape charge.

City Helps

Whether under canvas or not, application shall be made thereafter for a period of thirty days before any license or permit shall be issued to said company or enterprise, and it shall be in the discretion of the City Council as to whether any license or permit shall be issued to said company or enterprise.

LAW AMENDED

Whereas the 1940 Code was not violated by Monday's circus performance, the amended version of the statute activated in July, 1948 and superseding the original edict makes local officials liable to guilt on charges of aiding in the violation.

The amended statute reads: "No person, firm or corporation shall be licensed or shall be permitted within the corporate limits of the City of Raleigh to exhibit or show in any tent or tents any carnival or show of like kind, including vaudeville shows, museum manageries and other like amusements, or to operate merry-go-rounds, ferris wheels, and other riding devices, conducted for profit, under the same general management or an aggregate of shows, amusements, eating places, riding devices or any of them operating together on the same lot or contiguous lots or streets, traveling from place to place, whether owned and actually operated by separate persons, firms or corporations or not and such carnivals, shows, performances and amusements hereinbefore referred to are hereby prohibited within the corporate limits of the City of Raleigh. Any person, firm, or corporation, violating the provisions of this subsection shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be punished as provided by statute for the punishment of a misdemeanor. All ordinances in conflict with the provisions of this subsection are hereby repealed."

REPULSIVE TO RESIDENTS

By granting the circus permission to appear the City ignored not only its own statute but also the desires of residents of the area. Protests made to officials were to no avail prior to the actual event.

WILL CONSIDER ISSUE

The CAROLINIAN has since been assured, however, that in its next meeting the City Council will act in seeing that such an occurrence is not repeated.

OTHER AREA IGNORED

It is reliably reported that residents of one sector of the city successfully petitioned to prevent the circus from appearing there. This petition noted in front the congestion, noise and other undesirable effects which have been the result of its performance.

Not only were there incidents of traffic and moral danger noted on the Lucille Hunter school plot, but there was also a temporary reign of terror when news was spread through the area Monday morning that a lion was running loose. A youthful circus attendant also got more of his share when he was bitten by a monkey.

Would Take Over

state and county's embattled "separate but equal" doctrine.

NOT FIRST CASE

Even though the presentation of such a stand for a semblance of equality by an official is precedent-setting in the state, the threat leveled against the Pamlico County School System by Mr. Wharton is similar to one made by a Fayetteville civic group which contends that it will attempt to secure entry for Negro students at Fayetteville's leading high school if efforts are not made to equalize the Negro's quality or to secure a new one before scheduled September opening dates.

HAS SUPPORT

Paradoxically, Mr. Wharton has gained support in his stand. This support, though not official, is popular.

Parents of Pamlico's white school-children have been adverse to the centralization of the county's white facilities since the proposal was first presented. In many cases, students will be obliged to ride ten miles per direction to attend the Central School, it has been pointed out.

EXPECTS ACTION

Mr. Wharton obviously is expecting action of his stand by Negro parents also. Public sentiment locally is that Negro students in every way have been deprived of opportunity.

While it has been rumored here that these parents were contemplating suit to obtain needs of the Negro segment, no proof of such claim has been forthcoming.

Leading local Negro residents, snatched from their apathy by Mr. Wharton's declaration, have declared that they join the board of officials in his program.

Blast Reds

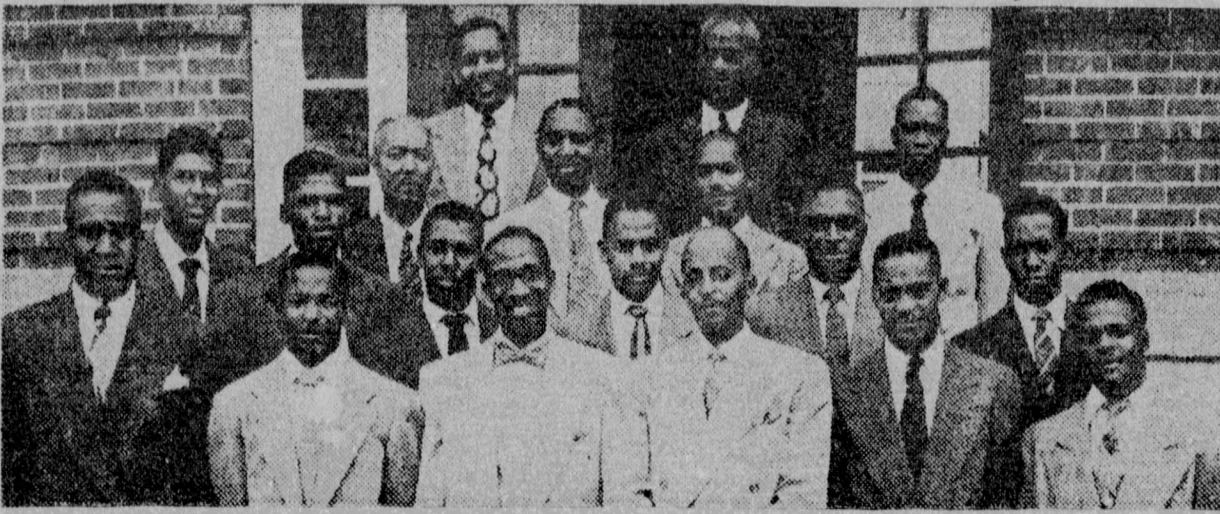

Dr. Poag was introduced by Dr. S. D. Williams, head of Elizabeth City Teachers College who has served as chairman of Negro Citizens' Day each summer. His committee composed of several Negro leaders in this and other States are responsible for the growing interest in the day on which Lost Colony honors members of his race.

A highspot of the program presented prior to curtain time was the appearance of the Glee Club from Norfolk Division of Virginia State College.

Raleigh Wake Red Cross Appeals For Flood Victims

RALEIGH—Final plans for bringing before Wake County citizens the urgent need for contributions to flood victims in four mid-west states were completed this week at a meeting of Raleigh's civic leaders.

Henry Bridges, state auditor, presided at the meeting as chairman of the special Red Cross committee for relief of the flood victims. Bridges is also chairman of the Wake County Chapter's Finance Committee.

To meet President Truman's appeal for a $5,000,000 flood relief fund to be donated through local chapters of the Red Cross, the Wake County group is making an appeal through facilities of the local and county radio and Press.

Bridges reported that because emergency clothing needs were being adequately met by communities bordering the flooded areas, no clothing will be sent from the Wake County headquarters. However, the need for money is urgent, he said. Quoting statistics received Tuesday morning, Bridges stated that 183,188 families have been affected by the flood so far. Due to sickness and accident caused by the flood conditions, he said it was expected that 18,000 families will require long term aid from the Red Cross. The Red Cross has rushed three-quarter million dollars for immediate relief of the flood affected counties, but additional funds will have to be met by public subscription, he said.

Local radio stations and newspapers have agreed to assist the Wake County Chapter in collecting funds by acting as receiving and forwarding agents. Cash or checks made payable to the American Red Cross should be sent at once to either the Wake County Chapter Headquarters, 200 W. Morgan Street, Raleigh, N. C., or to radio stations or newspapers issuing appeals for funds. The entire amount collected is to be immediately forwarded to area headquarters for the relief of the disaster victims. Contributions can also be made to Red Cross Gray Ladies, Red Cross Nurses, and other volunteer workers who are to be stationed at booths throughout the city within the next few days, stated Bridges.

ABC VIOLATORS KEEP OFFICERS, DEPUTIES BUSY

HIGH POINT — City police and local deputy sheriffs spent the week-end running down violators of the A B C law, arresting five persons, and confiscating more than 85 pints of whiskey.

Police nabbed James N. Franklin, Jr., after finding six full gallons of unaltered liquor at his residence at 395 Walnut street, and Herbert Bostic of 615 Grayson street, after finding three gallons in his possession.

Also arrested were R. W. Bundy of High Point, Route 5, where 10 full pints were found on his property; Clay Williams of High Point, Route 1, with three pints of white liquor and eight gallons of home brew in his possession; and Ethel Mae McCorkle of 215 Eason St., who had only had one-half pint. All posted bond for future hearing in municipal court.

Mars Hill Youth Dies In Station Affray

ASHEVILLE—George McDowell of Mars Hill died here Monday following injuries sustained in an affray with John Coon in the Asheville union terminal Friday night.

Coon who apparently struck McDowell in the head with a brick following an argument, according to information in the hands of detectives in the city police department, is being held in city jail in connection with the case.

Willow Spring Man Flees From Prison

RALEIGH—White Robert Johnson, 18-year-old Willow Springs youth, has "slipped off" from a road gang again. H. H. Honevutt, assistant state prisons director, reported Sunday.

Sentenced from Wake county to 12 months for larceny last October, Johnson escaped the last time Saturday while working near Catur prison farm.

He escaped on February 28, this year, and "remained at large" for two days.

To Be Re-Organized

RALEIGH—The Court of Calantha Monday extended an invitation to "all old and new members to join with us Friday night, July 27, in a re-organization meeting to be held at Odd Fellows Building on Hargett Street at 8:00."

Mrs. Beulah H. Powell is president, Mrs. Agnes Tyson secretary, and E. W. Redis, grand organizer.

PHARMACISTS SLATE ANNUAL CONVENTION

NEW YORK—The National Pharmaceutical Association, Inc. has scheduled its Fifth Annual Convention to be held here Tuesday through Thursday, August 7, 8 and 9. Business meetings will be held Tuesday and Wednesday mornings and Thursday afternoon. On Tuesday afternoon and Thursday morning the sessions will be open to the public and all pharmacists are invited to attend and participate in the program.

The Annual Dinner is planned for Thursday evening at the Hotel Astor and the address of the evening will be given by Julius H. Thomas, Director of Industrial Relations, National Urban League.

Present indications are that at least 175 pharmacists representing 20 states and the District of Columbia will attend.

This year will be the first time the convention has attracted exhibitors of pharmaceutical supplies. Several leading manufacturers including Lederle, Pfizer, Endo Products, Winthrop-Stearns, Sulfur & Gillette, White Laboratories, Weth, Squibb, Sharn & Dolme and Snow white have taken booth space. There will also be an exhibit by the American Society and the American Tuberculo-
