

NC CAGE TOURNAMENT FEB. 29

THE CAROLINIAN

WEEK ENDING SATURDAY MARCH 1, 1952 SECOND SECTION

THE CAROLINIAN'S College Girls Of The Week

MRS. PIGGOTT
A & T COLLEGE

Attractive Dolores Brown, of Akron, Ohio, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond R. Brown. A senior at Bennett College, Miss Brown has been a member of the Freshman choir, the college orchestra, the senior choir; also the music club and the Marshall Band.

She was elected secretary of the mid-week vesper committee, assistant secretary of her dormitory, Merner Hall, and assistant secretary of the music club. A member of Alpha Kappa Mu, Miss Brown is chairman of the music committee of the senior class.

Her hobbies include sewing, piano, and dancing.

MRS. PIGGOTT
A & T COLLEGE

Paul M. Lucille Piggott of Alam, Ill., is the wife of coach Bert Piggott. Her role as a housewife does not keep her from other activities.

A sophomore at A & T, Piggott is coloring in Commercial Education. During her first year at A & T, she was the highest ranking freshman of her class. Her scholarships are: Alpha Kappa Alpha, Kappa Alpha Psi, and A & T College Alumni Scholarship.

She is a member of the Ivy Interest Group, and formerly employed as secretary to the college dietitian.

Her hobbies vary from movies, bowling, to playing pinocle.

MISS BROWN
BENNETT COLLEGE

Likable Evelyn Costello Farmer, junior at Fayetteville State Teachers College, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Woody Farmer of Wilson.

During her freshman year at Fayetteville State Teachers College, Miss Farmer was chairman of the N. C. High School Drama Clinic, member of the Y. W. C. A., and member of the Women's Collegiate Club.

During her sophomore year, she was secretary of the YWCA and Sunday School Teacher.

Currently, she is president of the YWCA, Circulation manager of "THE VOICE", and Member of the Future Teachers of America.

She was also the recipient of the Intra-College Boutte Memorial Award in 1951, represented the campus "Y" at the N. C. YMCA conference in Greensboro in 1951, and in Winston-Salem in 1952.

Her hobbies are working in the "Y", writing and collecting photographs.

MISS FARMER
FAYETTEVILLE

Popular Susie Davis, a senior at St. Augustine's College, is a graduate of State School in the field. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Davis, she comes from Greenville, N. C.

Miss Davis has been an honor student during her entire enrollment at St. Augustine's. A member of the campus chapter of Delta Sigma Theta

Nine Colleges To Take Part In 4th Annual Meet

FAYETTEVILLE — The fourth annual colleges of North Carolina Basketball Tournament, formerly scheduled to be held at Shaw University, will be held in the Lilly Gymnasium on the Campus of Fayetteville State Teachers College, Friday and Saturday, February 29 and March 1.

The teams scheduled to participate are A. and T. College, Elizabeth City State Teachers College, Fayetteville State Teachers College, J. C. Smith University, Livingstone College, North Carolina College, Shaw University, St. Augustine's College and Winston-Salem State Teachers College.

There will be five sessions as follows: Friday — 11:00 A. M., 7:00 P. M. Consolation, and 8:00 P. M. Finals. Spoons Tickets may be purchased through the Business Office, Fayetteville State Teachers College, for $2.50.

Klan Chief Fined

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — A $700 fine was slapped on Bill Hendrix, Florida KKK grand dragon, for sending abusive postcards through the mail.

A jury last week found Hendrix guilty of sending postcards with defamatory statements about Gov. Feller Warren of Florida. Drew Peterson, columnist, and Kenneth Ballinger, attorney.

Federal District Judge Dozier Devereau imposed sentences

READ ABOUT THE RIGORS OF A RURAL VACATION in THIS PETTY PAGE in this newspaper

COLLEGE CHOIR IS HEARD AT WHITE CHURCH

CHARLOTTE, N. C. (AP) — The Johnson C. Smith university choir recently appeared in a religious concert at the Wesley Heights Methodist church (white) here.

Among the numbers on the program were: "Praise Ye the Name of the Lord," by Ivanoff; "Cherish the Song," by Arkhangelsky; "God is a Spirit," by W. S. Bennett, and "Let Us Break Bread Together," arranged by C. W. Kemp. Kemp is director of the choir, and Miss Melba Wilson served as accompanist.

Norfolk Ministers To Take Jimcrow Out Of Preaching

THIS IS IT
by Lin Holloway

WE GIVE BABY CUZ, the former Miss Gwendolyn Flintall of Durham and Baltimore credit for this gem which, sung to the tune of "Shrimp Boats a-Comin'" is labeled the Columbus County (N.C.) hymn:

Ku Kluxers coming,
Ku Kluxers coming,
Their ropes are in sight
You better hurry, hurry, hurry home.
Better hurry, hurry home
Ku Kluxers coming,
There's a flogging in sight.
Thanks, Gwen.

AND SPEAKING OF KU KLUXERS, let's take a gander at the deal going down now. 'Tis a well-known fact that ten alleged Kluxers have been nabbed by the FBI, but there's a lot of difference between catching them and keeping them ya know.

As it stands now, the ten will probably be tried during the March term of the Federal District Court. This court is to be in session in Fayetteville, N. C. in Cumberland County where Fayetteville is located that the Klan made its most recent appearance in force) and the case is to be prosecuted by US District Attorney Green, who served as campaign manager for Willis Smith when he made his recent successful bid for election to the US Senate running on a white supremacy platform.

BY CARL JEWELL

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — The first step toward interracial cooperation and non-segregation in plans for the 1953 Preaching Mission in Norfolk was made here recently when a group of Negro ministers met with the executive committee of the Norfolk Ministers' Association at the Central YMCA. The Negro ministers were invited to sit in with the committee of white pastors to map plans for inviting Billy Graham for the Preaching Mission next fall. The last Preaching Mission was held in January.

The segregation of the races at Norfolk's six Preaching Missions has been a sore spot among liberal Christians, white and Negro. The majority of Negro ministers and hundreds of Negro laymen who wanted to hear the mission speakers refused to attend the services because they did not want to be segregated.

Sponsors of the 1952 Preaching Mission did not want the races segregated by force but an official of the Municipal Auditorium where the services were held had the ushers seat Negroes and whites in different sections of the auditorium. When a questioner about this, the official said he was acting on higher orders and that he was instructed to see that Virginia laws requiring the races to be segregated at public meetings were enforced.

An editorial in a local white daily pointed out that forced segregation of the races at worship services runs counter to our fundamental doctrine of freedom of religion. Virginia's law requiring the races to be separated at public functions does not mention churches specifically, but it does mention "public hall, theater, opera house, motion picture show, or any place of public assembly."

When the NAACP took action last year to prevent the Jimcrow at the Mosque in Richmond at the closing session of the Virginia State NAACP Conference, city and state officials bypassed the issue of segregation by allowing persons at the session to sit wherever they chose. The city attorney-general recommended this action. The question of the constitutionality of the law has still to be determined.

State NAACP officials had said if city and state officials did not agree to non-segregation at the Mosque, the session would be held at another place. Walter White, executive secretary of the NAACP, and his wife spoke at that session.

When Henry Wallace, Progressive party presidential candidate, spoke at the Municipal auditorium in Norfolk in 1948, police officials did not force those attending the meeting to sit in separate seats or sections because of race. Wallace and his sponsors had warned that the meeting would be held in a vacant lot rather than submit to the segregation.

Ag and Tech College Lists Period Honor Roll

GREENSBORO, N. C. — Two hundred and fifty-three students included Elizabeth Taylor, Asheville, N. C.; Bobby Hayes, Greensboro, N. C.; Annie Orlina Hayes, Greensboro, N. C.; Shirley Morris, Franklin, Va.; Charles E. Timberlake, York, N. Y.; William H. Hogue, Savannah, Ga.; Ruby G. The list, released by C. R. A. Swanson, Goldsboro, N. C., Frank Cunningham, registrar of the college, shows that the girls' average was slightly higher than the boys' in that 30 of them made the list, 31 per cent of the total.

Those who made perfect scores were: Grady Thomas Alford, Siler City, N. C.; Beulah Coles, Manassas, Va.; Neeris F. Dendis, Jr., N. C.; Walter Edward Byrd, Burlington, S. C.; Emma L. Grady, Burlington, N. C.; Mary E. Griffin, Cary, N. C.; John Milton Hade, Alacuna, Fla.; Savannah LeSurr, Madison, N. C.; Oswald Stuart Lee, Jamaica, British West Indies; Ernest B. Miller, Greensboro, N. C.; Helen Montgomery, Greensboro, N. C.; James N. Slade, Edenton, N. C.; Melvin C. Smith, Greensboro, N. C.; Ernest L. Tomson, Cullpeper, Va.; Margaret Trisvan, Jarratt, Va.; Harry L. Lee Bass, Oxford, N. C.; Edna Williams, Wilmington, N. C.; and Ruth Daisy Withers.

MAN THAT BASKETBALL TOURNAMENT to be held in Fayetteville this weekend is gonna be a killer. And I'll bet bucks against buttons that the best playing during the entire two-day meet will be that done by Gus Gaines' Fayetteville State host team and Puzzy Williams' invading Elizabeth City TC five.

Fayetteville and Elizabeth City are no great shakes as football contenders, but a look-see at this season's tape record for each team reveals that Teachers' College boys really know their ways around basketball courts.

North Carolina College, A. and T. Shaw, Winston-Salem, and the rest of the teams which will take part in the meet, have been having "Jan to minding" seasons, and we expect the Teachers to garner most if not all the honors during the fourth annual College of NC sessions.

WE SEE WHERE AT LEAST ONE GROUP is intended as to whether Billy Eckstine should be given the title "Most Handsome Male Entertainment Star of 1952" or whether the accolade should be given Arthur Prysock.

The group, the Up-town Hi-Hat Girls Social Club of Harlem, revealed through its president, Vivian Porter, that it had decided

Farmers of 2 Races Work Together To Halt Erosion

RALEIGH — How white and colored farm groups of Iredell County, N. C. are working together to help halt erosion and build up the fertility of their land is reported in the February issue of Soil Conservation, a U. S. Department of Agriculture publication.

The colored group is made up most of owners who were once tenants on nearby farms of white neighbors. As tenants, they saw how the white farmers worked together in solving their soil conservation problems. And when they became owners themselves, they developed a similar pattern of cooperation.

Some of the farmers in the group of 14 families have owned

Twin City Church Marks Eleventh Anniversary

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C. (AP) — The 11th anniversary of the United Progressive Community Church was observed here last week.

The Rev. James S. Blaine is pastor of church which recently completed work on its new $10,000 building.

Among the persons who participated in the week-long celebration were: W. L. Wilson, pastor of First Calvary Baptist Church; Luther Werts, Miss Isabel Sam-

During October and November 1951, U. S. cigarette manufacturers produced more cigarettes than during any other two consecutive months in history.