

PLAYING THE LINE — Under the auspices of the Raleigh Recreation Department, the Raleigh Community Theatre presents its first performance at Lucille Hunter School on May 28.

1952 at 8:15 p.m. The group which includes upwards to forty adult members, has chosen for its premiere presentation, J. B. Priestley's "An Inspector Calls". Included in the cast are John D. Lewis, Jr. as the Inspector, supported by Norma and Quentin Gaillard, Purdie Anders, Samuel Green, Virginia Newell, and Portia Adams. The play, a three-act drama, is directed by James Avery of the Deaf and Blind School and Dr. Catherine B. Middleton with Mrs. Ethelyn Thomas as the Shaw Players as advisor. This play is the first in a series which the Community

Theatre Group hopes to launch in the development of a good Little Theatre group in our community. Present plans include assisting other community groups in make-up and stage craft, presentation of children's performances, presentation of adult performances a year, and practical experiments in the various dramatic media. All people interested in any phase of play-acting are urged to join the group.

Shelton-Goode Vows Said At Raleigh

The marriage of Miss Jacqueline Maria Goode, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Julius H. Goode of Raleigh, N. C., to Mr. Louis Andrew Shelton, son of Mrs. Ella Shelton and the late Louis A. Shelton of Memphis, Tenn., took place Saturday evening, April 26th at 7:30 o'clock in a candlelight ceremony at the home of the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Estella Goode. The Rev. C. B. McCreary officiated at the ceremony.

Prior to the ceremony, Mrs. Cecelia Worthington presented a program of nuptial music and Miss Laura Brown sang because, and Mrs. Thomas Mayes, aunt of the bride, sang: "I Love You Truly."

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Julius H. Goode, Jr., wore a ballerina-length gown of white nylon tulle over satin embroidered with tulle of the valley and fashioned with long sleeves ending as a point at the wrist and fitted bodice. Her shoulder-length veil of illusion fell from a satin bonnet ornamented with sad pearls. She carried a prayer book topped with a purple orchid. The bride's sister, Miss Ann Catherine Goode, was maid of honor and only attendant. She wore a ballerina-length dress of white nylon lace over pink tulle. She wore in her hair a London of pink roses and carried a nosegay of mixed flowers. Mr. Nelson Slaughter of Washington, D. C., was best man. Following the ceremony the bride and groom double ring ceremony. Prior to the ceremony, Mrs. Cecelia Worthington presented a program of nuptial music and Miss Laura Brown sang because, and Mrs. Thomas Mayes, aunt of the bride, sang: "I Love You Truly."

Rev. Falconer Inspiring In Shaw Univ. Address

RALEIGH, N. C. — The Reverend John B. Falconer, missionary to Monrovia, Liberia, West Africa, gave a challenging address to Shaw University students Wednesday morning in Greenleaf Auditorium. In his talk he spoke of foreign mission work as the greatest international project in the world. "The first foreign missions," he said, "were not church missions, as it is generally believed. They were sent out by the state, but this was not successful — later there were organized missionaries, and finally churches began to set up machinery to carry on this work. 'Every Christian denomination,' he continued, 'is found working in foreign missions. He spoke of the literacy element in foreign missions as one of which they were proud. There are 26 tribes in Liberia," he said, "each with a different dialect. Missionaries take languages of the native people and reduce them to writing."

In conclusion the speaker declared that "it is imperative that the church extend its foreign mission program. Foreign work embraces not only Africa, but other countries. It is a universal movement."

Mrs. Edwards Speaks to Shaw Home Ec. Group

RALEIGH—Home Economics majors in the junior and senior classes of Shaw University heard a very interesting talk Thursday by Mrs. Betina M. Edwards, Wake Unscrupulous persons have dulled missionary work. We the Christian people must become adventurous again."

The Reverend Mr. Falconer is seeking at least three couples for work in missions.

The speaker was introduced by Reverend M. N. Delaney, director of Religious activities at Shaw University.

County Home Demonstration Agent.

Some of the objectives of her department, mentioned in her speech were: 1. To assist the farmer through farm products to be increased. 2. To promote better living on the farm. 3. To develop rural leaders. 4. To promote mental, social and cultural recreation of the community, and rural education. 5. To acquaint the public with what is going on in rural life. 6. To increase the spiritual life of the community.

Mrs. P. R. Jervay, instructor in the Home Economics Department, was in charge of the program.
