It has been her fidelity and hard work which helped make the school a progressive one.

The fact that she has no children has not lessened or effected her interest in the other children. Under her able leadership lights have been secured for the area around the school, the school band was organized and equipped and robes were bought for the Glee Club.

She instituted the idea of a class having the largest number of parents at a PTA meeting. Mrs. Lillian Mae Ganey was mistress of ceremonies and the guests were entertained by playing games for which they received prizes.

First prize was won by Mrs. Katie Webb and Bertha Stephens winning second prize. As group leader of the Red Bone group Miss Maud Hood was presented a gift for her faithful service. Mrs. Kate Thomas made the presentations. The Serving Committee was Mrs. Bessie Shipman, Mrs. Florette Smith and Mrs. Mittie McKinnon.

Heavy Vote On Tobacco Referendum Encouraged

RALEIGH — State College officials and other agricultural leaders throughout the State have joined in urging that North Carolina farmers cast a heavy vote in the flue-cured tobacco quota referendum on Saturday, July 19.

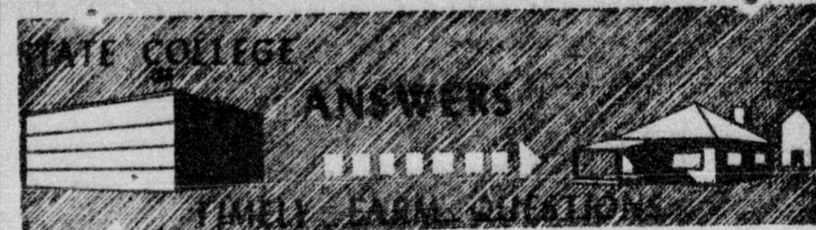

Participating in the referendum will be flue-cured growers in Alabama, Florida, Georgia, North Carolina, South Carolina, and Virginia. They will decide (1) whether they approve marketing quotas for the 1953, 1954, and 1955 crop years, (2) whether they disapprove quotas for the three years but favor quotas for 1953 only, or (3) whether they disapprove quotas for the three years.

A favorable vote by at least two-thirds of those voting is required to change marketing quotas effective. Voting will be by secret ballot at places designated by PMA committees. In the last similar referendum, held in July, 1949, some 97.7 percent of the 230,719 growers voting favored quotas for the 1950, 1951, and 1952 crops.

Anyone who has an interest in the 1953 crop of flue-cured tobacco, either as owner, tenant, or sharecropper, is entitled to one vote on the question of marketing quotas. Each person concerned, however, is entitled to only one vote even though he may be engaged in the production of flue-cured tobacco in two or more communities, counties, or states.

The purpose of marketing quotas, according to agricultural officials, is to provide growers with a method of adjusting supply to demand and to help them obtain fair prices for the tobacco they produce.

QUESTION: Who is eligible to vote in the flue-cured tobacco quota referendum on July 19?

ANSWER: Any person who has an interest in the 1952 crop of flue-cured tobacco as owner, tenant, or sharecropper, is eligible.

Solicitations

(Continued from page 1) and the Fund in addition to having a familial relationship with the Executive Director of the League receiving a salary also from the Fund, have programs that are quite similar and their techniques of fund-raising are practically identical. This technique centers on enclosing in the letter of solicitation the application card or "blank" of the boy or girl who wishes to benefit from a "vacation" at camp. This card gives not only the child's name and age but the name of his or her parents and the number of the brothers and sisters. The ending of the letter of appeal whether from the League or the Fund is usually as follows: "Will you please return this letter with application with your check? In any case return the application."

In comment on this method of fund-raising Dr. Winston further pointed out that in the letters from the State Board of Public Welfare to the respective officials of the League and the Fund enclosing the licenses issued July 13, 1949 is the following statement:

"In issuing this license we are informing you that neither the State Board of Public Welfare nor the majority of the citizens of North Carolina approve of the individualized or case appeal made by the League in furnishing personal information regarding the child it hopes to serve and his family on the camp application blank as such practice of giving case information is contrary to acceptable standards for both public and private social agencies. We believe that a general descriptive statement regarding an organization to vote in this referendum.

QUESTION: May a person who has more than one farm producing flue-cured tobacco vote for each farm?

ANSWER: No. Each individual is entitled to only one vote.

QUESTION: Must a person vote in his own community?

ANSWER: Every person is expected to vote in the community in which his main farming activities are located. If he has a farm in another community, he may vote in either place but can't vote in both places. Any eligible voter, however, tion's program is sufficient to arouse the interest of citizens of this state who may wish to contribute to an organization's support. Since your letter of solicitation is regarded as the equivalent of information specified in Section 83 of the law, we request, therefore, that your League not forward information regarding the children it would serve in its solicitations of North Carolina citizens. We also request that your appeal indicate that your organization serves only children of New York City." Because officials of the Boys'

IT IS OBVIOUSLY a weak gesture for Americans to assume the role of defenders of religious freedom if the loss of that freedom would not greatly affect their lives. When the first settlers came to these shores, the religious freedom they sought involved both a negative and a positive right. They wanted to be free from coercion by a dominant religious group whose views they did not share, and also to be free to practice the religion of their own choice. Many Americans today have clung only to the negative right. It is sometimes said that they have converted freedom of religion into freedom from religion.

Inactive Christians would do well to recall the challenging question voiced by Christ: "Why do ye call me Lord, and do not the things which I say?"

Often the adherents of larger Churches are put to shame by the zealous activity of members of small sects. Such activity cannot be discounted as mere fanaticism. It is the outgrowth of deep, strong convictions. It comes from wholehearted dedication to a cause they regard as right.

There is no doubt that any religious group would be more effective if all its members actively supported its program. Its internal life would be stronger, and it would be able to exercise a more positive influence on the community and on the nation. Any religion that is worth professing is worth practicing.
