Coe, Ms. Moore is the 71-year-old mother of Harry T. and Harriet Moore of Mims, Fla., who were bombed to death by an act, unappreciated on Christmas night of 1941 as they slept in their home nestled in an orange grove owned by them near the Brevard county community of Mims on US highway number one.

FAMILY TRAINING URGED BY PASTOR MASON

At the St. James Baptist church August 1st, Rev. W. L. Mason preached about the negligence of parents concerning their children. He spoke of how Eli was held responsible for the sins of his sons and how that God punished Eli for his failure to properly train them. SUNDAY'S SERMON

THE FIRST VERSE of our lesson text not only lays down a command but also indicates a condition that will be found in a good home.

Uncovering the wicked evasions of the scribes and Pharisees, Jesus condemned them for assuming obligations that they claimed would prevent their caring for their parents. And certainly a man should now be condemned if he pleads his commitments for missions or anything else as an excuse for not doing that which is needed by his parents.

The last part of the lesson text leads us to see the blessed relation between Jesus and his mother. In his last hour on the cross, when tortured with agony, the thoughts of Jesus were divided between his mother and a repentant comrade by whose cross no mother stood. It may be that Jesus wanted his mother taken away from the last scene of his anguish, or that he meant to commit his mother to the keeping of John, for it must have been John. Or it may be that he desired both things to be done. And from that hour that decision took Mary unto his own home.

Thus we find that the Bible teaches respect for the family and all its relations. Obedience to parents is required by one of the Commandments. And as we survey conditions today we realize the importance of the family to our American way of life. Let each member in his own place strive to make the family the means of blessing.

GRID OUTLOOK VERY DARK AT MORGAN STATE

BALTIMORE — Football prospects for Morgan State College, if one is to take the word of Coach Edward P. Hurt, are like the inside of a coal mine when your lamp has gone out.

Never known to be too optimistic, the Morgan mentor this year is indeed a study in woe.

September 1 is the date set for the opening practice and members of last year's squad have been asked to report on August 31.

"If all goes well," Coach Hurt moaned, "we can expect back only 22 lettermen from last year. Five others, who went out for the team but who did not earn their letters, are also due back.

"We normally have a squad of from 50 to 60 men out in September, so you can see that if we get anywhere near that number, the majority of them will be newcomers — unknown quantities, so to speak. Prospects of new material are pretty slim."

The 1951 Morgan grid machine, which won three and lost five to give Coach Hurt the worst season in his 23 years of coaching at Morgan, will be minus the services of a number of key regulars whose places will be hard to fill.

Among these absentees will be former Co-Captains Johnny Triplett and Earl Byrd, triple-threat halfback and end, respectively, in

DALE CARNEGIE

AUTHOR OF "HOW TO STOP WORRYING AND START LIVING"

Active Life Banishes Worry. GUION L. PHILLIPS, Charlotte, N.C., once was so dissatisfied with his job that he hated to see the sun rise. He says he made life miserable for his wife when he came home at night. He was ready to quit his job, but not having another one to go to he hung on.

Then his manager told him to pack up and go to Atlanta to a sales training school. He had decided that this job offered no career for him and he felt he was wasting his time as well as the company's. But just to hold on to a job, he reported at the school.

Suddenly he realized that there were two alternatives for him: (1) He could just waste time and do nothing but be bored. (2) He could fill every minute with study and activity and get all he could out of this course; he had nothing to lose. The sales training would be good for any new undertaking.

So he grabbed on to that course with jaws firm and he got every speck of knowledge and experience from it he could. His enthusiasm overwhelmed him. He hadn't known he could forget worry so easily. Every day his assignments were in on time, his lessons prepared, and he participated in class discussion more than he ever had in any lecture course. To his surprise he gained weight, felt better and got a tremendous boost from the training school. He reported back to his company a new man; worry was gone; enthusiastic activity was the answer. Since then he has kept so busy practicing the things he learned that his mind has had no time for worry.

Time passed. At times discouragement and doubt try to creep into his mind when things don't go right, but he has found the answer. Get busy! An active life is too full to have any room for idle worry!
