Employment Report Shows Raleigh Is Progressing Fast

RALEIGH — The Raleigh Local Employment Offices had a record month in the post-war period in August, placing 1,009 persons in employment, reports Manager Lee Craven. Not only has the pace of World War II have they placed as many as 1000 persons in one month and that was in September 1950 when 1,006 persons found employment through the assistance of the local offices. The record one year ago shows that 551 were placed in August 1951. This is certainly indicative of a growing Raleigh. More than 60 new firms have been licensed to operate in and near Raleigh in the first seven months of the year ranging in size from small individual firms with two or three employees to plants that are employing around 500 workers.

Labor demands continue rather heavy and are expected to increase during the next two to four months. The supply has increased with more housewives and other unpaid family workers entering the labor market in order to supplement the family income due to the increase cost of living. The civilian labor force in the Raleigh area totals 59,000 persons with 57,000 employed. A breakdown of this figure shows 29,500 employed in non agricultural, wage and salary work including 6,200 in manufacturing and 32,800 in nonmanufacturing. A total of 2,500 are engaged in agricultural work while 14,900 are self employed.

There was a total of 6,439 visits made to the local office including the claimants for unemployment compensation who report weekly visits decreased by approximately 1,500 during the month, however the number of persons placed in employment nearly doubled the July placements. A total of 257 new applications were received including 158 women and 40 veterans. Active applications on file at the end of the month numbered 712 including 418 women and 84 veterans. 32 of these are physically handicapped in some capacity including 11 women. Not more than 30 by any means are employed at present. Quite a number are trying to increase their family income, or are trying to more fully utilize their skills. A total of 201 tests were administered during the month with more than 100 of them for one industry which is coming into Raleigh within the next month is the bulk of these were given specific aptitude and proficiency tests. A total of 1344 referrals were made including 316 to agriculture.

Of the 1,009 placements 824 were in non agricultural employment while 185 went to agricultural employment. There were 412 orders received during the month calling for 1,154 workers which is more than double the number called for in July. Openings unfilled at the end of the month numbered 730 compared with 629 in July. Regarding employer visits to the local offices, there were 73 while a total of 168 visits were made to employers of which 99 were in agriculture. Initial claims for unemployment compensation numbering 385 including 200 women; this was 39 less than in July. Continued claims decreased by over 1100 from July evidencing greater employment.

Industrial Breakdown: The Agricultural placements numbering 185, as compared with 71 last month, were on tobacco and general farms. Among the 224 non agricultural placements, 141 were in construction, 42 in manufacturing and 95 were with wholesale and retail trade establishments. Service establishments other than household received 19 of these

ABOUT TOWN

WITH SARAH VIRGO

State Fair Livestock Show Will Offer Many Premiums

A livestock show, offering $27,145 in premiums and labeled "big issue" by Dr. D. W. Colvard, head of the Department of Animal Industry at N. C. State College, is scheduled as a part of 85th anniversary of the State Fair, to be held in Randleman, N. C. Competition is planned in all four breeds of dairy cattle and in the Hereford and Aberdeen Angus breeds of beef cattle.

Dr. Colvard is chairman of the State Fair's new livestock advisory board which comprises representatives of all types of livestock, plus education leaders. These are: Forrest Fanner of Blount County, Dairymen's Association, Sideling, representing beef cattle breeders; W. Austin of Jefferson, dual-purpose cattle breeders; R. E. Byrd of Bunnlevel, swine breeders; and W. W. Hill of Raleigh, sheep breeders.

Educational leaders on the board include: Dr. H. J. Rollins, state veterinarian; Dr. A. A. Hosman, veterinarian of the U. S. Department of Agriculture; Dr. William Moore, retired state veterinarian; and Dr. C. D. Grinnell, Prof. Earl H. Hostetter and John A. Arcey, all of the State College Department of Animals Industry.

Prospective livestock exhibitors should immediately obtain a copy of the free 1952 State Fair catalog. Dr. Colvard said. This is available upon request to: Manager, State Fair, Box 1368, Raleigh. "There are many changes since last year, all approved by the Livestock Advisory Board."

Dr. Colvard pointed out, "and entries must be made on official printed forms which are attached in the back of the Fair catalog."

General livestock superintendent is J. H. Prevette of Raleigh. Department superintendents, all State College leaders, are: Dr. R. K. Waugh, head of the dairy husbandry section, dairy cattle and dual purpose cattle; S. J. Buchanan, extension animal husbandry; best cattle, Jack Kelley, in charge of extension animal husbandry, swine; and A. V. Allen, extension animal husbandryman. Sheep, a pony show lists Boyce E. Faye of Concord as superintendent.

Aggie Frosh Orientation Gets Underway Sept. 15

GREENSBORO, N. C. — Six full days have been set aside for freshman orientation at A. & T. College which begins on Monday, September 15, marking the beginning of the first year of the institution's operation. According to unofficial estimates released by the college's registrar, C. R. A. Cunningham, the freshman enrollment may equal the record figure established in 1947.

The new students will have a busy schedule for their first five days which will include tests, medical examinations, lectures, demonstrations, identification photos, campus tours and a well-planned program intended to have the first year students become well adjusted to their new surroundings. Freshman registration has been set for two days, Wednesday and Thursday, September 17 and 18. With those details out of the way, the new students will participate at the annual Freshman Worship Service in the College on Sunday morning and at the annual Freshman Reception by Dr. McKellar and Mrs. Bluford on that evening.

Upperclassmen will begin registration with the sophomores on Friday, September 19 and the juniors and seniors will go through the long lines on the following day.

SINGER MAKING HOME IN NEW YORK

J. Edward McKeller, popular and widely-known singer of Wilmington, has made his home in Brooklyn, New York. His family will follow him next month. Here, Mr. McKeller was known as an outstanding soloist. He was heard each Sunday on the State Funeral Home organ hour with the Rev. R. H. Hatcher, Jr., organist.

While in New York, Mr. McKeller will write your news from people there to the people here in Wilmington. Persons interested in getting news to the JOURNAL may contact Mr. McKeller at 405 Saratoga Avenue or may call 662-1441.

Chinese Philosopher And Austrian Added To NC College Staff

DURHAM — A Chinese philosopher and an Austrian chemist will be among the members of North Carolina College's faculty for the 1952-1953 school year.

Dr. Sing Nan-Fu, former assistant to the late Dr. John Dewey, the noted educator, is the philosopher, and Dr. Adolph Furth, who earned his Ph.D. at the University of Vienna, is the chemist. The two scholars are among a group of new faculty members who will be on hand when orientation starts at NCC on Sept. 17.

Dr. Furth is coming to NCC from Assumption College in Worcester, Mass. He has been teaching there since 1940. Prior to that time he was engaged in chemical research for commercial concerns in this country and in Europe. From 1924 until 1938 he was with the Oesterreichische Chemische Werk in Vienna, 1938-40. Under the aegis of Belge, Brussels, Belgium, 1941, Pennsylvania Salt Manufacturing Co., Philadelphia, 1942, Worcester Chemical Corporation, New York City; and from 1942-1928, I. P. Thomas and Son, Camden, N. J.

Dr. Fen, who was born in China, is now teaching at Teachers College, Columbia University, New York City, in a summer term. He has been teaching at Howard University, Washington, D. C., for the past two years.

The young Chinese scholar was educated in China and at the University of Chicago and Columbia University. He received his doctorate at Columbia in 1950.

In addition to his work in philosophy, Dr. Fen has done considerable translation from Chinese to English and from English to Chinese. He worked during 1940 and 1941 as translator for the Ching Chon Book Company in China. From 1941-1945, he was translator for the Institute of Translation of the Western Philosophical Classics. He later worked for the National Institute of Eastern Asia.

Newspaper Hails Naming Negro To Police Force In N. C. City

With its first Negro police officer having been on duty only a few days, Sanford, N.C.'s only newspaper, the Sanford Herald, published twice a week, commented editorially on the role of the officer in its issue of Monday, August 25th.

In editorializing on the appointment of H. G. Harris, former Greensboro officer, to the Sanford Police Force, the Herald said under the caption "Our Negro Policeman."

"Larger cities in this state and throughout the South have found Negro policemen most valuable additions to their forces. Sanford has now hired a Negro officer with hopes that the experiment will prove successful.

"We believe a Negro policeman has been needed here. A white public officer does not find his patrol through the colored sections
