WORK ON $4,000,000 MENTAL HOSPITAL TO BEGIN SOON

GOLDSBORO — J. W. Gaddy, business manager of the State Hospital here, announced Saturday that final plans have been completed for a $4.5 million training school for Negro children, which will be located at State Hospital.

According to Gaddy, it is hoped that bids on a portion of the project can be taken by mid-August or early in September.

Authorization of training schools here and at Camp Butler was included in $22 million bond issue for mental institution improvement and expansion approved by North Carolina voters last year.

Gaddy said that the school here will have a capacity of 1,200 children and will cover more than 100 acres. It is to be located directly across the road from the hospital dairy and will be on a hill affording a picturesque view.

The Carolinian learned from a reliable source here Wednesday that Shaw University officials will announce soon the signing of Robert (Duke) Brown, wellknown football and basketball coach, who is known to have made a tremendous record at Morris College, Sumter, South Carolina, for the past two seasons.

Brown comes to the local Baptist institution with a successful background. He is a product of Johnson C. Smith University and served with Eddie Jackson at the Charlotte college. When Jackson left the Presbyterian school and took over at Howard University, he took Brown with him.

Juvenile Officers In Confab At Durham

DURHAM—The individualized approach to the problems of juvenile delinquency in the hands of professionally trained people is the most economical approach in terms of human values and in terms of actual dollars and cents, according to a consultant of the National Probation and Parole Officers' Association here recently.

Truly McGree of the NFPA's Southern Regional office in Austin, Texas, made that observation at North Carolina College. The NFPA and NCC's Summer School are cooperatively sponsoring the first annual Institute for Juvenile Probation Officers.

The institute opened June 21 and continues through June 23. Dr. Charles E. King, professor of sociology, was coordinator of the project.

In an interview following the opening get-acquainted session, McGree said, "The past half century's progress in juvenile probation work has kept pace with advances in human psychology and psychiatry."

"These two sciences have taught us that there are no criminal

NC Reported Ready To Accept Court Edict

The Wednesday poll of the 17 southern states, affected by the de-segregation edict of the United States Supreme Court, was an encouraging one to citizens of North Carolina who wanted their state to remain loyal to the constitution and to wipe out every vestige of segregation in the public schools of the state based upon race, conducted by the United Press.

The release was sent out from Atlanta and listed North Carolina as one of the states that would fall in line after some delay. The survey is in keeping with the recent decision of the State Board of Education, which asserted that due to the many problems affecting the change, and the fact that the Supreme Court had asked for further arguments on the matter, so that all phases of the change-over might be properly considered, that it would start the 1954-55 session under its present setup. It further stated that the Board would continue to work toward abiding by the court order and called upon every citizen of North Carolina to approach the whole matter calmly and with thought.

A call, by the CAROLINIAN to Governor Unstead's office, was routed to the office of the head of the educational system for the state, R. A. Carroll Mr. Carroll was out of the city, but one of the assistants in the office read the Board's ruling to the CAROLINIAN.

MISS CAROLYN SMITH — A summa cum laude graduate of NCC, Miss Smith, whose father, the late I. H. Smith, was the son of a former member of the state legislature, is now an instructor of commerce at St. Augustine's College, Raleigh. Miss Smith received the master's degree in business education at Boston University with one of the highest averages ever registered at the New England institution.

The two ladies will travel directly from Durham to Quebec, Canada, where they will embark on the SS Atlantic on June 8.

It will be a second trip for Miss Newton who was in Europe two years ago with the late Mrs. Gertrude Taylor and Dean Ruth C. Rush of Spelman College, Atlanta, Ga. The two ladies will visit England, Scotland, Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Holland, Belgium and France.

Nude Woman Hauler Is Hauled In

One of the most bizarre interracial orgies to occur here was reported Monday afternoon when a nude and intoxicated Negro woman was spotted half-hanging out of the rear window of the car of a white man who was also drunk.

The car was stopped by a highway patrolman just east of Raleigh Monday afternoon and its driver was charged with drunken driving. He was released after posting bond.

The woman, who was later identified as Alberta Lockhart, has been charged with public public drunkenness and indecent exposure. Last reports show that she is still in Wake County jail here.

Patrolman John T. Rowe quoted the driver, identified as Donald Hancock, 39, as saying he and the woman had been "drinking gin together."

A pair of dungarees, which was the only woman's apparel found in the auto was wadded and stuffed under the front seat.

The highway patrolman also stated that he observed the car heading towards Raleigh, about three miles east of the city limits. The woman, he said, was hanging half way out of a rear seat window at times, shouting and waving to passersby.

The car was stopped by the officer, and the driver was immediately placed under arrest.

Hancock, whose address was listed as Raleigh, was quoted as saying that he picked the woman up near the shopping center that is now being erected in Longview Gardens about an hour before he was arrested at 2:30 p.m.

Also assisting in the arrest was Patrolman F. R. Wicker.

Trial for the pair has been set for June 24 in Wendell's Recorder's court.

SOLDIERS ARE ROBBED — FAYETTEVILLE— Cumberland County police were informed by two Fort Bragg soldiers that they had been robbed at gunpoint by hitchhikers and then left tied to trees in a wooded area near here.

The affair is alleged to have occurred Sunday. Ira Staggall and Richard G. Marsh, both of Battery C, 319th Field Artillery Battalion, said that the armed robbery occurred about noon, shortly after they had picked up the hitchhiker on Bragg Boulevard. The men said that the assassins, both Negroes, drew a pistol and instructed them to drive to a secluded area of Murchison Road. There, the soldiers reported they were robbed of $13 and tied to trees. The sheriff said that the soldiers told him that their hands were tied behind them and they were bound to the trees with neckties and belts.

N. C. News In Brief

FUMPS 50 PELLETS INTO "FRIEND" — ZEBULON—A Zebulon resident who pumped "40 or 50" pellets into another man this past weekend and then shot at deputies who were seeking him, is apparently enjoying his stint of freedom. According to Deputy Sheriff Earl Duke, he and Zebulon Chief of Police W. B. Hopkins were still looking for John D. High, about 33, Tuesday. The man is reported to have turned a shotgun on Melvin Foster "full steam." Foster is about 35 and lives in Zebulon. The shot is reported to have gone "slam through one ear. The deputy also said that the pellet hit Foster in the chest, neck and leg. He added that Foster was not hurt very badly. Later on when Duke and Hopkins were at High's home, the man, hiding some distance away, showered his own home. The police car was also damaged. "He really laughed about shooting at those deputies," one of High's relatives is reported to have said.

GANGSTER KILLER HELD, VICTIM BURIED

DURHAM—A husband whose wife is alleged to have stayed away all night Sunday night and whose emotions were so aroused that he used his Buick automobile to track her down in the early hours of Monday morning, was killed on Durham's main thoroughfare, Fayetteville Street, about 7 o'clock of the same day, when he forced the car in which his wife was riding into the curb.

The drama unfolds with much interest and some pathos. John W. Penny, 44, tobacco worker, whose address was 1100 Fayetteville Street, is reported to have spotted his wife in a car with Lawrence C. Jackson, 49, 104 West Enterprise Street, as they drove north on Fayetteville Street. Penny is alleged to have suspected that all was not well.

REV. JAMES PRICE — The ordained minister was accused of placing his hands on Mrs. Delliah Perry, formerly of Fayetteville, and of making an improper proposal to her. The woman also related to the court that the defendant entered her house to return a jar which, at his request, she had filled with water for the crew of men working on the sidewalk in front of her home.

Price, in relating his side of the story to a newsman, said that he never entered the woman's apartment, but merely handed the jar to her as she stood in her back door.

The man said he had had occasion to use the telephone of Mrs. Hinsley at least twice each day to order materials for his work. Mrs. Hinsley resides in an apartment next to the alleged victim's Price, who had five men working under him on the day of the supposed assault, said that his men expressed the desire for a drink of water. He said he went to the driveway that separates the homes of Mrs. Hinsley and Mrs. Perry's apartments and found the two of them standing in the driveway in a conversation.

He reportedly asked for some water for his employees, not speaking to either of the women particularly, and Mrs. Perry immediately went into the house and secured a jar of water and a glass. Price (Continued on page 8)

Rocky Mt. Bank Aids Farmer

BY J. B. HANSEN Staff Writer — ROCKY MOUNT—The fact that rock bankers and government officials are not "scurlocks" or heartless people interested only in exacting "the last pound of flesh" from a hapless individual, was vividly demonstrated here last week when the local Peop's Bank and Trust Co. teamed up with the U. S. Treasury Department in re-arranging Nash County farmer Frank Johnson, about seventy years of age, in the amount of $800 for currency he lost in a fire that destroyed a house he was rebuilding.

ONLY ASHES REMAINED — Reports here it that Johnson was only able to find the tin can, which had contained the $800, and the ashes of the money therein. In addition, Johnson lost about $70 in melted silver. This the government was unable to identify sufficient to replace, but analysis of the ashes verified Johnson's contention about the $800 in currency which was made good by Uncle Sam. Let no one say he does not have a heart, even tho it may not appear in evidence on income tax day. Still another $400 in a wallet was reported unaccounted for.

1st Auto Death Driver Freed

An Angier white man who was jailed here recently on a manslaughter charge growing out of the death of a local Negro resident, was freed of the charges in City Court Wednesday as "surprise" evidence was presented to the court.

David Edward Dupree, 39, of Angier, Route 1, who received a preliminary hearing on a manslaughter count, was freed after no probable cause was found. The Harnett County farmer drove the car which caused Raleigh's first traffic fatality in a period of 18 months.

His victim, Thomas Lassiter, 41, of 911 Manly Street, died June 7, the day after he was struck down by Dupree's automobile.

Lassiter, who at the time of the accident was a pedestrian, was struck down at the intersection of South and Harrington Streets. Skid marks showed that the man was knocked 40 feet and that the car skidded 30 feet after the impact.

Dupree, defended by Raleigh Attorney Carl Gaddy, described an action-packed second before the collision that had not previously been related.
