Lenoir County Forges Ahead With Improved Farm Plan

A Home Demonstration Agent for Lenoir County, Miss V. G. Black, is planning to help...

HOME DEMONSTRATION AGENT — Miss Dorothy Virdell Valentine, who holds the top spot in home demonstration work in Jones County. She is a native of Due West, S. C., and graduated from the Mather school, Beaufort, S. C. She also got her degree at A. & T. College and has been working in Jones County for 3 months. She is a member of the Zeta Phi Beta Sorority.

as well as the non-rural families. One of the main objectives of the program is to help themselves to improve their standards of living. Miss Black is based on the family life part of the program in which an effort is made to develop desirable family relationships and build better communities.

Miss Black began her work as Home Demonstration Agent for Lenoir County August 1, 1945. She is a graduate of A. & T. College, Greensboro, and is a native of Cleveland, Arkansas.

One can certainly see evidence of growth with the home demonstration club members in all phases of family and community life. We feel that this growth and increased interest is due in part to the goals set up each year by the club members which serve as an incentive for work. Then, too, it is evident that more people are beginning to want and appreciate the finer things of life.

Alhaha can be grown successfully in all sections of North Carolina with the exception of the Tidewater areas.

MISS ALEASE MASSEN-BLEGG, Home Demonstration Agent, Craven County, has been in the county for two years. She has planned the work with the housewives of the county with such thought and pleasure that all of the families who have taken advantage of the program have rated her as one of the best in the department.

The recently passed agricultural trade act provides for the movement of $700,000,000 worth of surplus farm products through acceptance of foreign currencies, barter, and other similar means.

CHAMPION — Walter Martin, Carver High School, Wayne County, is shown with the prize cow that took honors at both the district meet, and the regional show, last year. Walter is expecting more competition this year. Like all champions, he is the envy of the less fortunate. According to his tutor, he will be in there pitching and should be a new champion. He will have to swing from the heels.

Five County Cattle Show Top 4-H Events

KINSTON — Four-H Club members and the New Farmers of America from Craven, Wayne, Jones, and Lenoir counties will bring their prize animals to the annual show...

This year's show has fair to being the best that has been held in the county. The Lenoir Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring the meet in conjunction with the Agents of the five counties, Miss V. G. Black, Miss Alease Massen-Blegg, and Extension Lady Spradling, State College Raleigh, will be in hand to aid in conducting the show. They will also serve as official judges.

Walter Martin, a student at Carver High School, Wayne County, took over the title of champion from Wayne Martin, Hargett, and Thomas West, both of Craven High.

The competition is due to be announced this year. The other counties are known to have worked hard and hard and are believed to have some new and better that will make fine showings.

W. M. PAYTON Lenoir County Farm Agent who has headed the county program in such an extent that Negro farmers are now considered new around farmers and are able to realize bigger earnings from their labors.

There were 23 per cent fewer farms in the Great Plains states in 1950 than in 1930.
