Raleigh's Slums Help Cops Solve Hidden Murder Mystery

Welfare Department Takes Six Children Of "Singer"

The slums of the state's capital city helped another death here Tuesday evening when it was announced that a drunken woman had given local detectives a clue as to who was responsible for the death of Neal Aycock, white truck driver, on last Halloween night.

Mrs. Georgia Brown, who is alleged to have been found near the scene of the crime, is reported to have mumbled something that gave the officers the clue. It could not be learned, however, how Mrs. Brown got to the place where she was found, or how the officers obtained the information that she was out there.

The peculiar twist of the case came when Rookie Policeman J. C. Lancaster is said to have become intensely interested in the place and asked Patrol Sergeant George D. Pearce to drive him over to the place where the dead man was found. It was, according to Pearce, that as they walked toward the stream where the white man's body was found they came across the woman who was said to be "old drunk" and had passed out.

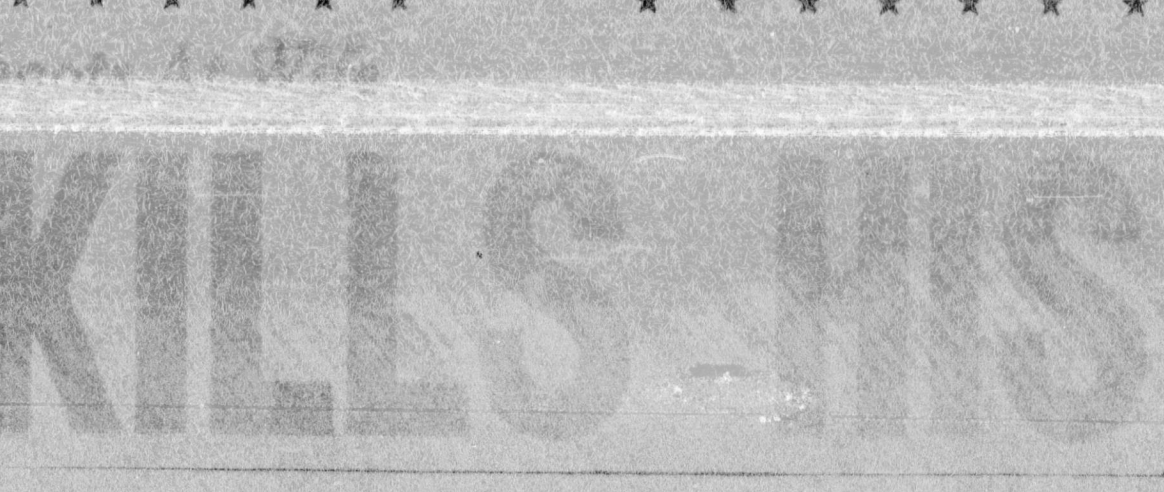

The woman lives at 21 Meigs St., which is quite some distance from where she was reported to have been found. (CONTINUED ON PAGE 11)

Webster Not Upset Over Sentence

(Special to CAROLINIAN) GREENSBORO — The seventh day embezzlement trial of Nathaniel N. Webster, 30 years bursar at A&T College, ended here late Tuesday when a Guilford Superior Court jury brought in a verdict of guilty on each of five separate bills of indictment.

Judge Sible Sharp then sentenced Webster to 15-22 years in Central Prison for embezzling $35,609.51 from the state supported institution. Notice of an appeal to the State Superior Court was filed immediately by Counsel and Webster was released under $20,000 bond.

Consecutive sentences were meted out to the defendant as follows: 7-10 years for embezzling $10,329.24; 5-7 years for embezzling $2,472.21; 2-5 years for embezzling $4,322.31.

Man Killed For Using Profanity At Kinston

KINSTON (UPI)—In what has been termed "a typical Staturday" one man is dead and another is in jail.

Luke Jackson, 57 year-old man of Route 2, Grifton, is in County jail charged with first degree murder in the shotgun slaying of Charlie Rhodie also of Grifton.

According to a written statement provided by the sheriff's department by Benjamin Pulner and Ora Atchinson, eye witnesses to the shooting, Jackson and Rhodie began arguing and cursing each other early Saturday afternoon. During the dispute Jackson attacked Rhodie with a fence post, breaking the improvised weapon in two over Rhodie's body.

Later, Jackson went into his house, got his shotgun and set it inside the door before returning to the yard to continue his argument with Rhodie. Shortly thereafter, Jackson went into the house again and came back with the gun. He told Charlie he didn't want to kill him, according to "State" statements, but Charlie kept on cursing, and Luke fired the gun at him.

Rhodie fell to the ground and turned over three times. The Atchinson woman told sheriff's officers she went over to the body to ascertain whether or not Rhodie was dead and added, on inquiry, that Rhodie was warned, Jackson later in the week waived preliminary hearing before recorder Albert Cowper and was bound over for trial in Lenoir County Superior Court.

Desegregation Inevitable, 200 NAACP Delegates Told

ATLANTA—More than 200 NAACP delegates from seven States were told that desegregation is "inevitable" during the course of their three-day meeting here last week.

A statement issued by the group declared that "the people opposing desegregation in the nation's public schools are wrong and they know it."

The delegates who represented 275 NAACP branches in Georgia, Alabama, Florida, Tennessee, Mississippi and the two Carolinas were holding their third such meeting in the South since the Supreme Court ruled last May 17 that there should be no more segregation in the public schools.

The group called attempts by states to circumvent the high court's ruling "unconstitutional" and "morally wrong."

2 Men Killed On Highways

HALIFAX—Death on the highway took two lives here over the weekend when two men named Williams, no relation, Charlie and James, died as the result of contact with automobiles.

Infant Slain By Shot Intended For Mother

SILER CITY — I did not mean to kill my child, but I really was mad enough with my wife and meant to kill her," was the gist of the confession that Fred Siler made to Sheriff J. W. Enterson Jr. here Sunday morning after having been arrested for the slaying of his 19 month old son and the wounding of his wife, Mrs. Mary Siler.

The sheriff related the incident to the writer at an exclusive interview that was held with him on Monday morning. From the information given by the Chatham officer Fred came home about 2 A.M. Sunday morning and according to the sheriff, was under the influence of some intoxicating beverage. Upon his arrival, his wife asked him where he had been. It was then that he went into a rage.

Asked About Money
The wife continued her questioning and replied that the worst of the family spat when she asked him about some money he had allegedly to have owed her. It was then that Siler began beating her. To escape the fury of her enraged husband, she ran to the home of a neighbor, clad only in her night gown and barefooted. She asked the neighbor to call her brother Floyd Mauldin.

Mauldin related how he went to the rescue of his sister and took her to his home. He said his brother, that she was afraid to stay there any longer and that she wanted to go to the home of her mother. Floyd attempted to reconcile the two, but to no avail. Fred is alleged to have agreed to the mother gathering her brood of two and going to her mother's home.

Floyd told the Carolinian that he loaded his sister and her two children in his car and proceeded to take them to the safety of the mother's home. The Silers lived on Spring Camp Highway in order to reach the home of the mother. It was necessary to travel about two miles to highway 64, thence to another road which leads off the highway. Floyd related that he noticed a car following closely behind him and when he pulled into his driveway, the other car pulled alongside his home and Mrs. Siler got out on the right side of the car and he got out on the left. It was then that he heard the bang of the rifle. The mother, still carrying the child went into her mother's home. She did not know at the time that the child had been shot. The child was laid on the bed and some one placed a blanket over it. It was then discovered that the mother's stomach had been grazed by the bullet. (CONTINUED ON PAGE 11)

WINS $15,000 FROM RAILROAD

GREENSBORO—A compromise settlement of $15,000 will be received by Frank Spencer, former porter with the Southern Railway Co. for injuries sustained when a Salisbury stationmaster hit him two years ago.

Spencer had sought $100,000 damages for physical and mental injuries which he says he sustained when W. M. Ketchie, the stationmaster, hit him with a blackjack. Ketchie admitted hitting Spencer but testified that he used only his fists.

A jury had deliberated almost eight hours before attorneys for the railway company compromised with Spencer's attorneys in Guilford Superior Court.

Man Eats Rat Poison, Lives To Tell About It

HIGH POINT—Ernest Holley, 40-year-old man, who didn't believe that the poison his wife was feeding the rats around their house wasn't strong enough to kill them, ate some of it and lived. But he still didn't convince Mrs. Holley.

Thanks to her insistence in calling police, Holley is still around. Taken to the hospital, Holley was forced by nurses to drink a large quantity of salt water and then taken to the hospital's emergency room where a stomach pump was used.

2 MEN LOOKED HONEST, BUT SHE'S OUT $72
