YOUNG WOMAN MURDERED IN BED WHILE READING MURDER MYSTERY; POLICE JAIL BOY FRIEND

LUCKY AUTO OWNER
The lucky car last week was the one bearing the tag number 44-129. If the owner of that car took it to Dunn's Esso Service, corner Calhoun and Broadworth Streets, in Raleigh, he received a free grease job.
This will happen every week. Watch for your tag number. If it follows the asterisk, you will get the grease job. The number will be taken from any car bearing a N. C. license.
The numbers this week:
846-564; X65-449; 760-848; X78-007; X88-146; 946-147.

Week-End Of Murder.

WEEKEND SAID BLOODIEST IN CITY'S HISTORY

By Staff Writer
Raleigh was undoubtedly the "bloodiest" city in the state last weekend as four race residents lost their lives violently.
Friday night ushered in the weekend of death as Miss Katherine Bryant, 37, practical nurse and housekeeper, staggered out of the kitchen and fell across the bed of her employer at 501 1/2 W. Lenoir Street.
Joe Washington, 50, soon came out of the kitchen behind the Bryant woman. When she arrived at Saint Agnes Hospital, she was pronounced dead. Her death was attributed by hospital officials to a fractured skull.
Washington was bound over to Wake Superior Court after a hearing in City Court Monday to face a charge of murder.
Amos Uley fell dead in Staton's Cafe in the 300 block of S. East Street at 2:43 a.m. Saturday. Uley, 24, was shot in the heart.
George Bennett, local resident, is alleged to have shot Uley following a "crap game".
The two were allegedly in a (CONTINUED ON PAGE EIGHT)

2ND CARNATION HEALTHY BABY CONTEST AWAITED

The official starting date of the Second Annual Hometown "Carnation Healthy Baby Contest" will be announced in this newspaper sometime next week, according to late word received from the Carnation Company just as we went to press.
Last year's contest brought such an avalanche of healthy-

ROBBER TAKES WALLET AS VA. WOMAN SLEEPS

By CHARLES E. JONES
A nimble-handed thief visited the Fuquay Springs Bus Station last Wednesday night, looted a sleeping woman's purse though it was attached to her arm, decided he preferred her billfold, took it, and "silently stole away into the night," leaving the Richmond, Va. woman asleep, unaware of the fact that she was stranded in a strange town, without funds and apparently without friends.
Mrs. Ruth Richardson Howell, a native of Richmond, was returning to her home via bus from Florence, S. C. She arrived in Fuquay Springs at about 9:30 p.m. Wednesday and was told by the ticket agent that the last bus had left for Raleigh and Richmond several hours before. She was informed that the next bus would not come through the town until the next morning.
Mrs. Howell, who knew no one in North Carolina, decided she would sleep in the bus station all night.
She remembered distinctly that she had her purse straps wrapped closely around her arm when she finally dozed off. Several persons of both sexes were reported as being (CONTINUED ON PAGE EIGHT)

By ALEXANDER BARNES
CHAPLAIN, Ill. — Funeral services for Miss Martha Eymann, 22, who died as the result of a bullet fired by the hand of John Rice, about 12:30 Saturday morning, were held at the Haw River Baptist Church Monday afternoon. The Rev. T. Van Rhee, presiding. Clarence Eymann, brother of the dead girl, and eye witness to the shooting told the CAROLINIAN that Rice had been in the house for some time and there was no sign of any difference between the two and he had no inkling that murder was on Rice's mind. ### State News Brief

BEAUTICIANS PLAN CONVENTION
A meeting of the local chapter thirty-five of the convention committee of the North Carolina Beauticians Association and Mrs. Willie Ford Hennessee, state president, Asheville, was held here at the home of Miss Vivian Burt Tuesday. The 16th annual session will convene at Raleigh, April 24 through 27. Local beauticians are going all out to entertain the group when several hundred delegates from every section of the state will be in attendance. Among the members present at the planning meeting Tuesday were Mrs. Marie Riddick, convention chairman; Mesdames Joella Perry, Christiana Pitts, Mattie Haves, Freddie M. Williams, Geneva Highsmith and Sam Vick.

Mother's Whiskey Death Being Probed By Officers

DURHAM — When the mourners file into St. John Baptist Church Saturday afternoon for the funeral of Miss Hattie Mae Scott, 21, who was found dead in bed here at her home 208 Cobb Street, there will be three children, ages one, two and three, who will not realize that they are the most affected.
Miss Scott is believed to have died from alcoholism after having been put to bed after being brought from the home of a friend, Mrs. Rose Sentry, about 9:30 Sunday night.
Mrs. Sentry told the CAROLINIAN that she noticed that Miss Scott had a little too much and asked James Royster and Theodore Black to take her home. Mrs. Flora Scott, mother of the dead girl, related how the two men brought her home and that she was put to bed.
Monday morning she was called to breakfast and when there was no response, her mother and other members of the family, went into the room and found her dead in bed.

COP SLAIN, HOLD CHIEF OF POLICE

By J. B. HARREN
PRINCETON — This Edgecombe County all-colored town of about a thousand people was shocked last week when their popular police chief, James Jones was lodged in the county jail at Tarboro (just across the river) without privilege of bond, in connection with the fatal shooting of Lewis Andrews, a member of the Greenville police force for only about thirty days.
Andrews died in a Tarboro hospital after having been allegedly shot by Chief Jones following an altercation about which there are different reports being circulated.
The dead Andrews and his wife, Mrs. Emma Andrews, before he died, reportedly told Sheriff Tom Bardin that Edward Battle was arguing with a girl in front of a store when Andrews approached "and broke up the dispute." Battle is said to have found Chief Jones and returned to the scene of the altercation, whereupon Jones is reported as saying to Patrolman Andrews: "I'm not going to have you all arguing on the street."
He ordered Andrews to turn in his badge and police equipment immediately. Mrs. Andrews said her husband said he'd turn in the equipment Saturday as he was on duty then. She said Jones repeated his demand and pulled his pistol and shot her husband. Two shots were fired, she said, one missing and one hit. (CONTINUED ON PAGE EIGHT)

Desegregation Problem In NC Draws Mixed Reactions

The matter of desegregation in the nation's public schools and those in North Carolina in particular, brought varying reactions in widely separated areas over the weekend. In Raleigh, at Asheville and at Cambridge Mass., opponents and proponents of jim crow schools had the following to say:

N. C. Solons Want Tight Jim Crow

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. — "When colleges fail to take a stand against discrimination, they lose the capacity to function democratically," Dr. John Hope Franklin, Howard University history professor, declared here Saturday.
Speaking at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology's National Intercollaborative Conference on Selectivity and Discrimination in (CONTINUED ON PAGE EIGHT)

Howard Prof. Hits Education Bias

Diehard in the North Carolina legislature were engaged in a last-ditch fight this week to keep separate schools.
For the second time, the House education committee last week approved a bill aimed at preserving public school segregation by giving local boards complete authority over the enrollment and assignment of pupils. (CONTINUED ON PAGE EIGHT)

NEA Head Plumps For Segregation

ASHEVILLE — The hope that state and local governments will continue in control of public school desegregation was expressed here Saturday by Mrs. Waurine Walker, president of the National Education Association.
Speaking at the closing session of the 71st general convention of the North Carolina Education Association, Mrs. Walker, whose (CONTINUED ON PAGE EIGHT)

MASONS' SUPREME COUNCIL MEMBERS, N. C. CONSTITUTIONS IN LOCAL MEETING—Two members of the Supreme Council of Masonry and two North Carolina Constitutions met at the Masonic Lodge here Sunday to consider possible nominees for the active

Baton Rouge, La. and Grand Master of Louisiana Masons; J. E. Dickson, Grand Chancellor, Columbia, S. C. and Grand Master of South Carolina Masons; and Fred Alexander, Charlotte, son of the late Zack Alexander. Sr. Both Lewis and Dickson are active 33rd degree Masons while Diggs and Alexander are honorary 33rd degree holders.

ASLEEP IN AUTO. BURNS TO DEATH

HIGH POINT — The body of David (Kline David) Armstrong, 36, was found by firemen called to extinguish a blaze in a junked car behind a service station here Monday.
Residents near the junk yard noticed flames shooting from the car about 7:30 p.m. and called firemen who found Armstrong's body, burned from the waist down, in the front seat which had almost been consumed by the blaze.
Dr. W. W. Harvey, coroner for Guilford County, ruled that Armstrong, who was unmarried and lived in a rooming house, died of suffocation. He said that the man had been drinking heavily. Operators of the service station said that Armstrong had asked permission around 3 p.m. to sleep in one of the wrecked cars.

Housewives Acclaim Show

When the last session of the 3rd annual Food Show and Home-makers Exposition closed at the First Baptist Church, Dr. O. S. Bullock, pastor, Friday night, hundreds of housewives proclaimed it the greatest ever held in the city.
The show began Wednesday and ran for three days. Dr. Bullock not only welcomed the show to the church, on behalf of himself and the many members, but was on hand at most of the sessions to offer prayer and God's benediction upon the event. Deacon P. G. Mitchell filled in for Dr. Bullock during the two sessions that he was not in attendance.
The big feature of the show was the Philco kitchen which was set up in the Sunday School auditorium by Rhodes

Furniture Company, equipped with the Philco Appliances. Miss Rosa Lee Armstrong and Mrs. Aliene Mentz, Carolina Power and Light Company demonstrators were in charge of the demonstrations. Miss Dorothy Jones, Home Economist for radio station WRSC, Durham, made a guest appearance.
The crowning event of the entire show was a musical recital given by Prof. and Mrs. D. D. Dawson, Maus Piano Company. The two accomplished musicians thrilled the audience with religious music Friday night. Mr. Dawson played the organ and Mrs. Dawson played the piano. All of the numbers were given together and the blend of the strains from (CONTINUED ON PAGE EIGHT)

Rotation More Democratic

AN EDITORIAL
The CAROLINIAN does not subscribe to the thought of the indispensable man in a city of 73,000 as apparently many of our city fathers do in mulling over the appointment of replacements for two school board members.
We believe there is no doubt in the minds of the people of Raleigh as to the worth, ability and contribution of Mrs. H. D. Pressly and Attorney F. J. Carnage. Mrs. Pressly is an astute and gracious lady. Mr. Carnage is a known civic, political and fraternal personality of wide scope and recognition. Both these board members are capable and many orchids can be bestowed upon them. However, the point of this editorial is to suggest to the Council and PTA Council the need for rotation. The CAROLINIAN believes a city stifles itself when it only uses the capacity of a few of its citizens, year in year out, believing they cannot be replaced by other citizens of equal worth and ability.
Stagnation easily sets in on a system of retention without regard for others with equal ability. Continued appointment of the same people is like a cartel or monopoly. Why shouldn't the monopoly be good when it allows no one to compete with it? Why shouldn't a board member be outstanding after years, in fact after twenty years, no matter who the person happens to be? It stands to reason that doing something over and over one should get better.
