Women's Choir Of Shaw Scores In Local Sing

The Women's Choir and Vocalists of Shaw University, headed by the University. The choir sang one of the features of the Fine Arts Festival held during the week on the campus.

The Women's Choir showed excellent training in every composition rendered from the very intricate, "WATCHING OVER EBBEL" by Mendelssohn, to the simple folk songs which were delightfully interpreted.

The voice students, Ruth Jones, Virginia Egan and Frederick Bohms kept the audience intent and their keen insight of the composition which they sang.

It is a tribute to the University to see student perform in such a professional manner as they did Wednesday night.
