TEACHERS WALKED AWAY FROM THIS-Three school teachers, all men, narrowly escaped death Friday night when the late model car above, driven by W. A. Rainbow, Raleigh resident, collided with an auto driven by Lattie Jones of near Garner. The accident occurred on the Poole Road, one mile outside the city limits. Jones, who is reported to have been at fault, is in a serious condition at Saint Agnes. Five other occupants of his car were also hospitalized. Rainbow, who teaches at the Washington Junior High School here, was accompanied by Eugene Logan and Joseph Waters, both of whom teach in Wake County. All three escaped serious injury.
