Soror Yarbrough is a member of the First Baptist Church and sings with the Moseley-Jones Choral group of that church.

the Camera Guild

The low angle of the camera makes the subject and the occasion stand out in importance in this appealing shot.

Angling for Importance

It's amazing how different one subject can look when pictured from various angles. That's why we so often remind you to think twice before shooting from the customary straight-on point of view.

Looking up, or looking down, on a subject through the viewfinder of the camera can change the whole feeling of the picture. Looking up at your subject tends to emphasize its importance, to give it stature.

The illustration we selected for today's column proves this point quite definitely. A straight-on shot of the young miss in her party dress would have made a very nice picture. But the picture taken from the low angle dramatizes the importance of the occasion and calls attention to her dress' part in this importance.

In this particular picture, the background is naturally charming and appropriate and could be viewed satisfactorily from any angle. However, that's not always the case. Sometimes a change in camera angle can transform the background completely — turning it from a cluttered, distracting one into a neutral or complimentary setting for a lovely subject.

For example, in an indoor picture, a low angle may give you plain wall-space for a background, from a straightforward shot would reveal furniture to call some attention from the subject. Outdoors, the low angle shot can often make use of the sky as a background—and you won't find a better one.

No matter what your subject, don't be afraid to view it from more than one angle. The extra seconds spent looking through the viewfinder can pay big dividends in picture satisfaction.

ROYALTY IN RHYTHM—Guilene Guy, a Canadian girl of French extraction wears her crown as "Princess of Rhythm," and marks the occasion with a few cool notes on the trumpet of the "King" of jazz - Louis Armstrong. Miss Guy was brought to Paris as a discovery by French vocalist Charles Trenet, and is the first non-American ever to win the title. She celebrated by attending a record-breaking concert of Louis and his All-Stars at a Paris concert hall. (Newspress Photo).

"Living Madonnas"

Bennett Players Into Annual Christmas Pageant Sunday

GREENSBORO — The traditional presentation of the "Living Madonnas" annual Christmas pageant, will be held at Bennett College on Sunday, December 11, at 7 p. m. in Pfeiffer Chapel.

This year, in addition to recreating some of the world's masterpieces depicting scenes at the time of the birth of the Christ Child, there will be portrayals of paintings done by some of the college's art students, showing their conception of the Virgin Birth.

After reading and discussing various Biblical passages dealing with their instructor, Oliver W. Agee, the students then created on canvas their interpretations. Among the students whose work will be shown are Julia Rearden, junior, of Edgefield, S. C.; Margarie Mays, sophomore of Greensboro; Thelma Culbreth, senior of New York City; Alice Badgett, junior of Pelham, N. C.; and Ruth A. Johnson, junior of Mebane.

Music for the production will be provided by the Senior Choir, directed by Miss Mary J. Moore and there will be narration by Miss Julia McClain, junior of Grady, Ala., and a speech ensemble, Mrs. Louise G. Street is chairman of the committee in charge of this year's production.

Christmas Program Feature Of World Fellowship Body

RALEIGH — At the regular meeting of the World Fellowship Group of the Sojourner Truth Branch, YWCA, a Christmas program was rendered. The devotion was led by Misses Loretta Linear and Sylvia Williams, students at Shaw University. A solo was rendered by Miss Evangeline Forbes, also a student of Shaw, accompanied by Mrs. Mary G. Carter.

The featured speaker for the occasion was Rev. Gaylord Noyce, white pastor of the United Church. Rev. Noyce's speech was centered around the "Meaning of Christmas and Christmas in Other Lands." His message was very inspiring and a great deal was learned about the customs in other lands and St. Nicholas. He read excerpts from one of Martin Luther's sermons on "What Christmas Should Mean To Us." At the close of his address, a gift was presented him by Mrs. Alma West.

Everyone present received a gift from Mrs. Nina Bonaparte's Christmas tree.

The following symbols were represented: The Christmas package, Mrs. A. W. West; Christmas candle, Miss Beatrice Martin; Christmas bell, Miss Ruby Manly; Christmas tree, Mrs. Lina Bonaparte; Christmas cane, Mrs. Lovie Ellis; Christmas Angel, Miss Barbara West; Christmas tree and star, Miss Lucille Griswold.

Judges for this occasion were Miss V. Morris, art teacher at Shaw University and Mrs. Desney, art teacher at St. Augustine's College. The first prize was presented to Miss Lucille Griswold and the second prize went to Mrs. Lina Bonaparte. A large group was present and a delicious repast was served. Miss Eleanor DeBerry received the lucky number gift.

Mrs. L. M. Ellis, social committee co-chairman, Mrs. L. A. Bonaparte, and music, Mrs. M. G. Carter.

Members are: Mesdames Alm West, Alice G. Jones, Battie Bell, Bessie Pettiford, L. M. Ellis, Josephine Robinson, Laura Wimberley, L. Bonaparte, C. D. Dobson, Lucille Vass, Katherine Shepard, Georgia Manley, Samuel Rudder, Irene L. Dickens, Mary G. Carter, and Elsie H. Perry.

Also Misses Beatrice Martin, Ruby Manly, Lillie Durante, Maybelle Williams, Louise Latham, Lucille Griswold and Dr. Marguerite Adams.

At the beginning of 1955, the value of farm machinery and motor vehicles on farms totaled almost $18 billion—a decline of 3 per cent during the year, but 26 per cent above 1950.

Through October 15, American farmers had 40 per cent less wheat under price support than on the same date last year.
