Head Was Near Fatal

CHARLOTTE - "Whack 'em fast" evidently was the motio of fast-cutting knife-wielder here early Sunday morning. Police said sixty to seventy stitches were required to sew up the head of Eugene Nolly, 730 E. 2nd St., who said he was "whacked" by Tommy Porter, a next-door neighbor. Nolly was treated at Good Samaritan Hospital.

Officers George Nash and John Costner said Nolly told them he and Porter were having an argument as to who was "the better man" of the two. Porter backed his argument with some cutting

A few days ago, a Raleigh newspaper carried quite a story about a Negro pastry cook, Mrs. Mary Shires who delights the students and faculty at the Hugh Morsan School with a delicacy that has been named after her, Mary Shires Pudding. This concoction of bread, eggs, fat, fruits and nuts registered such a hit at the Hugh Morson School that it has been put on the list of regular menus for all the Raleigh school cafeterias.

Police Nab Youngsters

CHARLOTTE - Local county police officers Sunday questioned several youths in connection with a wave of window-breaking in county churches. One admitted his part, officers said.

The officers had been called because windows had been broken in the Galilee Baptist Church on Yorkmont Road. The vandalism was discovered by church officials on Sunday.

One youth admitted breaking a pane, the police said, adding that he said he thought the church was abandoned. Charlotte Chief of Police Frank N. Littleiohn recently harshly criticized youngsters of this area for similar acts of vandalism.
