F. J. Carnage Speaks For Integration

Carnage Supports School Integration

By CHARLES R. JONES
RALEIGH — In a nationally broadcasted radio interview Tuesday afternoon, Fred J. Carnage, local attorney and the only Negro member of the Raleigh School Board, indicated his complete approval of the Supreme Court decision outlawing segregation in the nation's public schools.
Carnage thus became the first board member to voice sanction of the historic ruling.
Phil Ellis, commentator for radio station WPTF, interviewed the lawyer as a feature of the "Weekday" series. Raleigh took the national spotlight this week after being chosen as "Guest City of the Week" by the National Broadcasting Company.
"Raleigh Discusses Integration" was the title of the program. Ellis' first query to Carnage was: Are you in favor of desegregation of the public schools? The attorney replied:
"Took An Oath"
"As a lawyer I took an oath to uphold the constitution of the United States. The Supreme Court decision is now law and should be complied with."
Citing the evils of segregation, Attorney Carnage said,

"Children should have a better understanding of each other. The American Negro has suffered under the present setup."
"My pastor was turned away from a white restaurant to which he had been invited by a white ministerial body, simply because he was a Negro. People with much darker skin are admitted to such public places," he said.
Jim Crow in North
The lawyer was quick to point out that segregation is not confined to the South. He recalled an incident at a motor court in a northern state, to which he applied for accommodations. "Al-

Union Men Said Cause Of Rumors

By ALEXANDER BARNES
RALEIGH — Organizers for the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen of North America caused a stir in labor circles here last week when it was rumored that a number of employees of the Watson Seafood Company had fired quite a few of its workers for union activities.
An investigation by the CAROLINIAN revealed that about 20 persons had been laid off at the local seafood and poultry plant due to a reorganization process that is now underway. Mr. Watson, owner, said that the labor activities had nothing to do with the laying-off of those persons and that the most of them had been requested to return to work this week.
He further said that the management had decided to change to a two-shift day, in an effort to meet the new hour law that will go into effect March 1. "It is true that we fired two persons for failing to comply with the working rules of the company" said the owner.

ODDS-ENDS

It has now been about 2 weeks since representatives of several Negro organizations here sent a letter to the Wake County Commissioners protesting that body's action in appointing a white man to the seat on the Wake County Hospital Authority made vacant by the resignation of Mr. J. E. Strickland, the lone Negro member of the Authority.
No word of acknowledgment has come from the County Commissioners nor is it likely that even that courtesy will be extended to the Negroes of this county.

Alabama Awaits Court Decision On Miss Lucy

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (ANP)—A feeling of frustration and uncertainty hangs over the University of Alabama campus as the Autherine Lucy desegregation case awaits a hearing next Wednesday, Feb. 29, in Birmingham.
In the two weeks that have elapsed since rioting and mob violence interrupted the 26-year-old Negro coed's studies, a large majority of the students and faculty members at the university have gone on record condemning such lawlessness and pledging to prevent its recurrence if Miss Lucy returns as a student.
The young Birmingham woman was barred from classes for safety reasons Feb. 6 following a series of egg-throwing, rock-throwing demonstrations against her presence on the campus.
Charges "subterfuge"
Charging that mob violence was a "clever subterfuge" on the part of the university to bar her from class because of her race, Miss Lucy has asked the court to order her return plus the privilege of dormitory and cafeteria facilities.
Attorneys for the 125-year-old school have announced that the bitter segregation battle will be carried to the Supreme Court.
Dr. O. C. Carmichael, university president, told a special student convocation last week that the issues the university faces have become "not segregation versus integration." (CONTINUED ON PAGE 2)
