WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS" By C. WILSON HARDER

"There's no place for small business, or small unions."

This statement would even sound odd coming from a theoretical economist.

But this statement was made by what might be called a "practical" economist.

The declarer of this principle, James Hoffa, head of the teamsters union in Midwest, has shown he has support of force in various forms to C. W. Harder put his theory into effect.

Who is Hoffa? He is Dave Beck's chief henchman in vital trucking area of 13 midwestern states, and is now extending into 12 southern states.

Hoffa has paid fines for violations of labor laws, but this does not seem to deter him a bit. In fact, he usually winds up threatening reprisals against those who made it possible for him to be brought to justice. So far, he appears to have made good on many of these threats.

He has also been responsible for driving out of business quite a few independent truck operators competing with big outfits.

In meantime, Hoffa has not done too badly. Although he boasts he will not tell internal revenue service his income, several Congressional investigations have disclosed many interesting items.

While Hoffa never went beyond eighth grade, he has $21,000 year salary, plus unlimited expense account from a million dollar treasury. In addition, he is a contributor to the National Federation of Independent Business.

And so it is quite logical Jimmy Hoffa should proclaim the day of the small business and small union is gone as long as he runs both the union and trucking business. If he had said "the days of everybody but the Hoffas is gone" lots of people would have been inclined on basis of past experience, to agree.

But here is odd thing about entire situation.

Although millions know about Hoffa's activities, so far no one, in this administration, or last, has been able to cut down on Hoffa, and other little Caesars of his ilk.

This situation of causes wonder as to what business the U. S. government has in flitting around the world trying to set other people's affairs straight when it fails to keep its own house in order.

CHARLOTTE—The members of Beta Xi Sigma Chapter of Delta Sigma Theta Sorority, in keeping with traditional interest in Charlotte's welfare and needs, again chose the children ward of Good Samaritan Hospital as one of its major civic projects in the city.

The Project Committee, composed of Mrs. Gladys Green, chairman; Mesdames Laura Booton, Sara Stroud, Vivian Williams and Miss Myrtle Reid, along with Mesdames Virginia G. Davis, president; Roberta Thompkins, vice-president; Dorothy Stinson, and Jane Lightner made an elaborate presentation of the following items to Nurse Chisholm, director of the children's ward: a high chair, play pen, 3-speed record player, thirty records, bedroom slippers of varying sizes, tooth brushes and tooth paste wash clothes, plastic drinking glasses, bibs and toys for children of various sizes and ages.

In making the presentation, Mrs. Davis stated that her sorors chose the children's ward because they feel that money invested in the happiness of children is never wasted and that if they can cheer just one aching heart or aid in a speedy recovery, they shall not have worked in vain.

Even though the sorority keeps its book cart in the adult wards furnished with magazines, the members have decided to make the children's ward their permanent civic project. As articles lose their usefulness they plan to replace them in addition to making other purchases which they see are needed to help cheer the little folk who are ill.

STRENGTH FOR THESE DAYS
from The Bible

What? Know ye not that your body is the temple of the Holy Ghost which is in you, which ye have of God, and ye are not your own?—(1 Corinthians 6, 19.)

St. Paul reminds us that the Heavenly Father created us in His Image, that He dwells within us as our souls. Our sins and transgressions, therefore, are against Him; in love and humility,
