CLINTON, Tenn. (AP) — Directly following his acquittal on charges of sedition and inciting integration riots at Clinton High school, race-baiter John Kasper, a 27-year-old White Citizens Council leader, said he was going to launch a militant fight against desegregation in Tennessee schools.

Amid cheers and whistles from some 250 persons in the court room after he was cleared of charges by an all-white jury, Kasper announced plans to set up a state headquarters in Tennessee for the Seaboard White Citizens Council he heads at Washington.

The jury acquitted Kasper of charges that he provoked the rioting that brought national guardsmen with tanks into Clinton at the start of the school term.

Kasper's trial lasted six days. He still faces a federal contempt of court charge growing out of the Clinton incident.

Dr. R. P. Daniel Dedicates New Bluford School

GREENSBORO—The challenges of a new school plant were described last Monday night at the dedication of the new F. D. Bluford School, located on Tusculloosa Street.

The speaker was Dr. Robert P. Daniel, president of Virginia State College, Petersburg, a long time friend of the late Dr. Bluford, former president of A&T College, for which the structure is named.

"A new building," he said, "means that the community expects children to attend school, the school administration expects better learning and the students who attend there must expect to be measured by higher standards."

He told the capacity crowd which filled the auditorium that the interest of adults in this or any similar school, is simply an interest in children. "Schools," he continued, "are excellent barometers, for they reveal the interest which a community takes in its youth and almost always, give us an idea of the ideals of youth in the community."

Begin Work On Million Dollar Science Building

GRAMBLING, La. (Special) — Contractors have started work on a $1 million science building at Grambling College.

Modern in concept and colorful in character, the structure is being described by state education leaders as possibly the most outstanding facility of its kind among Negro educational institutions in the country.

It will enable Grambling to offer a wide range of science courses impossible in the past because of limited space and facilities.

The structure was designed by Van Os and Flaxman, Shreveport architects, and will be erected by Baton Rouge Contractor George A. Caldwell.

Caldwell's contract calls for completion of the structure in 400 working days.

Designers of the project said the building, whose exterior will be of brick veneer and steel construction, was drawn to harmonize with the architecture style currently existing on the campus.

Ice cream production in North Carolina during 1955 totaled 13,817,000 gallons. This represents a decline of 2.9 per cent from 1954 production of 14,224,000 gallons. The decline in ice cream production was more than offset by an increase in ice milk production which was 26.3 per cent greater than in 1954, say officials of the North Carolina Crop Reporting Service.
