

ODDS & ENDS

Figures just released show that it cost this state over $270,000 to hold the election that was called to prevent school integration in North Carolina. Prior to that election, a huge sum was expended for a special session of the General Assembly, a pre-arranged session, called to set this special election.

It is very conceivable that other sums of tax money were also used in this massive attempt to circumvent the law and that altogether a half-million or more dollars will be spent to keep this state's schools segregated. And who gains from this lavish waste of money? Not the children of this state because no one gains from ignorance, intolerance and bias. In a world of confusion, hastening on to a showdown with a force that will show no mercy to the "supreme" whites that it will to the "inferior" blacks, it would seem that instead of the continued forced separation of the races, self preservation would dictate the need for school integration in order that all may learn together how best to preserve, utilize and defend the ideals of their great nation.

It would seem also that the time has arrived when white children should be taught the truth, the truth that this is not a white world that numerically the white race is far inferior to the black race and that the lesser can not hope to always control the greater. No, the white children of this state will not gain anything from the expenditure of that half-million dollars. They have been defrauded, misled and cheated. And for the state as a whole, a state that ranks 44th in the top in public education, 47th in per capita income, a state with one of the highest labor rates in the nation, a state where one-fourth of its families have to subsist on $1,000 or less per year, a state that leads this area in migration, can a state with so many glaring basic defects afford to waste one-half million dollars.

And who can truthfully say it was not wasted. Even the most ardent segregationist will readily admit that integration will come and the tactics now being employed are merely delaying actions, set up for propaganda and political reasons. One-half million dollars, what a toll to extract from a poverty-ridden state for the furtherance of the political ambitions and security of a greedy few. And what a logical argument for a new political day in North Carolina. The committee of 100 isn't taking too much for granted for 100 persons in a city of 75,000 to attempt to maintain the motives of all of those who do not agree that the city of Raleigh should spend over one million dollars more for the erection of a new city hall than is needed for that purpose. No one is questioning the good faith or the civic zeal of that committee. Apparently its one concern is to obtain a badly-needed new city hall here, but why question the honesty and good intentions of those who also want a new city hall but see no need for wasting the taxpayers money to achieve that want.

To cite, not one practical reason has been advanced for the expense and inconvenience of building a city hall on Hillsboro Street that is not overshadowed by the sound, practical reasoning of those who are opposing the Hillsboro St. idea. The search now being used by this committee, that it must be Hillsboro St. or there will be no new city hall, is to say the least, a bit of a bluff. Such tactics are calculated to cause one to wonder just what is the real purpose of this attempt to build on the Hillsboro St. site. The committee pleading for Hillsboro St. has given out figures to prove that this city bonded indebtedness is well in line with its finances and that its position on the New York bond market has moved from "A" to "A-".

What this committee has failed to show, however, is what the picture will be after this $1,000,000 city hall bond issue is floated and also the new taxes that the citizens here must pay on the 3-million dollar capital bonds and the 6-1/2 million dollar school bond issue, the latter to be voted on next month. It would seem that the only fact to be considered in this city hall issue is simply to answer one question: Is a new and adequate city hall can be built for one million dollars less than is proposed by the group favoring Hillsboro street, why spend that extra million?

Vocational College: The recent suggestion by the State Board of Higher Education to convert Elizabeth City Teachers College into a 4-year vocational school is both sound and good. This proposition will, we hope, receive the hearty approval of all concerned. Now, all around you, are to be seen Negro college graduates trained and qualified to teach out of work to find teaching jobs. On the other hand, it is becoming increasingly hard to secure good mechanics, craftsmen, clerical workers and qualified tradesmen. It may be that when the college at Elizabeth City is converted into a modern, well equipped and properly staffed vocational school turning out young people trained to fill the needs of an economy that is geared to motion, we will achieve that educational balance that was lost when the schools abandoned vocational training and thought only in terms of turning out teachers.

Last night's World Series last fall, sought to laugh down Don Newcomb's status as a great pitcher, would most certainly be glad to be able to stand in his shoes today. Big Don has recently been honored by personal congratulatory letter from President of two of baseball's highest honors, the Most Valuable Player in the National League award, the Cy Young Trophy and a fitting climax to all these honors, a $25,000 yearly increase in salary. Wonder why some of those who were poking fun and laughing at the big fellow are not laughing now more.

Occasionally, the Washington School and the Special Education Department of that school, have a cut-out of awards waiting to pin on the PTA Council for its courtesy and foresight in giving the Special Ed. Dept. a new and up-to-date record player. This gift is most useful because many of the technical aids for the hearing and vision-impaired children are now available in records. Are you planning to furnish this department with such educational records should contact the school principal, Mr. J. W. Eaton.

DR. BULLOCK (CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1) The Rev. G. A. Fisher, who conceived the idea several months ago and who has served as chairman of the sponsoring committee, gave the reason for the testimonial as follows: "Because of the long and distinguished services, both to the church and community, a group of Raleigh citizens deemed it wise and proper to honor the Rev. Dr. Bullock on this the 35th anniversary of his residence in Raleigh and as pastor of the First Baptist Church."

According to the Rev. Mr. Fisher, rector of St. Ambrose Episcopal Church, the program will get underway promptly at 4 p.m. with invocation by the Rev. C. L. Gidney, pastor of the Wilson Temple Methodist Church.

Prominent citizens of this city who have followed the progress of Dr. Bullock in many areas of community life will attend his quinquagesimal in these areas.

Attorney Fred J. Carnegie, a member of the Raleigh School Board, will speak on "Dr. Bullock: Citizen"; Mrs. Mollie H. Lee, librarian at the Richard B. Harrison Library, "Dr. Bullock: Civic Leader"; President W. E. Strasser, Shaw University, "Dr. Bullock: Educator"; J. W. Yeargan, chairman of the board of trustees at First Baptist, "Dr. Bullock: Pastor"; Dr. J. Thomas Hamlin, church deacon, "Dr. Bullock: Friend"; and the Rev. Otis L. Hairston, State Baptist official, "Dr. Bullock: Rector of North Carolina State Baptist Convention."

Following these tributes Mrs. John Fleming will render a vocal selection, accompanied by Miss Ida M. Jarnagin at the piano. E. L. Ralford, executive secretary of the Bloodworth Street YMCA, will present a bound volume of letters congratulating Dr. Bullock on his 35th anniversary here, along with a silver bowl. Mrs. Ellen Alston, State Baptist official, will present a gift to Mrs. O. S. Bullock. Mrs. Nora E. Lockhart, local school principal, will present flowers to Dr. Nancy B. McGee, the pastor's daughter, and Dr. Wilson Perry, physician, will present a portrait of Dr. Bullock to the church. This portrait will be unveiled by Barbara Ann West, granddaughter of the pastor.

A response by the honoree will conclude the program. Dr. Bullock was called to Raleigh from the First Baptist Church of High Point, where he had been pastor for fifteen years. He is a native of Vance County, the son of the late Horace and Emma Bullock and received his academic training at Henderson Normal School and Lincoln University (Pa.), where he took his college and theological training and received the following degrees: A.B., A.M., S.T.B. and D.D.

On August 7, 1921, he took up his duties as pastor of the First Baptist Church here. From that time in the church, which already had a creditable record, continued to develop physically and spiritually.

It was through the effort of Dr. Bullock that the State Baptist Headquarters building was erected at the corner of Wilmington and Lenoir Streets in 1954 and has been valued at $75,000.

Members of the sponsoring and reception committees for the testimonial follow: Sponsoring Committee: The Reverend George A. Fisher, Chairman, The Reverend R. L. Unshus, The Reverend E. S. Askey, Dr. William Green, Fred Carnegie, Dr. L. E. McCauley, Dr. J. T. Hamlin, E. L. Ralford, Charles A. Haywood, Sr., J. W. Yeargan, James Shepard, The Reverend Otis L. Hairston, The Reverend G. E. Cheek, M. D. Haywood, Dr. W. R. Strasser, D.D., Dr. James Boyer, Ed. D., Mrs. Ellen Alston, Mrs. Ann Miller, Mrs. L. P. Wimberly. Reception Committee: Mrs. L. P. Wimberly, Mrs. Ann Miller.

CASWELL SUIT (CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1) The suit, a spokesman revealed, will be along the same lines as the one filed earlier against the Monticello County School Board, still pending in Middle District Court. It is believed that the proposed action will seek: 1. An immediate temporary injunction or restraining order preventing enforcement of the Pearsall Plan or any law or order which tends to maintain segregation in the schools; 2. An ultimate permanent injunction to prevent enforcement of any law or order which has the effect of maintaining or perpetrating segregation in the schools; and 3. An order following trial, to require the school officials promptly to present a plan of desegregation, and to restrain permanently

Two white teen-agers later tried to get into the building to attack a Negro student. The minister was chased and beaten in the face after he and two volunteer aides escorted the six to the school. Clinton High's nine Negro students had skipped classes for four days because of the mounting racial tension. Woman in Group Six white men and one woman were in the group that chased and attacked Turner. They cornered him in front of the local telephone exchange. Police arrested Clyde Cook, who had served as a defense witness at the sedition trial of John

FIREWOOD DEATH (CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1) from a shotgun blast in the chest from a gun allegedly in the hands of Richardson. Sheriff C. C. Holeman reported Richardson as saying that the shooting was "accidental." According to reports, Richardson accused Terrell of burning up a supply of firewood on Saturday night while courting Richardson's wife sister, Miss Emily Carver.

STATE BRIEFS (CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1) CAUGHT WITH "MOONSHINE" NORTH EAST, Md.—A Rowan County, N. C. man was treated in a nearby Elkton hospital Saturday after police said that his car, loaded with illicit whiskey, crashed into the rear of a truck near here Friday. Officers said after the accident, witnesses reported seeing the injured driver of the "moonshine" tumbled into a wooded area. Police found 272 half-gallon jugs of moonshine whiskey in the car. They staked out the wooded area and waited. Nine hours later a man identified as Thomas C. Stoner, 41, of Route 8, Salisbury, N. C. came out and was arrested.

FIVE BURN (CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1) home. The victims were identified as: Diane Wright, 3; Curtis, Jr., 2; and Revenda, eight months. According to Sheriff John Allen the other left the children alone while she went for milk about a quarter of a mile away. When she returned, the house was in flames. Mr. Wright was at work. Cause of the fire was not determined. At Statesville, Mrs. Ella Stevenson White, 64-year-old housewife, burned to death as her bathroom caught fire from an open hearth. Her daughter, Mrs. Margaret Sigmon, stood by helplessly.

Les Cousettes Meet

The Les Cousettes met at the home of Mrs. Wanda Poole on Blount Street. Final plans were made for the annual Christmas party to be held at the YMCA on December 7.

Members present were Mesdames Mildred Horton, Roger Evans, Janie Keyes, Sarah Thompson, Primrose Jackson, Margaret Spriggs, Catherine Wilkins, Jamie Anderson and Ruth Joyner. Bingo was played. Winner of the prize was Mrs. Margaret Deligous. The hostess served a delicious repast at the close of the business session.

Kasper, segregation leader, last month. The Anderson County School Board on Monday called on U. S. Atty. General Herbert Brownell, Jr. to help put down racial disturbances that have kept Clinton High in turmoil for three months. The Board charged the federal authorities failed to back up an injunction against interference with school integration. Several students expressed reluctance to return to school until "We're guaranteed protection by Brownell."

MIXED ROMANCE (CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1) whose husband is employed in New York; and Willie Johnson, father of seven children and a resident of adjacent Wilson County. Johnson received an 18-month sentence to the county roads, while Mrs. McCullen was sent to Woman's State Prison for 18 months. The case was originally tried in Recorder's Court where a two-year sentence was given last winter and appealed to Superior Court. At that time neighbors of the McCullen woman had allegedly complained vigorously about the alleged cohabitating of the couple at the McCullen home, according to Sheriff Glenn O. Wamble and Deputy E. C. Strickland who were the star witnesses for the State as they reported what was said to be statements of admission from the couple following their arrests in February.

Mrs. McCullen's husband was reported to have attended both trials. There was reported testimony by at least one witness who said he had observed Johnson frequenting the McCullen home for about a year while one State witness said he had known Johnson for 10 years and had even "entrusted" members of his family to Johnson's care.

Charges Denied The defendants reportedly denied that they had lived together, as charged by Wamble and Strickland. Wamble had testified that Mrs. McCullen had stated upon both a husband and a father when arrested that "Johnson had to be and to her children and that she loved him." Johnson was quoted by Wamble saying "that he thought an awful lot of her (the white woman), that she had done a lot for him."

Sheriff Wamble said that Johnson admitted spending nights at the home, both when the husband was there and when he was not. Johnson allegedly admitted to hugging Mrs. McCullen and playing with her hair, but vigorously denied any sexuality. Strickland corroborated Wamble's testimony. The case was quite a sensation in the county where the Pearsall Plan to prevent the integration of races in public schools was originated. There was a similar case here a few years ago.

LT. SAUNDERS (CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1) termed a "trumped up" drunk driving conviction in Mississippi two years ago. Although the Air Force denied that "pressure" had been responsible for Saunders' ouster, Sen. Stennis conceded that he had "invited" the attention of the Air Force to Saunders' case. Saunders was freed on $2000 bond while he appealed the drunk driving conviction returned by a Mississippi court while he was stationed at Columbus, Miss.

He was transferred to Lockbourne Air Force base in Ohio before the Mississippi Supreme Court upheld the conviction. The state sought to have him extradited to serve the 6-month jail term, but Ohio Gov. Frank Lausche last summer refused to send him back.

At the York trial, Lunsford was tried in absentia on a charge of selling insurance policies for a firm not licensed to do business in South Carolina. He was convicted but not sentenced.
