

"WE ARE TRAVELING TO PROMISED LAND," REV. KING TELLS GRADS

Kentucky State Seniors Warned Of "New World"

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — "We have broken loose. We have thrown aside the Egypt of colonialism and are traveling toward the promised land of social integration, of freedom and justice." Such were the words of the Rev. Martin Luther King, Jr., noted leader of the successful Montgomery, Ala., bus boycott as he spoke to graduates of Kentucky State College here last week in a commencement address.

The 28-year-old militant Negro leader admonished the graduates that competition in the future will not be with Negroes, but as men and women. One of the largest crowds ever assembled in this city heard Rev. King stress non-violence in the Negro's quest for first-class citizenship and announce that the Negro must enter his new world with understanding in his mind and good will in his heart. He declared, "the Negro's door closed on the old and opened on the new May 17, 1954, when the Supreme Court ordered the states to abolish compulsory racial segregation in the public schools."
