N. C. Teachers Association Asks For Equal Distribution Of Escheat Funds

DURHAM — The North Carolina Teachers' Ass'n., a Negro organization, has called for a constitutional amendment to allow escheat funds to be distributed to all of the state's institutions of higher learning.

Escheat funds, derived from heirless estates, unused bank deposits and similar funds, now go exclusively to the three branches of the Consolidated University of North Carolina.

Prof. James H. Taylor of North Carolina College here urged the change in a letter to Gov. Luther H. Hodges.

Taylor, chairman of the legislative commission of the teachers association with a membership of 8,000, said that the constitution should be altered so that the funds can be apportioned equally to all state colleges instead of just the Consolidated University.

He said the funds amount to "several hundred thousand dollars" and are used by the university to provide scholarships for needy and promising students.

"Since these funds are derived from the estates of any North Carolina citizen with non-existent heirs, it appears only just and in accordance with the non-

No Charges As Official Of State Injures Youth

Highway Patrolman D. M. Dyson said Saturday that he had completed his investigation and no charges will be made in the case of a 10-year-old youth, who was struck Thursday afternoon by a car driven by the chairman of the State Board of Education.

William Dallas Herring, 42, white resident of Rose Hill, driving a 1935 Packard, reportedly struck Joseph Riley of Route 1, Garner.

Riley's condition continues to be listed as fair, according to authorities at St. Agnes Hospital, where he is said to be suffering from head injuries. Young Riley is the son of LeRoy Riley of the Garner address.

The accident occurred north of Cleveland School Road as Herring was en route to school to keep an appointment with Governor Luther H. Hodges, the officer said.

Herring is alleged to have lost control of his car when he was on Highway 50 when he saw the boy and a playmate on the left side of the road.

Another car, headed south had just passed the youngsters when young Riley dashed from behind the vehicle and into the path of Herring's automobile.

Rapist-Killer Held At Wilson

WILSON — Elijah Burgess, 33, was held without bond Tuesday pending grand jury action on charges of raping a local woman and murdering her escort.

Burgess waived preliminary hearing Monday and was ordered held for the Aug. 25 term of Wilson County Superior Court. Police said he had confessed both crimes after his arrest here last week.

Miss Essie Mae Artis, 46, told officers she was raped by a man who shot and killed her escort, Chester Fowler, 41, as they sat in a parked car at a lover's lane near here the night of July 26.

Burgess was arrested after a house-to-house search ordered by Sheriff J. W. Thompson. The sheriff said the murder weapon was found at Burgess' home.

Couple Sentenced In Morals Case

Mrs. Ruth Solomon, 31, a Raleigh white woman, and Billy Hill, 28, also of this city, were freed Tuesday on charges of fornication and adultery, but received prison sentences after pleading guilty to indecent exposure. The case was tried in Wake Superior Court.

Presiding over the present term was Judge Herman Clark, who allowed a defense motion that no evidence was put on by the State to support the fornication and adultery charges.

Mrs. Solomon was handed a year in Woman's Prison, while Hill received 18 months.

Both were arrested on May 27 in an establishment known as Macks Tea Room on Cross Street. Two police officers testified Monday that Mrs. Solomon and Hill were caught in bed together during a raid on the place about noon.

The judge said the evidence presented by the State didn't meet the requirements of law needed to prove fornication and adultery. The law provides that habitual violation must be proven.

Mack Bunch, operator of the Tea Room and Miss Ella Brown, an employee, pleaded guilty to operating a bawdy house and aiding and abetting, and were handed 18-month prison sentences, suspended, on condition they pay fines of $50 and costs.

Through his attorney, Bunch agreed not to reopen the business, which is now padlocked until
