Say Judge Erred In His Charge

NASVILLE, N. C. — Johnnie D. Knight, 22-year-old deaf mute arrested from the gas chamber by the state Supreme Court, goes on trial for his life for the second time in Nash County Superior Court this week.

Knight was sentenced to death a year ago for the slaying of a white woman, Mrs. Myra Brown Manning, with a bowie knife and dumping her body in a woods near Bailey in early 1957. The Supreme Court ordered a new trial on grounds the trial judge erred in refusing to permit the jury to consider a lesser charge than first degree murder.

Knight also is under indictment on charges of assault with intent to commit rape and kidnapping.

Sheriff Glenn Womble of Nash County said he obtained a confession from Knight in the slaying by writing notes and by use of a sign language. The man had been working in a hog lot near the Manning home on the day she was slain.

In a special call meeting held at the Charles T. Norwood Post 157 of the American Legion Sunday, Legionnaires of Division Six, North Carolina Department of the American Legion, voted unanimously to seek full integration of all Legionnaires in the North Carolina Department of the American Legion.

This meeting was called pursuant to a resolution adopted at the Asheville Convention during each past to survey the sentiment of its members and send a representative to Raleigh to express the desires of the members relative to Division Six's affiliation in the Department without voting status.

The Commander of Division Six, Phineas Vines, of Raleigh, presided over the meeting. A check of the registration revealed that approximately 85 per cent of the posts in Division Six were represented.

The Asheville resolution stemmed from refusal of the Resolution Committee of the Department Convention in Asheville to consider resolutions from Division Six asking for greater representation on the various committees in the convention.

The motion for full integration was made by H. A. Jackson, commander of Thomas Jackson Post 189 of Hamlet.

Mr. Jackson was appointed chairman of a seven-man committee to set up machinery for full integration.

Five hours before the board announced it had turned down the applications Monday, Hoffman warned its members "if they flagrantly violated" his school desegregation edict "they are in contempt of this court—even if they do nothing."

Hoffman made the contempt warning in a hearing on the validity of a local assignment plan set up by the school board to cope with integration requests. He called for further briefs on the plan and promised a ruling on its legality by the opening of schools Sept. 8.
