 by state agencies on Capitol Hill. It would be ridiculous to even suppose that there are not any Negroes capable of filling some of the better paying jobs given out by the far flung state highway department.

The governor is quoted further as saying, "It has been our policy to hire irrespective of race." It is to be noted that he refrained to add "and irrespective of job."

We consider the governor's alleged statement, "It is not the state policy to become a reform organization and attempt to guide the morals and the employment practices of the people" as one which might have been expected from his gubernatorial second primary opponent. We would hardly expect a governor whose opening policy statement, "This is a new day in North Carolina" caused the thousands of Negroes who had been instrumental in bringing about his election, to feel that at long last this state had a governor who would work to have the total worth of all its citizens utilized in the job of making North Carolina a better state.

During his campaign, Mr. Sanford promised to reform everything that needed reforming. He the sea coast to the mountains preached that message from the sea coast to the mountains. He said he would take the lead in working for and initiating measures which would raise the per capita income level of this state. Since becoming governor, he has said that all of the major causes for this state's low per capita income level is the lack of job opportunities for its Negro citizens. The statement must mean that reforming is badly needed in the area. But instead of following through on his campaign promises, we find, after his election, a governor who wraps himself in the thread bare clothing of tradition and seeks to put the responsibility of action upon the shoulder of others.

We do not believe that the Negroes in this state are alone in their disappointment over the governor's reaction and stand pat racial stand. We believe there are a considerable number of white people in this state who ready to support the governor in taking action to improve the economy of this state. These are the persons, black and white, whose votes put Mr. Sanford in the governor's seat. They are the people he is letting down.

WAKE COUNTY THE LOSER

When the voters of Wake County on May 26 refused to vote for J. J. Sanson, Jr. to be a County Commissioner, they were refusing to accept the services of one of the best qualified candidates in the 31 man field.

Negroes failed to support Sanson as well as they could have. Their failure to vote for him was because of their unfamiliar lack of knowledge about their need for participation in things political.

Whites failed to vote for him because of racial prejudice, pure and simple. They were aware of his outstanding qualification, they knew that he was the equal of any other candidate, and vastly superior to most of them. But he was a NEGRO, nothing else mattered with them.

Sanson lost in his desire to share his qualification and wealth of experience with the citizens of Wake County. However, it was the county that was the real loser. It will continue to lose in this manner until white voters thinking in terms of what is best for them, will vote for the candidates who can give them these things whether he be Negro, Chinaman, white or colorless.

SEND YOUR CHILD TO CAMP
 With school out, many parents are again faced with the perplexing problem of providing for the best interest of their children during the summer.

One of the very best answers to this problem is provided by summer camps for boys and girls. For those parents who can afford the cost, several agencies, groups and individuals, maintain well supervised summer camps for children and your pastor should be able to give you the names and locations of these camps.

The Bloodworth Street YMCA and the Sojourner Truth YMCA provide summer camps for boys and girls whose parents do not wish for their children to be away from home and for those who can not afford the cost of an out of town camp.

CHARLOTTE, DURHAM INTEGRATE

 The admission of Negro doctors to practice in the Charlotte Memorial hospital, according to the administration, is not based upon race, but they must meet the regulations set up by a reputable board of surgery.

Authorities stated that they would not only welcome Dr. Williams but hoped that his admission would cause many other doctors to take the necessary steps to qualify. The same source said that it was aware of the fact that Charlotte Memorial offers the best facilities in the county and it recognized that Negro doctors had the same obligation to their patients as any other doctor.

Administration heads admitted that medical care was the aim of the hospital, without regard to race or creed. They pointed to the fact that Negro patients were treated in all the facilities of the hospital. All patients, white and Negro, were admitted the same way, examined in the same rooms, the field of medicine are being sought wherever possible, without regard to color.

The administration says that "it is very anxious to set up an elaborate out-patient clinic. Its plans call for expansion in this particular and definitely spells out the fact that there will be no discrimination."

They pointed to the fact that there were some trouble spots, but that there should be a sensible solution. There were no apparent problems that could not be solved with sensible approaches. It was apparent that force and antagonism tended to widen the breach. The administration says that it is willing to sit down around the table and discuss the whole program with any and all interested persons and felt that they could come up with the proper answer just as they did in the Dr. Williams matter.

It is the aim of the administration to set up a working agreement with Johnson C. Smith and other colleges in the area to recruit persons who would be trained at the hospital, in an integrated atmosphere, that would enable it to do a more creditable job.

The decision to integrate all departments of the school followed a similar decision of two other schools. Earlier this year, Wake Forest College and Davidson College, both church institutions, lifted racial barriers.

Graduate schools at Duke have been open to Negroes since last year. Thus far, there are two Negro students in the law school and one in the school of Divinity.

The mother answered his letter right away and said: Dear Son, I was glad to hear that you are coming home, but please do not come on a furlough because they are too dangerous. I had much rather for you to come on a train.

R. Brown of Houston, Texas, one of three judges seated in court, asked atty. Constance Baker Motley just that question.

Mrs. Motley, who is an attorney for the NAACP and was in court seeking annulment of the Florida pupil assignment law, stated that it was just that. She also said that the exclusive use of white teachers in all-white schools was also discriminatory.

This subject has come up on previous occasions as regards to use of white teachers in Negro schools and on-use of Negro teachers in all-white schools. In many church schools complaints have been made that white teachers have been used in preference to Negro teachers. In many cases retired white teachers have been used in all-Negro schools. No Negroes in the deep south have been used in all-white schools.

AME Zion Bishop Makes Appeal For Methodist Unification

EVANSVILLE, Ind. — Speaking to the 25th session of the Indiana Annual Conference, AME Zion Church, which was held here recently, Bishop S. G. Spottswood made a striking appeal for the unification of all Methodists. He took a poke at the mother Methodist Church for its segregated district.

The bishop began with the following: "Negro Methodist bodies should unite for a number of reasons. First of all, we should unite to present a solid front in the fight for full freedom of all Americans. Secondly, we should unite to strengthen our missionary front, standardize our educational institutions. Then, we should unite for spiritual reasons. Today, in the ecclesiastical world, there is a steady procession of church mergers." He continued — "The one hundred-odd splinters of evangelical protestantism are uniting in significant organic unions."
