Barnett Deposed Victim Enrolled

OXFORD, Miss. — Governor Ross Barnett lost his position as the chief road block in the march to a better life for all citizens of America and James Meredith became the symbol of true democracy this week when he entered the classroom of the University of Mississippi.

HARRY MURPHY, JR.
... Passed ...

JAMES MEREDITH
... Not mistakes ...

He went immediately to class Monday, after having been enrolled under the watchful eyes of United States marshals, deputized Mississippi national guardsmen and more than 6000 soldiers. The campus of the once all-white university, except for nine months when Harry Murphy was there, had the semblance of an army post. Helicopters were dropping from the skies, army trucks were rolling thru and sentinels were placed all around.

A room in the Lyceum building, where Meredith was enrolled, served as a stockade for persons who had been arrested for taking part in what has been termed an insurrection. The event which kept President Kennedy from visiting his sick father and kept Robert Kennedy from going to Norfolk, Va., broke wide open Sunday after Governor Barnett is alleged to have broken faith with the administration in the effort to avoid having trouble. Barnett is charged with withdrawing highway patrolmen from active protection of marshals in bringing Meredith to the campus. The blame for the outrageous demonstration, against the United States government has been laid at the feet of the governor by people in all walks of life.

expressed better by some of the students of the school who said they could easily forget about Meredith and go on with their studies. There were students who said that they stood to suffer and they did other race-baiters. Former Major-General Walker, who led the soldiers into Little Rock, is now a prisoner of the United States for the part he

D-Day Set For Gate City

GREENSBORO — The zero hour of D-Day arrived here at 12 noon Wednesday and there was no sign of when the big push would come from the members of the local CORE program, composed of students from A&T College and Bennett College.

The battle of the bulge was set out in a letter sent to the merchants Association by William Thomas, as president of the A&T Chapter of CORE. The letter purported to give the merchants until Wednesday to comply with what it termed fair employment policies and other unfair practices where Negroes are concerned.

Stanley C. Culbreth, executive vice-president of the Merchants Association told the CAROLINIAN at 12:30 P. M., Wednesday, that the letter had been received and had been passed on to the participating members of the Association, for their consideration. He said the Association, as such, did not plan to do anything about the letter and that whatever action taken would have to be taken by the member.

The stores of the city have been the object of CORE for almost two months. The organization has shown displeasure about the practices of many of the stores and is understood to be ready to begin a boycott. They have been picketing the stores but the letter purported to go further unless their was some inclination on the part

"Wisdom is too high for a fool."

"MUST SHARE THE BLAME" During his Mississippi commentary last Sunday night, President Kennedy said that the whole country must share the blame for the terror in that unhappy state.

Of course we have no way of knowing exactly what Mr. Kennedy had in mind, he did not elaborate.

What we think he meant, what we hope he meant is that the un-

NAACP Official Dies In Dual Pact

TRENTON, N. J. (ANP) — The militant leader of the Trenton branch NAACP was found dead last week in what was described as a murder-suicide pact with a blonde white woman he had befriended.

The bodies of Dr. Arthur L. Thomas, 38, a dentist, and a crusading integration leader, and Mrs. Mary Mucciarelli, 35, the wife of a grocery worker, were found dead in Thomas' basement, ending an apparent interracial tryst. Their deaths ap- Mrs. Mucciarelli parently resulted from chloroform and neither body bore any marks of violence. However, police said Thomas had hemorrhaged around the nose and mouth. They found him with a pastic anesthesia mask over his face. Thomas had been dead about three hours, police said.

His consort in the tragedy, Mrs. Mucciarelli, a mother of three daughters, aged 6, 4 and 2, had been dead about six to eight hours. Therefore, it is obvious that Dr. Thomas saw his companion die before he took his own life.

Although at first police reported there were no suicide notes, a cryptic note was found later, written by Dr. Thomas to his Negro wife, Hermeline, expressing his despair.

Money, Whiskey, Love Lure Two To Death

APEX — Tobacco money, white whiskey and suspected love are believed to have figured in the death of Miss Dorothy Mae Wynn, 27-year-old woman and her four-year-old daughter, near here Tuesday afternoon.

William Thomas Thornton, 31, of Route 3, was scheduled to face Apex Recorders Court on two counts of manslaughter, at 11:00 a.m., Wednesday.

The finger of suspicion pointed to him when the bodies of the two people were found in a ditch. From the pieced together evidenced given from one officer to another the following is believed to have transpired.

Thornton was first arrested for drunken driving about one-half mile south of where the two bodies were found by State Trooper James Huffine. He is alleged to have told Huffine that he had sold some tobacco in Durham and got drunk on white whiskey.

It was believed that he was the driver of a two-ton truck that wrecked, in a ditch, after crossing Highway 64, from the Green Level Road. While Huffine was taking Thornton to jail Deputy Sheriff Connie Holmes got a call that a woman had been found dead in the ditch and there was an injured child near her.

Holmes is said to have gone to the ditch and to have found the woman and injured child. The mother is said to have died of a broken neck. The child was taken to Apex and thence to Wake Memorial Hospital where she is said to have died about 9:30 p. m.

On top of having to face the man slaughter charges, Thornton is said to have had a 25 caliber pistol, in his possession, upon arrival at the Wake County jail.

It has not been determined when or where Thornton picked up Miss
