PREMIER AND MARTIN L. KING MEET—Algerian Premier Ahmed Ben Bella (left), gives a big smile as he shakes hands with integration leader Rev. Martin Luther King, during a meeting October 13th in New York. Fear was expressed in some diplomatic quarters here, that the meeting between the two might be seen as an intrusion into U. S. internal affairs. An aide to the leftist Algerian strongman said that Ben Bella, during the meeting had invited Dr. King to visit Algeria and that King accepted. (UPI PHOTO).

Balfour Burneswell was designated to represent his city and made the necessary arrangements to be housed at the Hotel Kinston before leaving. Upon arriving in Atlanta, Ga., the reservation was confirmed and he was assured of a pleasant stay.

Four Children Perish In Chatham Cnty Fire

PITTSBORO — A working mother of the Holland community came home Tuesday about 3 p. m. and found that her four children had perished in flames that destroyed the home.

Mrs. Graham said that in view of the fact she was going to a nearby farm to help grade tobacco, she prepared food for the children, which she thought would sustain them while she was away.

The family lived in a tenant-farm, three room house. It could not be ascertained why the fire was not seen by someone in the community and exact time of the tragedy.

Accepts Key Role In Crisis

The Commander-in-Chief of the United States military forces has mobilized every branch to enforce his blockade against Cuba, in keeping with his mandate to protect the Western Hemisphere.

WASHINGTON — The Cuban blockade formally began at 10 A. M. E-D-T Wednesday. The blockade took effect under the proclamation signed Tuesday by President John Kennedy.

Early Wednesday, the U. S. Navy began broadcasting warnings to merchant ships at sea not to stray too close to Cuba. The brief broadcasts, repeated frequently, advise use of another route than the normal channel between Haiti and Cuba.

In Washington—high government sources confirmed what congressional leaders learned in a Monday meeting with President Kennedy. That, as a matter of what they call "military expediency," invasion plans are being mapped.

Sources say, however, that it is hoped success in the United Nations will make any such assault unnecessary.

In the U-N Security Council, the U. S. has asked for approval of a resolution calling for dismantling and withdrawal of Soviet missile bases in Cuba.

The Russians immediately countered with a resolution calling for an end to the U. S. blockade.

Castro — in a speech last night—voted the idea of permitting a UN inspection team to enter the country. The Security Council debate will continue today.

Active-duty tours of all Navy and Marine men have been extended indefinitely. It is thought an early step might be to freeze Army and Air Force men on active duty here also.

If the blockade becomes a drawn-out affair, the odds seem to favor a call-up of some reservists under the authority voted President Kennedy by the last Congress.

Navy Secretary Fred Korfh has extended duty for all Navy men and Marines whose tours would have expired before next February 28th. They could be held as much as a year longer.

Claims Brutality Cause Of Gun Blast

David Harvey, 43, of Rt. 1, Garner, who was killed Saturday night from a shotgun blast by his 40-year-old wife, Ernestine, will be buried Sunday at Good Samaritan Baptist Church in Wake County.

Funeral services will begin at 2 o'clock. Mrs. Harvey is being held in Wake County jail. The couple was married 17 years ago.

Mrs. Harvey told reliable sources that Mr. Harvey was an habitual drunk and that everytime he was drunk he would assault her. Violent curse words proceeded each assault and during and after his alleged assaults he always threatened to kill her.

On Saturday night, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey had another of their quarrels. She reported to Sheriff's deputy Bob Linton that she and her husband were riding in their car when an argument erupted. She said that her husband threatened to kill her when they arrived home.

CORE Files Million Suit

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. — In a new and forceful action on the civil rights front, the Tallahassee Chapter of CORE entered a one million dollar suit in the U. S. District Court against three policemen, the City Manager, operators of the Carouse Restaurant in the local bus station, the City Commissioners and the owners of the Trailways Bus Station.

Citing the City Commissioners and the City Manager as having pursued and enforced "a policy of apartheid" in Tallahassee, the suit calls for $100,000 in actual damages and $900,000 in punitive damages. Listed as plaintiffs are CORE members Rubin Kenon, James Hamilton, Ira Simmons and Patricia Stephens.

The suit arises from the arrest of the five CORE members at the Carouse Restaurant on Sept. 25 this year. They were refused service and were bodily removed from the restaurant by local police.

Victim Of Husband's Past Record

GREENSBORO — Like Banquo's ghost, the shadow of a crime, alleged to have been committed by her husband, stalked Mrs. Alice Evans Jerome, last week, and resulted in her being dismissed from the faculty of Bennett College.

The face-to-face meeting with her husband's past happened Saturday when she was called before the Trustee Board for what they termed a hearing on communistic leanings.

Mrs. Jerome has been here only about 6 weeks. She was a member of the faculty at Bennett and her husband is said to be a free lance writer. He was not connected with the school, but the two were said to be living on the campus of the college.

Persons close to the matter told THE CAROLINIAN that perhaps the story would have never been unfolded if Mrs. Jerome had not been active in the boycott of local merchants, by students from Bennett and A&T. The picket is believed to be giving the merchants much concern and they are said to be using everything possible to stop the boycott. It is styled as a "buying squeeze."

All persons participating, except students, are being screened thoroughly. When Mrs. Jerome came

NCC Prof Declares Degree Is No Good Unless Teacher Is Made Better

TAPPANNOCK, Va. — "Unless advanced training makes you a better teacher, more knowledgeable in understanding children, more familiar with better ways of teaching and more successful in leading boys and girls to learn, then the college degree is of no worth or value," Dr. Rose Butler Browne, noted educator, told a capacity audience at the First District meeting here at the Essex County High School.

In her keynote address in the opening session of the annual First District meeting of the Virginia Teachers Association, Dr. Browne, Chairman of the Department of Education at the North Carolina College at Durham, said: "a degree is only important in terms of the difference it makes in your performance."

Dr. Browne, discussing the pressures which are placed upon American education today, cited these three as being the three most often referred to: 1) pressure of Russian achievement, 2) the pressure to produce leaders, and 3) the pressure to develop a clean-cut

DISCUSSES JOB OPPORTUNITIES — Robert N. Merchant, special assistant to the personnel director, United States Department of Labor, discusses federal government employment opportunities with North Carolina College seniors Delores Harvey, Halifax; and James McNeill, Durham. His visit was highlighted by discussions with faculty members in informal student groups.

The former VTA president, who achieved a state-wide reputation in the field of education while on the faculty of Virginia State College at Petersburg, declared, "people who are intelligent are different. Pupils who have idiosyncrasy will not conform to the teacher-made mold, and actually are, Dr. Browne insisted, the pupils on whom the teacher should spend time. These "so-called fresh" kids are in reality the boys and girls in your classrooms who have the potential for

Attack On Union May Cause Possible Split Between NAACP And Reuther Seen

NEW YORK (AP) — Impatience over the slow pace of desegregation in organized labor is precipitating a showdown between the NAACP and some of the nation's top labor leaders over procedure.

Walter Reuther, president of the powerful United Automobile Workers and a civil rights stalwart for more than 20 years, is reported on the verge of resigning as a director of the NAACP.

Ladies Garments Workers Union, angrily quit the NAACP board over charges that the union has been discriminating against Negro and other minority members.

Core of the breach appears to be the techniques of Herbert Hill, the associations national labor secretary.

In an effort to head off a split between organized labor and the NAACP, executive secretary Roy Wilkins has expressed confidence that the differences between the two are only minor and can be resolved. Similarly, the UAW, which Reuther heads, announced in Detroit that it had no quarrel with the NAACP, "but we do believe that certain NAACP staff people have seriously weakened the work of the NAACP and retarded progress because indiscriminate and inaccurate charges which made large headlines but got little results."
