

Hallsboro Native Lands Fed. Post

WASHINGTON (ANP) — The United States Office of Education last week announced confirmation of the appointment of Dr. Edward Warner Brice as director of the Adult Education branch, Division of Continuing Education and Cultural Affairs.

Brice, 46, a native of Hallsboro, N. C., succeeds the late Dr. Ambrose Caliver, also a Negro. The Adult Education section was elevated to Branch status on April 1 of this year.

Organized primarily as a coordinating and stimulating unit, the Branch has direct relationships with and provides adult education services to State Departments of Education in the 50 states and to a substantial number of public and private agencies engaged in adult education in this country and abroad.

Before joining the Office staff in 1958, Dr. Brice served in foreign service assignments for the U. S. State Department and the International Cooperation Administration for a total of eight years.

N. C. Uncle Of Conn. Atty Also Wins

ELIZABETH CITY (ANP) — The family of Gerald A. Lamb, first Negro elected state treasurer in Connecticut, apparently has developed the winning technique of the Kennedys.

While Lamb won some hundred miles away, his uncle, Irwin F. Shannon, also posted a family political victory. Shannon became the first Negro justice of the peace in this area. Shannon, a retired school teacher and onetime mailman, garnered most of the votes cast in the Elizabeth City district of his native Pasquotank county to become a justice of the peace.

Lamb also took a one-sided victory in his quest for office.

Ligon Gives Cheer Baskets

The Student Council at Ligon Junior-Senior High School donated 80 cheer baskets to the Wake Co. Welfare Department for distribution among the needy, as a part of an annual project, last week. Each cheer basket, last week. Each cheer basket and every organization contributed a brightly decorated basket filled with canned goods, fruits, and vegetables. The homes also had a choice of selecting a family to receive a basket or leaving the entire distribution to the supervision of the Welfare Department. Mrs. M. H. Andrews, accepted the baskets for the Welfare Department from Robert Manuel, student council vice president. H. E. Brown, principal at Ligon, made

Housing-Urban Renewal Clinic Held At A&T

GREENSBORO — To provide adequate housing in a community by private or public construction effort, the people need knowledge, interest and American ingenuity. stated Oliver W. Hill, assistant to the commissioner of the Federal Housing Administration, Washington, D. C. in the keynote address at the second annual Housing and Urban Renewal Clinic at A&T College on Thursday and Friday, November 15-16.

Philip G. Sadder, intergroup relations branch, Public Housing Administration, Washington, D. C., told the group that while the federal government is taking only an advisory position, it still retains responsibility for equitable provisions for minority groups.

Other speakers appearing at the two-day meet, which had as its theme: "Adequate Housing — A Keystone For Social and Economic Growth" included: Vance H. Chavley, a commissioner, and R. E. Barkley, executive, both of the Redevelopment Commission of Greensboro; Edward H. Baxter, deputy regional administrator and Norman V. Watson, special assistant to the administrator, both of the Housing and Home Finance Agency; A. L. Thompson, zone intergroup relations advisor, Federal Housing Administration; Gannon F. Coffey, relocation advisor, Urban Renewal Administration; Martin Handrick, assistant director for programs, Public Housing Administration, and J. Howard Grigsby, relocation and property management officer, Atlanta Housing Authority, all of Atlanta, Ga.

Also appearing on the program were: J. Lawrence Duncan, assist-

Y-TEEN ACTIVITIES

BY DINAH WATKINS

You read last week about our World Fellowship program. Well even though the weather was bad but a few faithful did come out to see and to hear about the work of the YWCA in other lands. The program participants were Eugenia Moore, Opening Sentences and Prayers: Francine Blount, Leader, "The Lord's Prayer;" Barbara Moring, Scripture: Maxine Johnson and Mary Collins, sans a duet, "No Man Is An Island;" Carolyn Warren introduced the countries in which YWCA work is carried on. Those countries were represented by Joyce King, Beatrice Love, Gloria Upperman, Ernestine Williams, Brenda McNeill, Shirley Dendy, Mary Collins, Evelyn Lewis, Earline Sills, Daphne Evans, Betty Stokes, Charlotte Wall, Gloria McCullers, Mildred McKinley, Betty Leach, Hilda Austin, Kay Morgan, Geraldine Sanders, Mary Baines, Nancy Simul and Barbara Brodie. Virginia Wall presented the offering: Gloria Hodge, read the "Litany of Thanksgiving;" and Ethel Johnson gave the Benediction. So you see only the Y-Teens participated.

At Oberlin School, there are 22 active Y-Teens having the following girls as their officers: Francine Blount, president; Betty Stahl, vice president; Macine Farror, secretary; Bernice McDuff, parliamentarian; Charlotte Wall, program chairman and Peggy Bryant, social chairman. They are already beginning to get the Christmas spirit by writing Christmas cards to hospitalized persons and planning a surprise Christmas party for one of their favorite people. . . Guess who?

Gloria Hodge, president of the Washington Y-Teens is not going to let Oberlin outdo them. Dorothy Jones reports that they are busy writing Christmas poems and stories to send to various elementary schools.

Oh, yes, Y-Teens, don't forget the Thursday nights at the YWCA are for you. Beginning this Thursday, Nov. 29, Knitting Class will be held by Mrs. Ida Washington. Don't chicken now. When asked if you wanted it you said "Yes" so we're expecting a big crowd of you. Pinochle Class will be held as usual on Friday night, that's the Big Co-ed Dance at the YWCA Extension. Don't forget your "I. D." Cards. They're pretty strict about that you know. And girls, let the boys wear the pants. You're prettier in skirts. Will see you there. And I'll see you all next week.

A&T Receives Chemical Money

GREENSBORO — A grant of $117,700 has been awarded to A&T College by the National Science Foundation for the continue operation, beginning next September, of the Academic Year Institute for High School Chemistry Teachers.

Announcement of approval of the grant was made this week by Dr. L. C. Dowdy, acting president of the college.

He said the Institute is designed for participation by experienced chemistry teachers in full-time study while on leave from their regular teaching duties. The objectives of the Institute are: to raise the level of science subject matter understanding of science teachers, including those who have not recently completed an adequate chemistry major, but who would otherwise be good prospects for the M. S. degree in chemistry; to improve their understanding of the scientific methods through exposure to research techniques; and to raise a few of the participants to the level of science supervisor.

He announced that Dr. Gerald A. Edwards, professor and chairman of the A&T Department of Chemistry and author of the proposal, will continue as director of the Institute.
