

New Titles Provide 5 Possible Promotional Steps

Negro Designated

Extension Agents Get New Titles

New titles for county agricultural extension service workers has been announced by R. W. Shoffner, director of the organization at North Carolina State College.

The new titles provide five possible promotional steps for extension workers. In the past extension workers have been either agents or assistant agents.

Under the new system, one person in each county has been designated "county extension chairman." Other extension workers in the county have been classified as an agricultural extension agent, home economics extension agent, associate agricultural extension agent, associate home economics extension agent, assistant agricultural extension agent or assistant home economics extension agent.

Personnel assigned to work with Negro families have the same title system followed by the words "Negro Work."

Under some circumstances, Shoffner said, agents will be designated as trainees. And in other cases an acting chairman may be appointed to head the county program.

Director Shoffner said the new title system makes it possible to show greater recognition of agent service and ability. Specific criteria has been established for each position. Promotion will be considered each June.

The N. C. Agricultural Extension Service has a staff in every county in the state, and a group of subject matter specialists at State College and A&T College.

Traditionally, the organization's county workers have been known as county agents (or assistants) and home demonstration agents (or assistants). They were officially renamed county agricultural agents and home economics agents in 1958.

Supreme Court To Hear Appeals

NEW YORK — On Dec. 13, 1962, the U. S. Supreme Court will hear oral argument on a protest demonstration case in which 187 Negro students were arrested in Columbia, S. C.

The case grew out of a 1961 march on the State House grounds by Columbia Negro high school and college students.

Jack Greenberg, Director-Counsel of the NAACP Legal Defense Fund will argue the appeal for the Negro defendants. The Columbia case is similar to 7 other protest appeals which were argued before the Supreme Court last month.

The arrests occurred when the group of Negro students from Columbia high schools and Benedict

College met at Zion Baptist Church and organized a march to the center of town to the State House grounds.

NAACP Legal Defense Fund attorneys representing the students, in addition to Mr. Greenberg, are Matthew J. Perry and Lincoln Jenkins, Jr. of Columbia, S. C., Donald James Sampson of Greenville, S. C., and Constance Baker Motley, James M. Nabritt, III and Michael Meltzer, all of New York City.

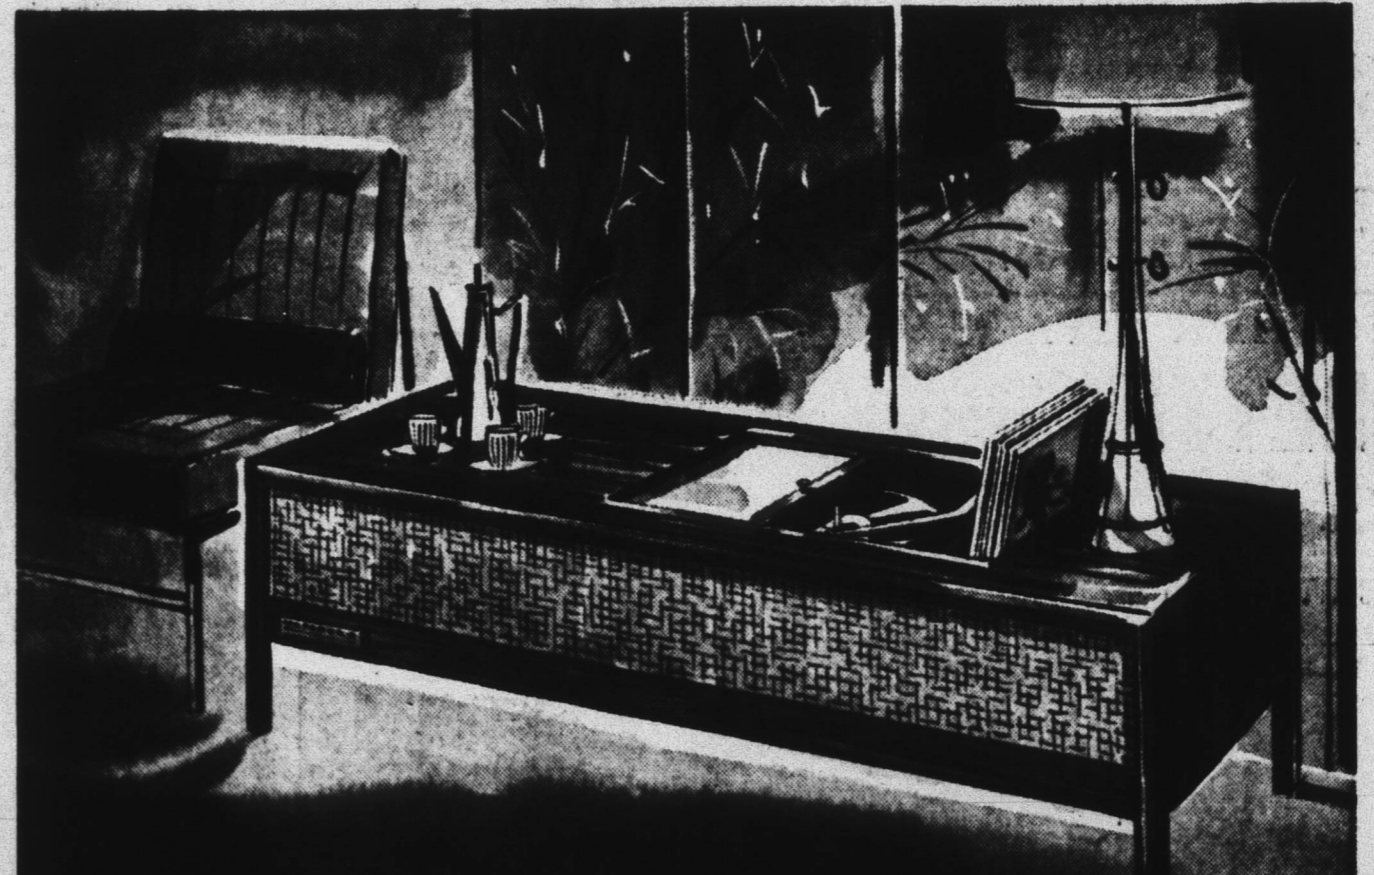

Some 300 to 500 million barrels of oil are estimated by geologists to be situated along the coastal region of Angola, between Louanda and Port Amblom.
