State Schools Request Record Appropriations

State institutions, manned by race personnel, laid their needs before the Joint Appropriations Committee Tuesday. Agricultural and Technical College at Greensboro requested an increase of $1,542,806. Most of this amount would go for capital improvements. The building projects in the request included two new dormitories and a student union building. These facilities had been recommended in the budget on a 75 per cent self-liquidation basis. Dr. Lewis C. Dowdy, acting president of the school, asked that the state share 50 per cent of the cost. Winston Salem Teachers College asked for an additional $506,772. Of this amount, $410,000 would be used to construct a library building and to renovate an existing classroom building. North Carolina College at Durham requested a total of $357,726 be added to the proposed budget. An addition to the existing science building at NCC would take up $288,000 of this amount and the remainder would be used for sale-
