Ex-Fraternity Head Buried After Committing Suicide

ROANOKE, Va. — Persons close to Dr. Harry T. Penn, former Grand Secretary of the Omega Psi Phi Fraternity are at a loss to determine why he took his own life. He was buried from the First Baptist Church, with the Rev. Emmitte Green officiating.

Father said Penn died of a self-inflicted bullet wound in his head. A revolver was found near the body, they said.

Penn's son, who found the body, told police he knew of no reason for his father's suicide.

The 61-year-old dentist served one term on the Roanoke School Board from 1926 to 1931.

He also was the first Negro candidate for Roanoke City Council, running unsuccessfully in 1924, 1928, and 1932.

A native of Lynchburg and a graduate of Virginia Seminary, Penn received his dental degree from Howard university. He practiced here for almost 30 years.

Penn was a former president and board chairman of Burrell Memorial hospital. He had been president of the Western District Dental Society, the Old Dominion Dental Society and the National Dental Association.

Long a critic of segregation, Penn was active in race relations problems of an inter-racial committee that functioned in Roanoke in 1930 to improve race relations.

In 1935-36, he organized Lemasco Manufacturing Co., a dress manufacturing plant, to give employment to Negroes. But the plant later closed because of financial difficulties.

Commencement Slated At Durham Business School

DURHAM — Saturday, June 1 at 3 p. m. will be a memorable day for some 60 odd graduates of The Durham Business College. This is the date of the commencement exercises which will bring together many families, friends and alumni.

The speaker for the occasion will be the Rev. E. Franklin Jackson of Washington, D. C. Rev. Jackson is a prominent figure in the civil rights struggle groups and a scholar. He is the author of two books, "The Pull Crown Minister" and "My Church." Dr. Jackson has traveled extensively throughout the world; and will be able to relay to the graduating students some of his experiences which will help them in future times.

On The Home Front

(From this week from Person, Robeson and Orange Counties.)

LANDSCAPING PLANNED

With a housing improvement program under way in Person County, Miss Annie Tuck, home economics agent, reports they decided it was important to study landscaping.

Three workshops were planned for families interested in landscaping their homes," adds Miss Tuck. "It was pointed out that families should not wait until the house is completed before landscaping but plans should be made while planning the house."

SAVES ON CLOTHING

At the Greenville Home Demonstration Club meeting, Mrs. Bessie Imman gave her clothing report. She reported that she and a junior 4-H leader, Janice Crawford, had helped two families save more than $50 on their clothing bill by teaching the homemakers to make simple dresses and hats.

Mrs. Melvyn E. Stryer, home economics agent, says the Robeson County club members had a dress revue following the meeting.

BUILDING NEW HOME

The Lucy Pinnix family in Orange County are building a three bedroom cement block home by Extension Plan No. 78. According to Miss Bonnie Davis, home economics agent, neighbors recently came to the home of Mrs. Pinnix and helped her refinish furniture while learning themselves.

Miss Davis says the Pinnix family will have open house after they move in so visitors can see their well planned home.

Summer Fun Feature Of Out-Door Cooking

Charcoal cooking adds variety in meal preparation, and is an opportunity to have the entire family participate in preparing the meal. Now that summer is here, more informal meals will be prepared outside.

John Christian, food science extension specialist at State College, says homemakers should keep in mind the kinds of meat that lend themselves to outdoor cooking.

"In the best case, you can use ribs, chops, T-bones, pork chops or sirloin steaks one-inch thick," he says. "And of course hot dogs and cube steaks are good. The ground beef should be 10 per cent lean and 30 per cent fat and be freshly ground."

Christian says pork can be cooked outside by broiling or barbecuing. Cuts that charcoal will are pork chops which are preferably boneless. These should be cut 1-3 to 3-4 inches thick. It is important to select pork with marbling that within the muscle, chops with a large rib eye muscle, and pork that is fresh and bright.

Charcoal broil or broil steaks, cottage ribs or sliced picnic shoulder are also good for broiling. All pork must be cooked well done.

"All cuts from lamb can be broiled or lamb in roasts and tender," says Christian. "Cut in the most demand are rib and loin chops, shoulder chops, and leg steaks. The breasts of lamb usually are broiled and barbecued once added."

Christian emphasizes that the cooking time is important. All steaks to be cooked rare or medium rare should be cooked from 12 to 15 minutes total time. The best way to determine degree of doneness is to cut the steak to see the degree of pinkness.

He warns that all pork must be cooked well done and will take 45 minutes to 1 1/2 hours, depending on thickness of cut and intensity of the heat. Lamb should be cooked medium to well-done. The distance from the coals depends on the amount of heat, but usually will be 6 to 7 inches.

State Federation Of Garden Clubs In 14th Annual Meet

All Gardeners please take note of the Garden Clubs' 14th Annual State Federation Convention, which will be held June 2-4 at A&T College, Greensboro. Make plans now to attend. The theme "Open Age Identification" will be carried throughout the three day session. The banquet show will be held on Sunday, June 3 at 4 p. m. Film shows on exotic Garden Parties will comprise a portion of the convention.

President, Mrs. G. J. Gilliland, is anxious to greet club members at this 14th annual convention. Include this in your June activities and be sure to attend and make this our best convention ever held.

RICHMOND, Va. — Dr. Samuel DeWitt Proctor, Associate Director, Peace Corps, Washington, D. C., will speak at Commencement Exercises Monday, June 2 at Virginia Union University.

In ceremonies beginning at 9:30 p. m. (G.E.D.) in Burrell-Stevens Hall, diplomas will be given to 60 candidates for bachelor of arts degree, 60 for bachelor of science degree and four for the bachelor of divinity.

No Nagging Backache Means a Good Night's Sleep

Nagging backache, headache, or muscle pain when you wake up may mean you are over-exercising, exercising wrong, or are in the wrong position. And that will not only affect your work, but also your sleep.

It is important to know how to exercise properly and how to avoid backache and muscle pain. The only way to do this is by following the advice of experts who have studied the problem for years.
