Rat Poison Kills Husband; N. C. Wife Held For Murder

Ask Whites To Maintain Segregation

N. C. WHITES URGED

DURHAM — At a mass rally in an open field here Saturday night, some 250 white persons were urged to band themselves together to stem what one speaker described as "the tide of invasion of human rights by Negroes."

FAYETTEVILLE — Mrs. Mary Rouse, 32, of Fayetteville, has been formally charged with murder in the rat poison death of her husband, Hayward Rouse.

The former local bricklayer, who had been paralyzed since early May from the arsenic solution, died Monday morning at which time his wife was charged with murder.

Mrs. Rouse had been held in the Cumberland County jail since July 5, after she admitted giving Rouse two doses of the poison.

The woman confessed that she gave rat poison to her mate in a glass of milk about April 25, and another dose in a cup of coffee about a week later.

Motive given for the acts by Mrs. Rouse was that her husband had been "raving around with other women and buying them things. This was the only way I could stop him," she said.

A hearing for Mrs. Rouse is expected this week in Fayetteville's City Court.

High Point Hospital Is Integrated

HIGH POINT — The Congress of Racial Equality (CORE) scored a major victory last Thursday in High Point, when Mayor Floyd Mehan announced the "total integration" of the local General Hospital after a series of CORE demonstrations. CORE leader, Mrs. Della Mitchell, reported the Mayor's commitment and quoted his pledge that the hospital would be "totally integrated immediately."

Mrs. Mitchell reminded reporters of the tragic conditions that led to CORE's action. "For literally hundreds of years, High Point has had virtually no hospital facilities for its Negro citizens," she said. "It is almost impossible to count the number of unnecessary deaths and serious illnesses and maimings that have resulted from this policy of not accepting Negro patients in the full hospital."

Solons May Flee D. C. To Avoid 'Marchers'

WASHINGTON (ANP) — As civil rights officials and Washington police met here last week to plan the logistics for the massive march of 100,000 persons on Washington next month, rumors swept through the capital that Congress may run out on the monster demonstration.

Meeting for nearly an hour and a half in the offices of Washington Police Chief Robert V. Murray, participants discussed the practical arrangements necessary for handling a crowd now estimated to total 100,000 persons.

Such items as comfort stations, medical care and first aid, and out-lining the proposed line of march for the demonstrators were discussed. Arrangements also for feeding and providing transportation were considered.

According to the Rev. Walter Fauntroy, pastor of New Bethel Baptist Church and Southeast Regional director for the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, the demonstrators are expected to converge on Washington by 10 a. m. Wednesday, August 28.

At that time, said Rev. Fauntroy, delegations from various states are expected to call on their Representatives and Senators. If the delegations are too large to visit the congressman or senator's office, attempts will be made to have the legislators come to the delegations.

Speaker John McCormack (D, Mass.) was asked if the reports about a possible Congressional run-out were true. He appeared flustered and finally replied that he had not heard them.

The rumors were that the House would pass the remaining appropriations bills and the President's 13.5 billion dollar tax reduction bill, then take a holiday.

Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, (D, Ark.) of the tax-writing House ways and means committee disclosed that the tax bill, in a legislative limbo for three weeks, is back on the calendar.

On the other hand, almost no le-

Youth Project Designed To Aid Young School Dropouts

WASHINGTON — Secretary of Labor Willard Wirtz and Governor of North Carolina Terry Sanford met on Thursday, July 11, and signed formal approval of a new Manpower Development and Training Act demonstration project designed to uplift the work career prospects of several hundred young school dropouts in North Carolina.

In an initial phase of the project, which will be carried on in three State areas selected on the basis of specific youth employment problems, close to 1,500 jobless young people will be sought out, surveyed, and provided with guidance and counseling services. Subsequently, around 600 of these will be offered training opportunities in skills in demand in the particular area.

Emphasis in this Labor Department special project centers about the increasingly difficult problems arising from declining farm employment and consequent immigration to cities on the part of young members of farm families.

Each of the three areas will be selected on the basis of particular economic characteristics. One will be almost entirely agricultural; another, a commercial-agricultural admixture; a third, principally commercial-industrial with some surrounding agricultural activity.

Nationwide Boycott Of Chain Stores Looms

WASHINGTON — James L. Farmer, national director of the Congress of Racial Equality, disclosed plans Sunday for a nationwide boycott of chain stores which discriminate racially among customers or in employment.

The integrationist leader said he expects the boycott to be launched shortly after the mass march on Washington, scheduled for August 28.

More than 100,000 persons are slated to take part in the gigantic demonstration in the capital to protest the high rate of Negro unemployment and to press for the passage of civil rights legislation.

According to Farmer, some industries have been negotiating with CORE with regard to discrimination in the use of facilities, and also with regard to employment of Negroes who are qualified all over the country.

"Negotiations have been concluded successfully with several of the industries," Farmer said, "but a boycott is planned against others, mainly chain, department and variety stores."

Interviewed by New York's Sen. Kenneth E. Keating, a Republican, Farmer said he sees very little danger of violence during the Washington demonstration.

The interview was for New York radio-television audiences.
