

Frank G. Dennings:

Author-Educator Guest Lecturer
At Elizabeth City College Jan. 9

ELIZABETH CITY—Frank Gerald Jennings, editor, author, and educator, presently with the New World Foundation in New York City, will be the next guest lecturer of the Lyceum Series at Elizabeth City State College on Thursday, January 9.

Hall Auditorium at 8 p. m. The public is invited to attend. On Friday, January 10, Dr. Jennings will be the seminar guest of the Modern Language Department and the English Club at 10 a. m. in Hugh Cole Hall.

From Bars To Bars

MEMPHIS (ANP)—Leroy Taylor, 38, has trouble staying away from bars. Taylor, convicted of larceny and cashing a $113 U. S. treasury check, was given a one hour sentence in a cell in the new Federal building. The short sentence was handed down because he had been awaiting a trial. At the end of the hour, he was released, and walked right into the arms of two city detectives. They put him behind bars again, to await trial on state charges of check forgery.

THE GUEST IS IN THE BEDROOM

JOHANNESBURG (ANP)—Friends threw a party recently for Mrs. Winnie Mandola at her home in celebration of her release after three months and 24 days in prison. But the guest of honor was not among the celebrants. She had locked herself in her bedroom, because she is prohibited by South African law from attending any gatherings.

FOGGY DAY IN BALTO TOWN
BALTIMORE (ANP)—George E. Stokes, 38-year-old chauffeur, was haled before Traffic court Judge William M. Budnet recently on a charge of drunken driving. Testifying in his behalf, Stokes said, "I ran into some fog on the way from Fairfield to Baltimore." Restored the judge, after hearing breath analysis evidence showing .36 percent alcohol. "At that level, almost double the .18 required for conviction, things must have been real foggy."

PRESENTING REPORTS FOR 1963 UNCF DRIVE—Harrie H. Little, director of Public Relations at Livingstone College and Area Adjutant for UNCF; and Miss Yolanda Matthews, a sophomore from Louisville, Ky., are shown presenting funds raised by faculty and students at the 1963 United Negro College Fund Drive to Dr. S. E. Duncan, president of the college. The faculty and staff contributed $1,334.75 while the students gave $1,553.53 for a total of $2,888.28 in annual campus drive. Miss Betty Dargan, a freshman from Brooklyn, N. Y., won the local "Miss UNCF" title and will represent Livingstone in the national contest at Gary, Indiana Feb. 8-9, 1964.

'WHO'S WHO' SELECTIONS AT NCC — These undergraduates are among 30 North Carolina College students chosen for inclusion in Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities for 1963-64. First row, left to right: Barbara Anderson, Barbara Brothers, Elvira Dillahunt, Virginia Dawkins, Gwendolyn Curlee, Jeanine Fitz, Elaine Johnson. Second row: JoAnn Hudson, Vernaline Watson, LaVerne Robinson, Courtney Scott, Joe H. Bravner. Third row: Daisy Dockery, John Fuller, James Robinson, Alvin Johnson, Doris Bell. Fourth row: Charles Cameron, Marvin Bynum, Alma Trotter, Constance Black. Fifth row: Carolyn Skinner, Samuel Williamson, Charles Jarmon, Tom Mitchell, Barbara Walker, James Ferguson. Sixth row: Lyle Horton, George Kinsey. Not shown: Charles T. McMillan.

A Different Kind Of Christmas

DETROIT (ANP)—With the freezing wintry wind howling around him, a 43-year-old blind man, just released from the hospital, trudged downtown Detroit streets, leaning hard against a white cane, a cup in his left hand, begging pennies to tide him and his pregnant wife over the Christmas holidays.

Busy Christmas choppers passed him by; the police ordered him "to move on." After hours of hopeless trudging and begging, the blind man gave up.

The hope of Walter Raleigh Sain in the kindness and generosity of his fellowman flickered out. It was replaced by dejection, "desolation" and depression. Sain, who has been blind for 24 years, decided to do something about his plight; an almost impossible thing.

Sain decided to rob a bank. "I was desperate," he told a federal judge later, so he concocted a scheme, despite the disapproval of his wife, to rob the Detroit Bank and Trust Co. What drove Sain to such a hopeless and extreme act?

On top of his blindness, Sain had just been released from Receiving Hospital, where he had been confined for an ulcerated foot and a bad cold; he and his wife needed warm cloths, food and other pressing necessities. His wife, who is six months pregnant, did not even have a cot to sleep on. The cot was in layaway. He even owed money on his wife's wedding ring. And he needed medicine prescribed by the doctor for himself.

Sain receives a $168 check from the Blind Association, but rent had taken $65 of it, leaving just $33 to live on. Medicine for himself and his pregnant wife would put a big bite into the $33, and food would take more than the rest.

In effect, Sain was broke. His wife had been denied welfare aid, so money could not be had from any other source, except begging, and that had proved futile. The only other way, it seemed to Sain, was the holdup.

He walked into the bank and handed the teller, Stanley McFale, a paper bag and a note, reading: "This man is truly blind. He got his wife in the car. Do not press the alarm. There are four of us. Two is in the bank and we got a fool to get us want. Put all the money in the bag."

He needed medicine prescribed by the doctor for himself. Sain receives a $168 check from the Blind Association, but rent had taken $65 of it, leaving just $33 to live on. Medicine for himself and his pregnant wife would put a big bite into the $33, and food would take more than the rest.

In effect, Sain was broke. His wife had been denied welfare aid, so money could not be had from any other source, except begging, and that had proved futile. The only other way, it seemed to Sain, was the holdup.

He walked into the bank and handed the teller, Stanley McFale, a paper bag and a note, reading: "This man is truly blind. He got his wife in the car. Do not press the alarm. There are four of us. Two is in the bank and we got a fool to get us want. Put all the money in the bag."

He needed medicine prescribed by the doctor for himself. Sain receives a $168 check from the Blind Association, but rent had taken $65 of it, leaving just $33 to live on. Medicine for himself and his pregnant wife would put a big bite into the $33, and food would take more than the rest.

In effect, Sain was broke. His wife had been denied welfare aid, so money could not be had from any other source, except begging, and that had proved futile. The only other way, it seemed to Sain, was the holdup.

He walked into the bank and handed the teller, Stanley McFale, a paper bag and a note, reading: "This man is truly blind. He got his wife in the car. Do not press the alarm. There are four of us. Two is in the bank and we got a fool to get us want. Put all the money in the bag."

He needed medicine prescribed by the doctor for himself. Sain receives a $168 check from the Blind Association, but rent had taken $65 of it, leaving just $33 to live on. Medicine for himself and his pregnant wife would put a big bite into the $33, and food would take more than the rest.

In effect, Sain was broke. His wife had been denied welfare aid, so money could not be had from any other source, except begging, and that had proved futile. The only other way, it seemed to Sain, was the holdup.

He walked into the bank and handed the teller, Stanley McFale, a paper bag and a note, reading: "This man is truly blind. He got his wife in the car. Do not press the alarm. There are four of us. Two is in the bank and we got a fool to get us want. Put all the money in the bag."

He needed medicine prescribed by the doctor for himself. Sain receives a $168 check from the Blind Association, but rent had taken $65 of it, leaving just $33 to live on. Medicine for himself and his pregnant wife would put a big bite into the $33, and food would take more than the rest.

STATES ZETAS MEET HERE — The Emory Health and Fine Arts Center on the campus of St. Augustine's College was the scene of the North Carolina State Meeting of the Zeta Phi Beta Sorority here recently. Shown are some of the delegates who attended. In front row, near center are Sorors Blanche Rivers, basileus of Raleigh's Omicron Zeta chapter; Nora E. Lockhart, national Tammis and keynote speaker; and Augusta White, director of the Eastern Region.

Acid Tossed In Face Costs
School Teacher Sight Of Eye

MINNEAPOLIS (ANP) — A school teacher, member of pioneer Minneapolis and St. Paul families was the victim last week of an unknown assailant who threw acid in her face when she answered the doorbell.

liquid from a container into her face. When she screamed, her husband, Marvin, asleep upstairs in a second floor bedroom, ran downstairs. He called police and officers gave him instructions to wash his wife's face with cold water and apply cold compresses until the ambulance arrived.

The Vets Corner

Here are authoritative answers by the Veterans Administration to questions from former servicemen and their families.

Q—When the VA forecloses on a GI home due to delinquent payments and then puts the reclaimed property up for sale, does the new purchaser also have to be a veteran?
A—No. Repossessed homes may be sold to anyone. In fact, if a veteran sells a home he has bought with a GI loan, he may sell it to a non-veteran.
Q—I have heard VA programs on both radio and TV. Is this considered fair to the taxpayer to spend government money in this way?
A—Most, if not all, of the VA programs heard on radio and TV are being given free public

DISCOUNT SALE!
Every Item At Discount Price!
TOWN & COUNTRY FURNITURE
Western Blvd. at Pullen Park Raleigh, N. C.
PLENTY OF FREE PARKING!

Happy New Year
TO OUR MANY FRIENDS
FIRST-CITIZENS BANK & TRUST CO.
RALEIGH, N. C.

Foreign Students At Bennett
Enjoy Christmas In US

GREENSBORO—The familiar "Til Be Home for Christmas" song, a hardy perennial in this country, was not sung this year by most of the foreign students at Bennett College but the fact that they were unable to go home for the holidays in no way marred their joy.

Miss Lilia Alphonse, a senior, from Panama, spent her Christmas vacation with relatives in Chicago and Miss Sara Birmingham, also from Panama, went to visit an aunt in Akron, Ohio, with whom she has made her home for the past several years.

Off to New York City were Misses Yvonne Hodges and Cheryl Thomas, both of the Virgin Islands and Patricia Piggott of Panama. Misses Lily and Wis Lie So, sisters, of Indonesia, spent the holidays visiting friends in Greensboro, as did Miss Prathin Pattabongs, of Thailand. Misses Elisapeta Seelua and Tagillima Muanua, of American Samoa, greeted jolly St. Nick with relatives at Fort Bragg, and Miss Kate Aseme, of Nigeria, enjoyed the hospitality of Birchrunville, Pa.

Misses Julianah Ajani of Nigeria spent the holidays in New York City and Thelma Morgan of Sierra Leone enjoyed the holidays in Washington, D. C. Misses Marie Nwanze, of Nigeria, and Zenora Williams, of Sierra Leone, remained in Greensboro.

Misses Elisapeta Seelua and Tagillima Muanua, of American Samoa, greeted jolly St. Nick with relatives at Fort Bragg, and Miss Kate Aseme, of Nigeria, enjoyed the hospitality of Birchrunville, Pa.

Misses Julianah Ajani of Nigeria spent the holidays in New York City and Thelma Morgan of Sierra Leone enjoyed the holidays in Washington, D. C. Misses Marie Nwanze, of Nigeria, and Zenora Williams, of Sierra Leone, remained in Greensboro.

Off to New York City were Misses Yvonne Hodges and Cheryl Thomas, both of the Virgin Islands and Patricia Piggott of Panama. Misses Lily and Wis Lie So, sisters, of Indonesia, spent the holidays visiting friends in Greensboro, as did Miss Prathin Pattabongs, of Thailand. Misses Elisapeta Seelua and Tagillima Muanua, of American Samoa, greeted jolly St. Nick with relatives at Fort Bragg, and Miss Kate Aseme, of Nigeria, enjoyed the hospitality of Birchrunville, Pa.

Misses Julianah Ajani of Nigeria spent the holidays in New York City and Thelma Morgan of Sierra Leone enjoyed the holidays in Washington, D. C. Misses Marie Nwanze, of Nigeria, and Zenora Williams, of Sierra Leone, remained in Greensboro.

INSTANT CONVENIENCE
Many products in your kitchen today are instant— instant as they can be! Instant coffee, instant mashed potatoes, even complete instant dinners. But your electricity is really instant! Flip a switch anytime, day or night. Dependable electricity is instantly ready to make life easier and happier for you and your family. Your neighbors at CP&L are always on the job to provide this instant, dependable electric service. Not only that. We're continuously planning and building to keep it that way!

CAROLINA POWER & LIGHT COMPANY
An investor-owned, inspaying, public utility company