

Bennett College Student To Graduate In June After 3 Yrs.

GREENSBORO — Scheduled to complete the regular four-year curriculum at Bennett College in three years, come June 1, is Miss Julianah Ajani, a biology major, who hopes to return as a teacher to her native Nigeria, following a year or two of graduate study.

Miss Ajani, whose home is at Eruwa, about 40 miles from Ibadan, entered Bennett three years ago under the African Scholarship Program for American Universities, and, after passing a series of tests, plus some summer school courses, gained advance standing.

A serious-minded young woman, who, although she likes dances and parties, has not permitted Dan Cupid to ensnare her, Miss Ajani says that marriage is "a long ways off."

When she does marry, it is very likely that the bridegroom will be a native Nigerian—yet unborn.

Elected this year to "Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges," Miss Ajani is a member of the Science Seminar, a member of Alpha Kappa Mu, national honor society and is president of the campus International Relations Club.

DEADLY KISS
ST. LOUIS (AP) — Wesley Ramsey, 21, finds himself saddled with the unwanted reputation of being a "killer" when it comes to making love. Ramsey and Miss Pearlina Washington, 28, were locked in a tight embrace here recently, and suddenly a pistol shot was heard, from close by. Miss Washington fell, critically wounded in the abdomen, and was pronounced dead upon arrival at Homer G. Phillips hospital. In reconstructing the events, police learned that a pistol, which Ramsey carried in his overcoat pocket, accidentally discharged when the two went into the clinches.

Car Of The Year... Ford Lines Get Award

DETROIT, MICH.—The four car lines of Ford Motor Company's Ford Division — Falcon, Fairlane, Ford and Thunderbird — have been presented the "Car of the Year Award" for 1964 by Motor Trend Magazine.

Charles E. Nerpel, editor and publisher, made the announcement here following several months of evaluation of all 1964 models. This marks the first time in recent years that Motor Trend has awarded its coveted "Car of the Year Award" to all car lines of one automotive division.

Company Vice President and Ford Division General Manager, Mr. Nerpel said this year's award was made to Ford Division for "engineering advancement in the concept of total performance, based on high performance testing in open competition."

G. E. Hardin Joins NCC News Staff

DURHAM—George E. Hardin, a 28-year-old photographer-reporter, has been appointed public information officer at North Carolina College at Durham, according to an announcement by H. W. Alexander, director of the college's News Bureau.

Before assuming his duties at NCC, Hardin, a native of Memphis, Tenn., was acting manager of the Norfolk Journal and Guide, Peninsula Bureau, in Newport News Va. As public information officer he will write news, sports, and feature stories, photograph athletic and academic activities at the college, and perform other duties in the News Bureau.

'64 Appliance Sales Set At $333¼ Million

Sales of electrical home appliances will reach about $333¼ million this year in the two-state region served by Carolina Power & Light Company.

These and other aspects of the electrical appliance market were outlined at Raleigh Wednesday night of last week when CP&L's sales personnel outlined to regional appliance dealers the utility's advertising and sales promotion program.

Raymond A. Snow, Raleigh District manager, and Robert H. Pearce, division sales manager, were hosts for the meeting. E. G. Ialey, CP&L vice president in charge of sales, and Howard B.

Hicks, residential sales manager, outlined to dealers how they can join in promotional programs to win their share of the appliance business.

CP&L offers services of its sales, advertising and sales promotion, and home service staffs free to dealers and home builders and others in promotion of electric living.

Appliance sales are expected to reach $5,015,705 in the Raleigh District this year, Snow said.

Classroom Air Conditioning — Provides Right Educational Climate

Class in classroom air conditioning results in the right educational climate — and the right educational climate means comfortable, healthy, more alert students.

Modine Manufacturing Company, Racine, Wis., provides this climate with its new Valuedictorian line of schoolroom unit ventilators which, in addition to their heating capabilities, perform the full air-conditioning function. These ventilators can be used with or without a companion line of modular storage cabinets and accessories.

Modern methods of heating, ventilating and cooling classrooms are dictated by the present trends of school building construction. Today's school design calls for increased use of glass, lower window sill heights, and several other factors which tend to lower material and labor costs.

Air-conditioning of elementary and secondary schools, as well as colleges and universities, is becoming increasingly popular in certain areas of the country. Factors contributing to the up-awing in air-conditioning are: off-hour use of school facilities by community groups; lengthening of school year due to classroom shortages; predictions by leading educators that a 12-month school year appears imminent; and the lowered construction costs of school buildings in which air-conditioning is installed.

These are the building and usage trends which figured prominently in the planning of the Modine Valuedictorian line and resulted in the modern, low silhouette units now being marketed.

The unit ventilators have vinyl-clad steel tops and front panels that provide protection against warping, peeling and scuffing... and against rough treatment from children in general. Naturally, this durability reduces maintenance.

The Modine units, as well as the custom-styled cabinets and accessories, are available in a wide assortment of colors and finishes in baked enamel and vinyl. Vinyls are offered in leather and wood grain finishes, nubby gold-flecked textured surfaces and pebble embossed plain colors. Baked enamel finishes are available in a choice of seven colors.

The broad line of integrally styled storage accessories includes shelf and cubicle cabinets (with or without sliding doors), fixed and mobile bookcases and tote-tray cabinets, a single-piece stainless-steel sink and drinking fountain and a magazine rack.

Mobile units roll on silent, out-of-sight casters. Cabinet doors are bind-free and glide quietly on nylon rollers and are available with locks.

St. Augustine's Students Take Part In YWCA Meet

The Annual Meeting of the Raleigh YWCA was held at the Central YWCA, 217 W. Jones Street on January 21 at 6 P. M. A delicious dinner was served and enjoyed by members of both "Central Y" and members of the East Raleigh Branch. The Rev. T. Marvin Vick, pastor of Kinston St. Methodist Church was guest speaker. Two lovely and outstanding voice selections were given by Herbert Siliat, a student of voice at St. Augustine's College. He was accompanied at the piano by Miss T. Henrietta Johnson, a student of voice and piano at St. Augustine's College. Miss Johnson also teaches piano at the YWCA.

Miss Dorothy B. Austell, president of the Raleigh YWCA presided. New members of the board were presented by Mrs. J. Rufin Bailey and new members of the Committee on Administration were presented by Mrs. Janet Marchena. The meeting was well attended by Y members of Central and Branch; and all were inspired to work for a better, fuller New Year at the YWCA.
