St. Aug. Receives Third Grant; This One For 39 G's

Saint Augustine's College has been awarded $39,300 by the National Science Foundation to conduct a Summer Institute for high school teachers June 22 through July 21, 1964. This is the third grant received within weeks by the local college.

The grant provides for forty participants who teach high school mathematics at the junior and senior levels.

Each participant will receive $75 per week and 4 cents per mile for travel. An additional $15 per week will be provided for dependents up to a maximum of four.

Objectives of the Institute are (a) To broaden the subject-matter knowledge of participating high school teachers and to acquaint them with the fundamental newer facts, concepts and principles of Mathematics. (b) To familiarize the participants with the subject-matter content of the more recent programs in Mathematics in the high schools, and to enhance their ability to understand these programs. (c) To adapt this work to the classroom teaching of the participants. (d) To expose the participants to outstanding men in the discipline of mathematics, so that their knowledge and experiences will be broadened to the end that they will be able to motivate students toward careers in mathematics and science. (e) To supplement formal lectures with a few carefully selected field trips. (f) To discuss under expert guidance, current problems and trends in the high school mathematics curriculum. (g) To give a certain number of qualified applicants between the ages of 45-55 an opportunity to update their training.

Further inquiries regarding the program should be addressed to Dr. P. R. Robinson, director of the Institute, and dean of the college.

HIDDEN EASE
BALANCED BRIGHTNESS is another secret of this cozy conversation corner. The brilliant floral print in reds, greens, and oranges acts as a foil for subtle background colors of walls, carpeting and draperies and creates a dramatic, yet livable, decorative scheme. Niemann, Inc. has scaled this pair of chairs to offset lower ceiling levels in modern homes and apartments without sacrificing man-sized comfort. Wide, loose seat cushions offer hidden benefits because of Eastman Kodak polyester fiberfill. Their neat, tailored appearance is lasting, because the fiberfill does not clump or mat down throughout years of use. Brass ball legs are a handsome accent and give the chairs a convenient mobility.
