

New Charm Film Slide Now Available; Aimed At Girls

NEW YORK CITY—Charm by Choice, a 14-minute sound and color film slide, released last week by the National Urban League as a part of its Education and Youth Incentives program, is the first of its kind produced by a non-profit agency. The film slide has direct appeal to a multi-racial audience, for its models are girls of varied racial and ethnic backgrounds. It shows the ways a young girl can achieve good grooming on a limited budget, yet have a sense of assurance when faced with a new situation such as employment.

are a "Teacher's Guide," and a "Beauty and Charm Checklist" for a girl to carry in her purse as a daily reminder of the necessary essentials that go into good grooming.

Otis E. Finley, Jr., associate director of the National Urban League, in commenting on Charm by Choice said: "This film slide is the result of many requests from local Urban League schools, and character-building agencies for a visual aid to help young girls, and particularly Negro girls, develop self-pride and confidence through personal care and good grooming."

Rev. Cleo McKoy Keeps A Busy Travel Schedule

GREENSBORO—The director of The Chapel at A & T College has a busy travel schedule for the month of February.

The Rev. Cleo M. McKoy, who heads the religious life program at the college, will attend, on February 14, a conference on plans for the conduct of a State of Society Conference for Church Leaders to be held next fall.

He was scheduled to attend the annual meeting of the Division of Christian Education, National Council of Churches, at Cincinnati, Ohio, on Monday, February 10.

On last Thursday, February 6, Rev. McKoy participated in a Workshop for Ministers, sponsored by the North Carolina Agricultural Extension Service and conducted at Kenansville.

Earlier in the month, he attended, at Washington, D. C., a one-day Consultation on Church Union, a meeting which took the initial steps toward union of the Methodist churches with predominant Negro memberships.

Nine Seniors At Bennett Finish Work

GREENSBORO — Nine Bennett College seniors fulfilled academic requirements for graduation at the week, according to announcement made by Mrs. Mary Eady, registrar.

They are Misses Darthula Barlow, English major, of Roanoke, Va.; Francella Bell, elementary education, of Matthew, Peggy Bryant, physical education, biology of Gastonia; Jennie Franklin, elementary education, Warrenton; Rose Jackson, elementary education, Selma, Ala.; Mary V. Jones, physical education, Tampa, Fla.; Amy O. Thompson, physical education-biology, of Charlotte; Audrey Wynne, elementary education, Wilkes-Barre, Pa.; and Nettie Young, clothing-art, of Tupelo, Miss.

On May 30, they will rejoin their classmates for class day exercises which will be followed by baccalaureate and commencement exercises on May 31 and June 1, respectively. Several of the groups have already reported for public school teaching assignments for the second semester.

As the seniors left, seven students reported for the second semester which began on Monday. They are Misses Myrtle Scott, of Rember, S. C., and Geneva Wilson, of Richmond, Va.; freshmen; Elsie Hilliard, of Halifax, a returning freshman; Sandra Huggins, of Luma, O., returning sophomore and LaVerne Chestnut, Clinton, returning junior; Miss Genevieve Williams, of Dublin, Ga., a junior transfer student, and Mrs. Fannie Fountain, of Greensboro, a special student.

Dr. Frank A. Toliver Meets With Apex School Faculty

APEX—At the last weekly evening meeting of the Apex Consolidated High School faculty, Dr. Frank A. Toliver, supervisor of Secondary Education of the State Department of Public Instruction, was the guest consultant. The Self-Improvement Study is being conducted in preparation for accreditation by the Southern Association of Secondary Schools and Colleges.

J. H. Boykin, chairman of the High School Self-Study Group, opened the meeting with a very explicit statement of how the school philosophy was formulated. Various other members of the faculty group then discussed their beliefs and convictions as to the role of the school in our present-day society.

A most interesting and enlightening discussion was led by Dr. Toliver on measuring student achievement and methods of evaluation. The members of the faculty responded wholeheartedly in sharing with the group the different methods of evaluation being conducted in their particular classrooms. Dr. Toliver was quite pleased with some of the methods presented and implied that this was a good indication of the usefulness of the philosophy for it was being integrated with classroom activities.

Also present at this meeting were Mrs. Caesarea D. Debnam and Mrs. Katherine J. Revell, Supervisors of Wake County Schools. Both supervisors spoke in high regards for N. M. McMillan, principal, and the faculty for their forward step for the improvement of the school. Mrs. Revell spoke of the importance of changing the attitudes of the students so that they would have wholesome outlooks on life. She stressed the importance of making each student aware that teachers want to help him. They are in the classroom for that purpose.

The remarks of all the consultants were received enthusiastically by the faculty. Mr. McMillan thanked the guests for coming and was high in his praise for the fine work being done by the faculty. He hosted the group at a coffee hour immediately following the meeting.
