Dr. Edens Discusses Life's Tones

Dr. A. Hollis Edens, executive director, Mary Babcock Reynolds Foundation, spoke at Shaw University on Friday, Feb. 27, and touched on the idealistic tones of American Life.

The American Dream of Democracy, as found in Lincoln's Gettysburg address and found in President Johnson's message as an act of dedication, has been challenged in the past by such men as Mussolini and Hitler, who believed that man would grow weary in making democracy work, he said.

Dr. Edens stated that John Quincy Adams called the American government the most complex and the most difficult to understand of any on the globe, because it calls for the participation of all people; and the individual is placed as the center of government.

In this war to win the minds of men, America cannot win unless we keep our minds and hearts open, our visions clear and our ears tuned to the wants and needs of mankind everywhere in the world, at home and abroad, because those who lead must first know the needs of men and how they behave when these needs are denied, he stated.

Garden Time

BY M. E. GARDNER
 N. C. STATE

The Southeastern Flower and Garden Show will be held in Charlotte again this year. The dates are March 7 through 15 and the place, Charlotte Merchandise Mart, 2500 K. Independence Blvd., Charlotte, N. C.

I wish that I had the ability to impress upon my readers the importance that should be placed upon an exposition of this nature by Charlotte and the southeastern region.

It is a tremendous task and requires the participation of a large number of people: garden clubs, nurserymen, florists, promoters, architects, landscape architects, financial backers and civic groups who take great pride in promoting their cities and regions.

There will be something of interest for everyone. It is unfortunate that many, especially a large majority of the male population, think of a garden and flower show as being only for the ladies. This should not be true. Everyone appreciates beauty, in some form or another, and beauty has so many expressions.

Beauty may be found in the rose petal, a flower arrangement, a table setting. The carpenter, brick mason, tile setter and the electrician all be skilled artists in their own right as they interpret the artistry of the architect and the landscape architect from the drawing boards.

You may see a piece of furniture you would like to purchase in one of the 18 beautifully furnished and decorated rooms. Patio furniture, a new idea in grills and picnic tables or something for the lawn. New and unusual flowers, orchids, shrubs and trees will be in full leaf and flower; you can ask your nurseryman or florist about these.

Proper methods of pruning ornamental shrubs and trees will be demonstrated during the show. Get a schedule and plan to attend one of these demonstrations. What's new in insecticides, fungicides, lawn mowers, pruning tools, fertilizers, greenhouses, weed control and mulches will be on parade.

There will be a fashion show each evening around the swimming pool. Grandpa will enjoy these shows and should be able to slip away from Grandma long enough to see one. He might even take her along with him. For the betrothed, planning something special in June, the Southeastern Garden and Flower Show is a must.

You may even see home beetles in a bottle, and receive instructions for controlling them. However, do not expect to see the kind of beetles that cause pandemonium and for which there seems to be no control.
