

Kitchen Improvement Is Held

TARBORO—Thirty eight leaders and members of Negro Home Demonstration Clubs participated in a training school last week on kitchen improvement.

Representatives from Montgomery Ward and the Sherwin-Williams Paint Company in Rocky Mount, conducted the demonstration on Wall Finishes and Floors for the kitchen.

Homemakers attending the school had an opportunity to learn techniques for finishing kitchens walls, woodwork and cabinets both in new and old homes. Color schemes for today's kitchen was also given. The floor covering demonstration was centered around the kinds of materials used on kitchen floors and the correct procedure for installation along with care.

This information will prove invaluable as the women work to make their kitchens more convenient, attractive and colorful in the 1964 kitchen improvement contest. Each homemaker was given an attractive decorator booklet, compliments of W. S. Clark & Sons, distributors of Sherwin-Williams products for this area.

WATER SHOW PARTICIPANTS — Miss Virginia Flintall, kneeling, a North Carolina College student from New York, demonstrates for three other members of a group which participated in a water show recently at the college's annual physical education demonstration. The day's activities included a symposium, the water show, and an evening demonstration consisting of drills, dances, and gymnastics. ## Value Of Scholarship Not Counted In Dollars

What is the true value of a scholarship? Obviously it cannot be measured simply by its monetary rating. A good case in point is that Noel Carr, a native of Trinidad who is a first-year student at Howard University's College of Medicine.

He is one of two medical students at Howard receiving financial aid from the Schenley Wholesalers Foundation scholarship fund. The grant-in-aid is important to him for the continuation of his studies.

More important is the fact that he now has enough time to devote to his studies which he hopes will eventually lead to a career in medical research.

"I was working four nights a week as a switchboard operator before I received the scholarship help," explained Carr, a Howard graduate, class of '62. "It was getting to be pretty rough. I'd attend classes all day, try to do some studying and catch a nap in the evening and then work the switchboard from midnight until eight the following morning."

"After a couple of months it was beginning to wear me down but then I received word that I had won the scholarship so I was able to give up the outside job and devote all my time to my studies," he said.

Carr was presented with a scholarship award by Charles T. Williams, Schenley Distillers Co. vice president who had recommended him for the aid. Mr. Williams made the scholarship presentation, in behalf of the Wholesalers Foundation, shortly after the first of the year.

Carr is a former soccer co-captain at Howard—in 1961 his team won the NAIA championship—and he was selected to the all-conference all-star team. His older brother graduated from Howard shortly after the end of World War II and influenced Noel to attend the university that has produced more than 50 per cent of all this country's Negro surgeons, dentists and Physicians since its founding in 1867.

Lewis Woods, 25, of Dallas, is a third-year student in Howard's College of Medicine. His education also is being assisted by a Schenley Wholesalers Foundation scholarship. He graduated from the University of Texas in 1961 with a B. S. in physics and is majoring in neurology, which he hopes to practice after he receives his degree.

His scholarship was recommended by Buford Penland, president of Penland Distributors, Inc., in Dallas.

Carr and Woods are but two of about 80 students in colleges all across the country who are sharing in awards made by the Wholesalers Foundation for the current academic year.

The 1963-64 awards mark the sixth consecutive year of this scholarship fund and no other industry member can match the record of beneficence of the Schenley Wholesalers Fund.

iron filings, how the radiation belt forms a circular pattern around the earth in space, with gaps directly above the North and South poles. It is hoped, he explained, that future astronauts can be guided through space vehicles likijhgh through these gaps in the Van Allen belt to avoid undue radiation hazards to them and their space vehicles upon launching.
