

Roomer Slays Bully Who Threw Him Out Of Tavern

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (ANP)—A 44-year-old man told police here last week that he fatally shot a tavern bully after the man broke into his room in the rear of the place and attacked him.

Pronounced dead by the medical examiner after the shooting was John Cole, 25, the man identified as the bully.

He was shot to death by Everett Lynns, who told police he was in his room minding his own business when Cole broke in and began attacking him.

When he couldn't control him, Lynns said, he whipped out his pistol and blasted him in the chest.

Lynns said that Cole earlier had attacked Walter Bradshaw, owner of the tavern, and threw him out the front door.

White Label DEWAR'S SCOTCH WHISKY

GARDEN TIME

BY M. E. GARDNER
N. C. State

I am in trouble. Every now and then, in a weak moment, I stick my neck out and get it caught in a tight noose. This time there are approximately 1,000 ladies tugging at the rope (isn't one enough?).

They are members of 40 garden clubs in Raleigh involved in a project called "HANDS"—"Home and Area Development, Sponsors," and they have been working real hard to win a portion of the $2,000 to be offered in cash prizes. I have the evidence in 40 voluminous reports of accomplishment.

The other two judges, a city planner and a lady high-up in garden circles, have more knowledge of what this is all about than I do so the objectiveness necessary to evaluate the scrapbooks.

The judges are invited to attend an award banquet later this month. For myself, I think I will find it convenient to be trout fishing in the headwaters of Toe River or on a secluded beach at the coast.

Laying all jokes aside, this is an absorbing and rich experience. I have already spent eight uninterrupted hours (except to refill my pipe) and am not half done. It is the best opportunity I have ever had to study social ecology.

In the first place I should like to be highly complimentary of this HANDS program sponsored by the Raleigh Council of Garden Clubs. It is amazing to me what has and is being accomplished and the spirit of unselfishness and cooperation that is evident in all reports.

I feel rather positive that this program is doing more to make Raleigh a beautiful city than any other sponsored program. When over 1,000 citizens present a united front the city fathers listen. The manner in which the municipal government has responded, and assisted, in improving problem areas is most gratifying.

Many of the scrapbook covers are handmade works of art. Others were purchased. But the judge is primarily concerned with what is between the covers. In my own case, I have placed major emphasis on participation in civic affairs and programs.

GOOD COMPANIONS are more to be desired than a bottomless purse.

"America's Businesses Looking For Best," Conrad Tells Student Body

GREENSBORO—An audience at A & T College was told last week that changes in laws will not alter the objectives of businesses in procuring top employees.

The speaker was W. O. Conrad, superintendent of Western Electric Plants in Greensboro and chairman of the Greensboro Human Relations Committee. He delivered, on Tuesday morning, the main address at the college's regular weekly student assembly.

He told the students, "No set of laws, no set of rules will change the practice, because business is looking for the best and business will continue to look for the best."

He said that most businesses in America today are "color blind," not near so interested in who the prospective job holder is, but more in what he can do.

"The color line," he said, "which has existed in the past, will be an almost forgotten period of history in another few years." Addressing himself directly to the students, Conrad said, "Your future will be what you make it, not what you demand, but what you earn."

"People Fighting For Others Do Nothing For Selves," Says Atlanta's Dr. H. Richardson

GREENSBORO — A plea that education make men more sensitive to the sufferings of others was made by Dr. Harry V. Richardson, of Atlanta, Ga., in his vespers address at Bennett College recently.

Dr. Richardson, president of the Interdenominational Center in Atlanta, stated that there is no automatic sure for the ill of the world.

He cited the fact that science has progressed in its study of man but that it alone does not offer a cure. It is important that each man adjust himself inside if there is to be a better world, he said.

"We find people today fighting for a better world for others," he said, "but doing nothing for themselves. Some of us had thought that education alone could do the job and then we see so-called educated men leading the opposition to civil rights."

Stating that every man is his own "heaven or hell," Dr. Richardson suggested three things that man can do to have a successful life in a confused and strife-torn world. Acceptance of responsibility by each individual for his own development, the facing of his faults and commitment to the creative process of trying to be a better person were listed.

WORLD OF NIGHT

At any one moment 40 percent of the earth's surface is wrapped in darkness, the Catholic Digest states.

ACCIDENT ODDS

The odds each year are one-in-four that each of us will suffer an injury serious enough to require medical attention, the Catholic Digest claims.

SEMAFOROS? IMPRUDENT! There are few traffic lights in Italian cities, the Catholic Digest observes. Bolzano (population 90,000), for instance, has only three.

TWO NEW LAWS

make possible a program of low-cost health insurance without medical examination

Virginia General Assembly

North Carolina General Assembly

Special legislation—now signed into law by Governors Harrison and Sanford—makes possible a new program of health insurance. This program is supported by the voluntary effort of more than 45 leading insurance companies.

VIRGINIA-NORTH CAROLINA 65 HEALTH INSURANCE

Enrollment April 20—May 20 only

- Basic hospital coverage for 31 days per benefit period
- Supplemental major medical benefits up to $10,000 during the lifetime of the insured
- No medical examination
- Insurance won't be cancelled because of prolonged illness
- Sons and daughters may enroll parents—signature of insured not required
- Made possible by special state laws

Now you can protect yourself against the high cost of sickness or accident with a remarkable new kind of insurance—Virginia-North Carolina 65 Health Insurance.

Virginia-North Carolina 65 offers you a choice of three protection plans: Basic, Supplemental Major Medical, and the two coverages combined.

Virginia-North Carolina 65 Basic pays hospital room and board charges for the first 31 days of each confinement up to a daily maximum of $12 per day. It also pays other hospital charges up to a maximum per confinement of $125 and physicians' charges for surgery in accordance with a schedule of benefits.

In the event of prolonged illness or serious accident Virginia-North Carolina 65 Supplemental Major Medical supplements your basic coverage to pay specified surgical and medical benefits up to $5,000 in a single year—up to $10,000 during the lifetime of the insured.

No medical examination is required for any Virginia-North Carolina 65 Health Insurance Program.

Enroll eligible parents or other relatives. You may apply on behalf of any Virginia or North Carolina family member 65 or older. You may enroll them without their signature and pay the premiums yourself.

How to keep a wonderful part of Spring all year

Some little boys can hardly wait for spring, because then they can play baseball. A lot of folks consider spring the most wonderful season of the year. And the most comfortable, too.

In your home, you can capture the comfort and freshness of spring all year with an electric heat pump. This unique system heats in winter, cools in summer, and filters the air. Naturally, there is no flame or soot or odor.
