

BSC Seeks 600 Students; Bennett Stresses Quality

Provides Program For Better Training Now

CONCORD — In their Fall meeting, the trustees of Barber-Scotia College reviewed the continuous efforts of this 97-year old institution to improve academic performance of students, voted to set a projected capital improvements to goal of six hundred students and include a new chapel, a new gymnasium, a teaching, and a new dormitory. A grant of $10,000 was immediately made available to improve the department of natural science.

Since the action of the Board referred to above, the president of the College has announced receipt of a gift in the form of a legacy, in the amount of $175,000, designated for a chapel. Construction will begin as soon as plans for this unit are completed.

Recent program developments include a restatement of purpose and the introduction of several new courses in the areas of social studies, natural science and mathematics. A major in biology, a major in history and a new emphasis in foreign languages reinforce the preparation that looks towards graduate study when a student has completed the undergraduate program.

A work of great significance is the reading development program which reaches a new high this year under a full-time teacher. Students may pursue programs of study leading to the B. S. or A. B. degrees.

Fired By Ruby:

Melvin Belli To Speak At H. U. Dinner

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Melvin M. Belli, the attorney who defended convicted killer Jack Ruby, will speak at the 21st Annual Dinner of the Howard University School of Law June 2 at 8 p. m. The dinner is scheduled for Baldwin Hall, Fourth and College Streets, Northwest.

He will speak on "The Defense of the Unpopular Client." Mr. Belli, whose defense of Ruby, slayer of President Kennedy's alleged assassin, Lee Harvey Oswald, created widespread controversy, has recently taken issue with the president of the American Bar Association regarding allegations surrounding the Ruby trial.

The San Francisco attorney has written more than 20 books during his long legal career, most of which deal with techniques for trial of personal injury actions.

The Law School Dinner is being planned as part of the University's third annual series of Alumni Seminars. The seminars are scheduled for the week of Howard's 97th Annual Commencement, May 21-June 8.

Quantity Education Has No Place In Curriculum

GREENSBORO — A continued emphasis upon quality, rather than quantity education, and upon providing the training needed today by young women who desire to take advantage of the many new employment opportunities, characterizes the academic program at Bennett College.

Referring to the number of Bennett graduates who are working in the fields of science and mathematics and others who are attending various graduate schools, President Willis B. Player said:

"Right now, we are thinking about physics. Opportunities in nuclear physics are opening to women. We are adding to our physics curriculum. We would like also to introduce a major in special education. We now have a major in government."

The college is continuing its work with talented junior and senior high school students through its Saturday School and the summer science institute made possible by grants from the National Science Foundation.

"We anticipate using our school plant the entire year with an expanded program, for high school Dr. Player continued. "We may also consider some college undergraduate work in the summer."

THE LIBRARY is the academic hub of the Bennett College campus in Greensboro.

Next fall, Bennett will dedicate and begin use of its new $500,000 health and physical education building, the construction of which is rapidly nearing completion. In the planning stages are a new science building, a new residence hall and the renovation of the present science building for a classroom building.

Because Bennett is, by design, a small college, the addition of another residence hall would not necessarily mean a marked increase in enrollment since Kent Hall, oldest residence hall on the campus, will eventually have to be vacated
